Red Feather Cavalcade Opens 1950 Chest Drive

Constitution Hall Program Launches District Campaign For $4,260,000

(Picture on Page 2)

By Lee Grove
Post Reporter

Greater Washington, a big community with a big heart, last night officially opened the 1951 Community Chest campaign with the Red Feather Cavalcade on the stage of Constitution Hall.

The program, of which Mrs. Harry S. Truman was honorary chairman and Mrs. John R. Steelman general chairman, lilted its way across the stage with members of embassy families, congressional wives and other Washington personalities joining with professional entertainers to put on a show that will set a mark for others in years to come.

Among those participating in the score of acts were the Catholic University Chorus, Howard University Choir, National Press Glee Club, Washington and Lee High School Chorus, the D. C. Keys Barbershop Quartet, and Jack Morton's Orchestra.

Dances, Radio Act

The Washington School of Ballet presented a Mexican dance, "Chiapanecas," in which the audience joined in the dancers' clapping, and another number, "Shubertiana." An octet of Washington radio announcers drew applause with a song, "We are the boys of radio, we are the boys of TV" to the tune of "Goodnight, Irene."

Mrs. Harold Hitz Burton as "herself," solicited Mrs. Bennett Champ Clark as "Mrs. John Q. Public," in an across-the-stage telephone conversation, to give to the Community Chest.

Red Feather Fashions, modeled by prominent Washington women, drew feminine "oohs" and "ahs"

Embassy children in their native costumes offered a roll call of the nations, climaxed by an American square dance. When Rabbi Norman Gerstenfeld as Father Washington announced Korea, the audience broke into exceptional applause. Rabbi Gerstenfeld and Eddie Gallagher of Station WTOP, as Chief Red Feather, alternated as masters of ceremonies.

The Rev. Leo J. Coady, director of Catholic Charities for the archdiocese of Washington, pronounced the invocation. The program concluded with Paul Callaway, organist and choirmaster at Washington Cathedral, leading the musical units in "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," and the Rev. Clarence W. Cranford, president of the Waehington Federation of Churches, giving the benediction.

3000 Persons Present

Among the many distinguished persons in the audience was Mrs. Perle Mesta, Minister to Luxembourg, who occupied the presidential box. About 3000 persons were present, perhaps a sixth of them participants in the program.

A Red Feather Procession, calling attention to the needs of 105 Community Chest agencies, preceded an address by Hugh C. Duffield, general chairman of the campaign to raise $4,260,000 in the Washington area.

Some 25,000 persons who visited Community Chest agencies for help last year were turned away, Duffield said, because the campaign missed its goal by $450,000.

"These are the persons that we must not forget in 1951," he emphasized.

"This year we have an added responsibility in the campaign, that of raising a large sum of money, $230,000, to meet the growing needs of those wearing the uniform of our country.

Post Ad Brings 25 Calls

Mrs. E. M. of northeast Washington placed an ad in The Post, to rent a three room apartment to "the right couple."

As a result of the ad, Mrs. M. received twenty-five 'phone calls and rented the apartment to exactly the kind of people she wanted.

The Post reaches "the right people" in Washington—so if you have a room or an apartment to rent, or if you're looking for a place to live—put a Post want ad to work for you.

The cost is low—as little as 66c and the effort is small. All you have to do is call NAtional 4200 and ask for Classified. Why not do it now?

Church Trustee, Cleared in Sex Case, Raps Police Methods

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

Robert S. Williams, jr., cleared yesterday of the indecent exposure charge of which he was once found guilty, immediately indicted the police department for the way it handled his case.

Relieved by his vindication but still somewhat embittered by his six-month-long ordeal, the 46-year-old church trustee described what it had done to him.

Just two hours before the interview, Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark F. King had nolle prossed the charge against Williams. On a promise of immunity and nondisclosure of identity, King had got a confession, corroborated by sodium amytal tests, from a second man.

Williams, who at the inception of the case had tried to avoid publicity, now was glad to talk to reporters because, he said, "My case could happen to anybody."

When the case was tried, his lawyers sought to exclude newspapermen, who risked contempt of court to assert their right by the present and were upheld by the judge.

Williams acknowledged that it was the subsequent publicity that caused the letter writer to clear him.

How does it feel to be under a cloud for six months? Williams, the man who had known the dark humiliation of it, told his story.

He began by complaining that police, when they arrested him near American University about 5:30 p. m. April 10 on the complaint of two 14-year-old girls, would not tell him what he was charged with.

He ended by relating the phone call he had just made to his 18-year-old daughter, Evangeline, at

Dorothy Bailey Case Argued In High Court

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

If the President sets up a procedure to determine the loyalty of Government employes, is he then bound to give any employe a "fair hearing" which includes confrontation of the accuser and cross-examination?

This issue was argued yesterday with considerable heat before the Supreme Court in the case of Dorothy Bailey, the $8000-a-year Government worker fired from her job on disloyalty charges without being told who made the accusations or without being allowed to face or question her accusers.

Her attorneys, Paul Porter and Thurmond Arnold, agreed with Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman that the President may fire any employe he wishes without giving any reason.

But they contended that, if he once sets up a procedure, as President Truman did in establishing the present loyalty program, then it must be followed in detail by his subordinates, in this case the regional loyalty board and the Civil Service Commission's Loyalty Review Board.

Everyone seemed in agreement that Miss Bailey, who was present in the courtroom to hear the arguments, didn't receive the "fair hearing" called for in the executive order setting up the program,

French Eye 10 Divisions With Our Aid

Could Put Them Into Germany by End of Next Year With $750 Million

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

France is ready to double her defense budget and put ten divisions into Germany by the end of next year—if she can get about 750 million dollars' worth of help from the United States.

This was the message brought to Administration leaders here yesterday by Finance Minister Maurice Petsche, Defense Minister Jules Moch and a battery of advisers.

Petsche arrived from France yesterday telling reporters at the airport: "I am not a beggar; I am a grateful friend." With Moch, who had arrived the day before, he went to the Pentagon for a luncheon with Secretaries Marshall, Acheson and Snyder and Presidential Assistant W. Averell Harriman.

Meanwhile experts of the two governments worked together preparing the facts and figures for the ministers to use in their first formal meeting this afternoon.

Need Raw Material Funds

The French contend that without a steady flow of dollar-financed raw materials and other goods they cannot equip the new divisions in time, and cannot check the price rises and consumer shortages that would otherwise plague them.

They also stress the need of quick and substantial American help to build up a national army in Indo-China. The hard-pressed French army there has just suffered a dangerous defeat in the entrapment and loss of about 3500 crack troops.

The French make it plain that the help they want now, both in Europe and in Asia, is of a short-term, emergency character. They are not seeking American financial help at this time for training, equipping and maintaining 15 new divisions within three years, presumably as part of the proposed combined army for the defense of western Europe.

The French know that the officials of all 12 North Atlantic treaty partners will have to put their heads together in the next few months to estimate the financial and economic impact of this three-year program, and to decide what help each country shall have.

Must Soon Submit Budget

One reason the French want quick American decisions for the coming year is that they must submit their defense budget to the National Assembly soon after it reconvenes next Wednesday.

Another reason for speed is the inflation which is already rising in France as a result of rearmament. Soaring prices and consumer shortages would have a serious political effect in a country where the government is unstable,

Joint Chiefs Plan Bigger Armed Force

2,100,000 Figure Won't Insure Peace, More Will Be Asked, General Bradley Says

Charles E. Davis, Jr.
Post Reporter

America will soon have 2,100,000 men under arms—half again what we had last June—but this will still be an "inadequate" guarantee of world peace, Gen. Omar N. Bradley warned last night.

In a transcribed broadcast heard over WTOP and CBS, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff said a plan is being prepared to expand this Nation's armed forces.

"The Joint Chiefs of Staff," said Bradley, "are working on the total number of forces to present to the President, who will in turn present them to the Congress as soon as they are ready. But that's going to cost more money and take more effort and more men in uniform."

If this expansion program is not carried out, Bradley said, "our chances of preserving the peace will be much less."

Bradley reported that this country's present military plans carry a "price tag" of 25 billion dollars.

10 Divisions by Next June

He did not say how much more money will be needed to expand the armed forces beyond present plans, but said he recently asked a group of Detroit industrialists if they would be "willing to face an annual bill of 30 or 40 billion dollars for defense if it were necessary."

The five-star general quoted them as replying:

"Yes—we will do with fewer profits, if we have to; we will reconvert, if we have to; in short, we'll give you anything America honestly needs, and we will pay the bill if you can give us assurance that this is the best way to peace—and if not peace, to saving our skins."

By next June, said Bradley, the United States will have an Army of 10 and two-thirds divisions, a Navy of 905 ships, two divisions of the Marine Corps at greatly increased strength, and an Air Force of 62 groups, four groups more than has previously been disclosed.

Sacrifice to Be Normal

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff described himself as a "fundamental believer" in the principle that if war can be prevented for 10 years, the "collective community of free nations" can become strong enough to prevent war from happening at all.

But, in closing, he warned:

"America has now entered an era of life which has long been familiar to older nations. Other peoples have lived in and out of the shadow of physical destruction for centuries. Now America . . . is entering a life of light and shadow, in which tension and sacrifice will be the normal way of life.

"We can adjust to it; and we will, because we have to."

Area Builders Beat Deadline With 9000 Home Applications

By Robert P. Jordan
Post Reporter

Area builders eager to beat the new credit restriction deadline flooded Government offices Wednesday with more than 9000 applications for Federal mortgage insurance, officials said yesterday.

The stiffer controls went into effect at midnight Wednesday.

Seventy-five builders filed requests for appraisals on 7400 houses for veterans, Morgan B. Callahan, loan guaranty officer of the Veterans' Administration regional office, reported.

A spokesman for the Federal Housing Administration's District insuring office said 439 applications were received for a total of 1873 units for nonveterans. Of these, 1425 units are for cooperative housing set up under FHA regulations.

Because the controls are not retroactive, builders bombarded VA and FHA offices with plans and specifications for projects still on the drawing board.

The 9000-odd houses, once they have been approved by the VA and FHA for loan guaranties, can be built and sold under the liberal credit terms imposed by the Government in mid-July. For veterans, these terms require a cash down payment of 5 percent of the cost of a house and give him up to 30 years to pay off the mortgage.

Nonveterans, under the July controls, can obtain FHA loan insurance by putting up twice as much cash as formerly required—10 percent as a rule.

Including Wednesday's applications for 7400 houses, Callahan estimated that about 10,000 houses are under consideration for VA mortgage guaranties in Greater Washington.

The deluge of applications set an all-time record, he said. In June, a total of 2520 was received; in July, 2588 (the previous record); in August, 2469, and in September, only 700.

The FHA spokesman was unable to estimate the number of houses approved but not yet started. So far this year, he said, 4402 applications have been made, totaling 10,630 units.

Clarke Daniel, president of the Home Builders Association of Metropolitan Washington, declared that the number of units that beat the deadline would permit construction of as many houses in the near future as in all of 1949, when 9950 one-family homes were built.

This, he asserted, will "nullify the intent and effect" of the new credit curbs

Daniel said that many builders here were unaware they could file applications Wednesday for mortgage insurance under the July controls.

The new curbs are aimed at deflating the housing boom and making materials available for defense purposes.

They require veterans to pay from 5 percent down payment for a $5000 house up to 45 percent cash down payment for a house costing more than $24,250.

Non-veterans must pay from 10 percent down up to 50 percent cash on the line.

Truman to Fly On After Short Rest For Pacific Talks With MacArthur

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

EN ROUTE TO HAWAII, Oct. 12.—President Truman tonight landed at Fairfield-Suisun Air Force base in California on his way to a Pacific meeting with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The blue and silver Independence, bearing Mr. Truman and his staff, took off from St. Louis this afternoon at 2:28 o'clock CST. After a few hours' stop at the base in California, it was to head out over the Pacific for the 3000-mile flight to Hickman Field, Hawaii.

Over the weekend, Mr. Truman and General MacArthur will talk about high strategy in the Far East. First on the agenda will be the wind-up of the Korean campaign. Then will come a discussion of the whole problem raised by the threat of Russian imperialism. Mr. Truman has expressed hope the conference will brighten the outlook for peace.

Traveling with the Independence are an Army Constellation and a Pan American Airways Stratocruiser. One is carrying officials of the State and Defense Departments, and the other 35 reporters and photographers, including a Frenchman and two Englishmen.

Wake Island Meeting Place

Where Mr. Truman and General MacArthur are to meet will be disclosed officially tomorrow in Hawaii, but persons who apparently didn't know it was supposed to be a secret have identified the place as Wake Island.

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross would only say tonight that the scene of the conference would be west of Hawaii. He said Mr. Truman, after his arrival at Hickham Field Friday, would attend a luncheon in his honor given by Adm. Arthur W. Radford, commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet.

Ross said Mr. Truman would take off from Hawaii for his meeting with General MacArthur Friday at midnight.

It will be the first meeting between the Chief Executive and the 5-star Far East commander, and will bring together two men who differ greatly in appearance, manner and speech.

Mr. Truman, 66, prides himself on the fact that he looks like an "average American"; Gen. MacArthur, 70, is so distinctive in appearance that a cartoonist can represent him with a braided cap, dark glasses and a corn-cob pipe.

Unconventional Fellow

The President ordinarily is a friendly, unconventional fellow who inspires cries of "Hi, Harry" from his fellow Americans. Gen. MacArthur is more formal, courtly but not so impetuous. One uses down-to-earth language, the other is more dramatic in speech and written statement.

Aside from their mutual con-

Farm Groups Call UN Flag Foes Bigoted

The four biggest farm organizations yesterday blasted the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Flag Association as "uninformed and bigoted."

The American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange, the National Farmers Union and the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, laid aside their usual bitter jealousies to join in a statement against the three organizations.

"Kremlin propagandists who have been attempting to discredit the United Nations have been given invaluable assistance by groups seeking to block display of the U. N. flag on October 24, United Nations Day," the statement said.

"This campaign is deplored by the American farm organizations which have vigorously supported the U. N. as a means of attaining world peace. The more than 80 patriotic national organizations which are supporting U. N. objectives will not be swayed from that support by the misquided and misinformed leadership of a few groups."

Claims Made on Steel Supply For Thousands of Rail Cars

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

The Defense Transport Administration, acting as "claimant" for the freight car builders and the railroads, yesterday appealed for allocation of steel to permit the building of at least 10,000 freight cars a month.

The proposed program was presented to the National Production Authority. It contemplates stepping up freight car building from a present level of about 6000 a month to nearly 12,000 by next spring.

Representatives of the railroads and car builders told the NPA that they are already having difficulty getting enough steel even to meet present production schedules.

The NPA said the appeal would be taken under consideration and that further discussions would be held before a final decision is reached. That decision, it was assumed, would probably be an order to the steel industry to allocate the necessary amounts of steel products, especially plates, to the car-building industry.

The quantity, officials estimated, would run as high as 325,000 tons a month during the first part of next year. It might require considerable production changes in steel mills to produce more plates at the expense of steel sheets.

In other action yesterday, the NPA issued a regulation to protect individual steel companies from being swamped with an unduly large share of defense orders.

NPA head William H. Harrison issued the ruling, providing a ceiling on the amount of priority defense orders (DO orders) that any one concern would have to accept each month.

Depending on the product, the DO orders which a company would have to take would be from 5 to 25 percent of its total production.

Harrison also ruled that no producer would have to accept a DO order less than 45 days before the first day of the month in which the shipment was requested.

He said the purpose of the new order was to "maintain maximum

Fellow Townsman Describes Assault With Split Bamboo

An Army lieutenant from Alexandria yesterda told how another Alexandrian was beaten by bamboo-armed North Koreans.

First Lieut. William M. Glasgow, jr., of 728 S. Washington st., who was wounded in Korea, said that Sergt. Robert P. Sherman, 19, was the target of the bamboo blows.

"Sherman was coming up the road in a jeep," Glasgow said, "and suddenly a bunch of Gooks came up over the embankment and knocked out his jeep, wounding him. They were carrying split bamboo poles and when they found chevrons in his pocket they knew he was a sergeant so they started to beat him. But some Air Force planes came over and started to strafe them so they ran off and Sherman escaped."

Sherman of 826 Duke st. was a medical man in the same outfit as Glasgow—the Second Division. His mother is Mrs. Violet Sherman.

Glasgow, who was wounded in the chest and arrived yesterday at Bethesda Naval Hospital, also related his own experience behind enemy lines for two and a half days. On his birthday anniversary, August 31, the North

White House Makes It Hard For Doctors to Get Deferment

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

The White House yesterday laid down a tough deferment policy for doctors, dentists and veterinarians who must register Monday for a Nation-wide draft of medical manpower.

The special draft regulations were issued by the White House even as the District Selective Service announced that the registration of medical men here Monday will be held at 10 local hospitals. In the adjacent Maryland and Virginia counties, however, the medical registration will be conducted at the offices of the local draft boards.

The regulations for the special draft, as issued by the White House, make it exceeding difficult for medical men—up through the age of 50—to obtain a deferment, except when the draftee's family would suffer "extreme hardship" or when the community's medical services would fall below "reasonable minimum standards."

Local medical committees are being set up around the country to determine how essential each medical draftee is to his community. However, the recommendations of the medical committees will be strictly advisory, and the final decision will be up to the local Selective Service boards.

Registration on Monday is limited to two categories of physicians, dentists and veterinarians: 1. Those who were deferred during World War II so that they could continue their medical training at the Government's or at their own expense and who saw less than 90 days' service in the armed forces; 2. Those who were similarly deferred during World War II and who served more than 90 days but less than 21 months in the armed forces.

The Army has already announced it intends to induct 300 doctor-draftees on November 15. Inductees, according to the White House regulations, will be chosen first from the group that served less than 90 days, with the youngest medical men the first to be taken.

When it becomes necessary to call up the medical men who served more than 90 days but less than 21 months, again the young-

'Big Mo' Leads Fleet Pouring Hot Shells Onto Coast; Allies Advance on Ground

BULLETIN

ABOARD THE USS MISSOURI (Friday), Oct. 13 (AP).—United Nations warships continued their bombardment of North Korean ports today.

Four east coast objectives were bombarded. Destroyers and cruisers blasted Chongjin, which was attacked yesterday.

The destroyers and cruisers also hit Songjin and Sangopo. The 45,000-ton battleship Missouri switched its heavy guns to Tanchon.

Naval spotters said the Mighty Mo knocked out one railroad bridge and two marshalling yards at Tanchon with its 16-inch guns.

By Bill Ross

TOKYO (Friday), Oct. 13 (AP).—The United States battleship Missouri led a naval force of 37 ships Thursday in a searing attack on nearly 130 miles of North Korea's east coast—almost to the Siberian-Manchurian border.

The big iron and steel port of Chongjin was set aflame as the 16-inch guns of the Mighty Mo poured more than 800,000 pounds of hot shells into the city in less than an hour, the Navy said.

The fierce bombardment, reminiscent of those that devastated the coast of Japan late in World War II, might be the prelude to a United Nations landing, but this remained a matter of speculation.

American and British cruisers, American and Australian destroyers and American aircraft carriers worked over an area extending from Songjin "practically to the very edge of the Manchurian border," the Navy said today. It is 130 miles from Songjin to that border.

The Navy announcement identified the aircraft carriers Philippine Sea and Valley Forge, the heavy cruisers Helena, Toledo and Rochester and the light cruiser Worcester among the attack force.

Communist Ship Destroyed

A dispatch from aboard the Missouri previously had named the British cruiser Ceylon and the Australian destroyer Warramunga as also in the action. An as yet unidentified Canadian ship participated.

Planes from the Valley Forge destroyed a Communist small escort vessel and silenced shore batteries.

By noon yesterday, the carrier-based planes had flown 193 sorties during a 24-hour period.

Troops, Supply Lines Blasted

They blasted troop concentrations, mortar positions and supply lines in the vicinity of Changyon, 65 miles southwest of Pyongyang. They also pounded the nearby island of Cho.

United Nations ground troops were advancing relentlessly on the North Korean capital of Pyongyang from the south and southeast against weakening Red resistance.

The attack on Chongjin, on the northeast coast, could be the softening-up process for an Allied landing, or it could be a diversion to draw attention from a landing elsewhere. It also could be merely a routine smash at targets of opportunity.

The September 15 Allied landings at Inchon, on the west coast, which led to smashing of the Red invasion of South Korea, were

Hershey Advocates Draft of 18-Year-Olds

By Thomas Winship
Post Reporter

Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey yesterday suggested induction of 18-year-olds as one way to stave off a veterns draft.

"I think you should draft 18-year-olds the director of Selective Service said at a luncheon meeting of the American Veterans' committee. "And I am not adverse to having 17-year-olds in uniform if they volunteer and have finished high school."

He conceded authority to induct 17-year-olds is "out of the question historically" and is "getting into pretty dangerous territory."

"There are about ten million 18-year-old men in this country, a very rich source of manpower," Hershey said.

"If you can sell an 18-year-old draft," he told the AVC, World War II veterans could be "wholly" exempted.

From the youth's own viewpoint, he would be far better off "to get it over with" before he started specialized study or began a regular job, the Selective Service director argued.

"Congress must face the veterans and 18-year-old draft questions sooner or later," he told reporters after the meeting.

Hershey repeatedly emphasized his belief that the draftable age group should be kept at 26 years and below, if possible.

In a lively question-and-answer period, Hershey said the Army was only taking able-bodied men at the present time, and said he thought men probably would not be drafted for "housekeeping" jobs for some time to come.

A veteran in the audience asked the general: "Why should there be any deferments for students or specialists? Let the Army train the specialists it needs."

"I have some sympathy with your viewpoint," Hershey replied," but I can't go along with you. I want the Army out looking for the burglar, keeping him away; not worrying about a dripping faucet inside. Let's not make a plumber out of the the Army. Training our people is the job of the citizenry."

The outspoken draft boss took a jab at the military forces' policy of paying doctors $100-a-month bonus for volunteering.

"I never figured the guy should be paid any more for treating me than I got for being sick," said the general with 30 years Army service behind him.

Servicemen's Hospitality Units Named

The Armed Forces Hospitality Committee yesterday created five subcommittees to set about its job seeing to it that Washington is a good leave town for military personnel.

One of the first tasks—finding a centrally located information center—was accomplished before a committee was appointed for the purpose.

District Commissioner John Russell Young, who addressed the District Building meeting, said the group could have two rooms on the ground floor of the building. They are occupied now by civil defense officials, who will move to the National Guard Armory in a week or 10 days.

Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, chairman of the committee, designed to coordinate all District civilian activities for servicemen, said he hoped the center could start its work of telling servicemen where to sleep, go to church and find entertainment before the committee's next meeting on November 9. Representatives of the Military District of Washington and the Potomac Naval Command emphasized the need for this work.

White House Toughens Doctor Deferment

est men will be the first to be tapped.

Later on, sometime before January 16, 1951, all other medical men under 51—except reservists—will be registered, and these, too, will be called on a youngest-first basis.

Just how manw physicians, dentists and veternarians have to register on Monday appears to be anybody's guess. Estimates range from 5000 to 19,000. In the District, the high estimate is 1000.

The medical men who registered will be classified as 1-A automatically unless they qualify for exemption or deferment as follows:

I-A-O, conscientious objectors not opposed to noncombatant service; IV-E, conscientious objectors opposed to all military service; I-D, members of the reserve components of the armed forces; II-A, persons whose services in the community are necessary to maintenance of the national health, safety or interest, and who cannot be replaced in the community.

III-A, persons whose induction would result in extreme hardship and privation to a wife, child or parent; IV-A, the sole surviving son of a family which has lost one or more children in the line of duty; IV-F, persons physically, mentally or morally unfit for military service; V-A, persons 51 or older; I-C, persons on active duty in the armed forces, or who entered active duty after the date fixed for registration, and were later honorably released or discharged from service.

The medical draftees will serve, just as the GI draftees, not more than 21 months. Physicians, dentists and veterinarians facing the prospect of draft induction may still volunteer for active service and get a $100-a-month bonus along with their officers' pay. No cut-off date has yet been set for such voluntary premium-pay entry into the armed forces.

The White House order provides that medical men who become delinquent by failing to register will be classed I-A or I-A-O and ordered to report for induction before any other registrants, even though they have not been found acceptable for service.

In the District, registration for physicians, dentists and veterinarians will be held from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. at the following hospitals: Freedmans, Gallinger, Garfield, Georgetown University, Mount Alto, Providence, Sibley and St. Elizabeths. Also, at the local draft headquarters, 1901 D st. nw.

In the nearby areas, registration will be held at the draft board offices as follows: Alexandria, 2d floor of Alexandria National Bank Building, 101 North Royal st.; Fairfax County, Jesse Building, opposite the courthouse in Fairfax; Arlington County, 2043 Wilson blvd., Clarendon; Montgomery County, Jesup Blair Community House, Silver Spring, Bethesda-Chevy Chase Recreation Center; Norwood drive, Bethesda, and the Rockville Postoffice; Prince Georges County, Pollack Building, Upper Marlboro, and the County Service Building, Hyattsville.

District Selective Service Director William E. Leahy emphasized yesterday that the medical men who may have registered before under the Selective Service Act of 1948 must register again Monday and bring along their earlier draft classification cards.

Noisemakers Which Sound Like Artillery Foster Research Toward Making Homes Quiet

Noisemakers which produce sounds comparable to the firing of a whole battalion of field artillery may some day make American homes and factories quieter.

Dr. James R. Killian, jr., president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, discussed the new attack with noise at an "MIT Independence Dinner" here last night, at Hotel Washington.

The noise-making apparatus, he said, is housed in a 500,000-pound test chamber at the institute's acoustics laboratory.

"With the aid of this remarkable equipment, our research scientists believe they can make real progress toward quieter, more restful homes and offices by learning now to provide better sound insulation in walls," he told the dinner meeting of MIT alumni and their friends.

As Dr. Killian explained it, the sound source for testing purposes is an array of 256 small loudspeakers mounted close together in a panel of 16 rows of 16 speakers each. In unison, he said, the 256 speakers give out with more than 12 times the power of the public address system of Yankee Stadium, in New York.

Their sound is directed against a wall, behind which microphones pick up and register "contour maps" of what comes through, the speaker said. In this way, he added, the scientists expect to determine which "soundproof" building materials let in the least noise from a musical neighbor's French horn, shrieking babies or blatant radios.

Last night's dinner was arranged by the local MIT alumni to further the institute's program of expansion and development in various important fields of science and engineering. Some $4,100,000 still needs to be rasied to cover the Cambridge institute's 20-million-dollar program, the speakers said.

War Certain 'Unless', Soviet Writer Says

OSLO (Norway), Oct. 12 (AP).—Soviet writer Ilya Ehrenberg told newsmen here today war is inevitable within the next two or three years unless the rearmament race is halted now.

Declaring that the chief problem today is to find a way for East and West to go on living side by side, Ehrenberg said. "It would be foolish to let the weapons prove which of the two systems is right."

USSR Asked to Prove Peace Moves Genuine

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 12 (AP).—Kenneth Younger, British Minister of State, called on Russia's Andrei Vishinsky today "to give us some indication he really has a genuine intention of trying to reconcile differences."

It was the West's answer, in the 60-nation assembly political committee debates on the Acheson plan, to two Russian proposals demanding Big Five security talks and a speed-up of efforts to organize U. N. forces under Security Council supervision.

In another major development, the Soviet Union used its veto in the Security Council to block the reelection of U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie but legal experts at the U. N. said the Assembly might be able to extend his term, possibly for three years.

The Council vote was nine in favor of Lie. The Soviet Union opposed, and the eleventh member, Nationalist China, abstained.

Jacob A. Malik, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, then proposed Zygmunt Modzelewski, Foreign Minister of Poland, for the post and he was promptly voted down by the Western powers.

With this stalemate, the Council drafted a letter to the Assembly stating that it was not able to make a recommendation. This left the way open for the Assembly to vote an extension of Lie's term.

Younger's statement in the Assembly's Political Committee matched U. S. reaction: The Soviet proposals are not new, they were provided for long ago in the Charter, and only Russian obstruction for four years has stood in the way of making them effective.

Bolivia, Mexico and Venezuela brought to 27 the nations indorsing the general aims of the Acheson plan. Two countries have been on the fence and four of the five countries in the Russian bloc have already spoken against it.

The American-backed seven-power plan provides for quick emergency Assembly sessions when the Security Council fails to act on an aggression; setting up U. N. armed force units in every country; peace patrols to report on trouble spots; and a commission to survey U. N. member resources for a common defense pool.

Vishinsky absented himself from the morning session to work on the final Russian statement and missed hearing a Bolivian denunciation of his action in dictating the appointment of a cabinet in Roumania.

Younger said that to read the text of Vishinsky's proposals "one would think that he was producing brand new ideas, but in fact, as all members know, we have been trying for nearly five years to bring Article 43 into operation but always we have met with the most stubborn Sovieit obstruction."

This referred to the handling of U. N. forces through the Security Council's military staff committee. The Russians have never agreed with the majority on the committee and have boycotted it since last January over the Chinese representation issue.

They continued that boycott at a committee meeting today although they ended one in the economic and social council and remained there after they lost a new attempt to oust the Nationalist Chinese and get the Chinese Communists seated.

In the political committee, Younger said everybody is out of step but Johnny, and Vishinsky was playing the role of Johnny. "It is no joke, it is a tragedy," Younger remarked.

He said four-power meetings have failed, especially on Germany and the Austrian treaty.

But he added that "we will now look forward with cautious hopefulness to his elaboration of his proposals."

Younger said he hoped that the whole Assembly would agree to make the charter, "something more than a paper shield."

Ukrainian and White Russian speakers hammered hard on the principle of big power agreement as the key to real peace and charged that the Acheson proposals were an attempt to alter the U. N. Charter and insure United States domination of the world.

Numerous delegates endorsing the seven-power resolution have also praised provisions of a Chilean peace resolution, calling for a U. N.-wide non-aggression pact and asserting that a firm base of peace had to consider world economic conditions and guarantee fundamental human rights.

Landing at Inchon Halted Reds Looting Textile, Power Plants

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 12 (AP).—The planned looting of textile and power facilities by beleaguered Korean Communists was interrupted when United Nations forces landed at Inchon, an official of the Economic Cooperation Administration disclosed today.

A report by Allen Loren, deputy ECA mission chief in Korea, said the Reds in Inchon had removed textile machinery from plants and were preparing to move it northward. The equipment, covered with straw bags, had been well-oiled for shipment, Loren said. Two large lathes already were on flatcars.

At Yongdungpo, between Inchon and Seoul, only 3500 textile spindles remained of an original 1[illegible],000, Loren reported. Of 5000 looms 3500 remained.

In Seoul the Tanginri steam power plant's transformers had been removed and made ready for packing, the report said. These have been reinstalled.

A major problem was to locate and reassemble the missing machinery of various plants.

Loren said the ECA will concentrate on procurement of materials for rehabilitation. Most needed are cotton and rubber, some quantities of which are being shipped from Japan. A plant in Pusan will turn 250 tons of rubber into tennis shoes, favored footwear with Koreans.

Fertilizer, likewise essential, is available at Pusan but cannot be distributed in time for planting because of transportation difficulties. The Army is repairing railroads but a great need exists for restored bridges, the ECA official said.

Kenney Hails Air Force In Korea War

By the United Press

Gen. George C. Kenney said yesterday the Air Force was the "dominant factor" in the Korean campaign.

"Ground troops stayed on the peninsula because the Air Force made it possible," Kenney said in an interview. The Air Force general, commandant of the Air University of Montgomery, Ala., returned this week from the Far East.

Kenny said that while United Nations ground forces fought a delaying action back to the Pusan perimeter, the Air Force hammered every possible target, knocking out Communist North Korean supply and communications lines and smashing Communist efforts to bring up reserves

This constant pounding by the Air Force made it possible not only to hold the peninsula, but finally to start the offensive against the North Koreans, Kenney said.

He described the North Koreans as "fanatically brave." He also said the conflict may have been different if the North Koreans had had an air force to combat U. N. planes. Even an air force substantially smaller than that thrown against them by the U. N. may have caused serious trouble, Kenney said.

The North Koreans had a lot of troops in the fighting. Kenney said, but American and U. N. aircraft were able to prevent them from bringing up reinforcements when the North Koreans needed them.

This smashing of reserves and communication lines was especially important during the early phases of the campaign, he said, when the North Korean forces had the South Korean defenders and U. N. forces outnumbered 10 or 15 to 1.

He ventured a personal guess as to what may have happened to the estimated 40,000 to 70,000 North Korean troops who are reported to have vanished since the U. N. forces began their counter-offensive during the late stages of the Pusan campaign, he said, thousands such troops actually were South Koreans who had been drafted into the North Korean forces.

Kenny expressed the belief that these South Koreans merely "took off their uniforms and went home."

Separate North Korean Rule Ordered by U. N. Pending Vote

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Oct. 11 (U.P.).—The United Nations today advised Gen. Douglas MacArthur to limit authority of the Syngman Rhee government to South Korea and set up a new civil government in liberated areas of North Korea.

This policy, running counter to the announced wishes of the Rhee government, was adopted unanimously by the seven-nation interim Korean committee set up last week to start planning for postwar unification of the war-battered nation. It would remain in force pending postwar nation-wide elections for a unified government for all Korea.

The committee, under the chairmanship of Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines, was formed to "advise and consult" with MacArthur's unified command on unification and recovery of Korea until the new permanent Korean commission arrives on the scene. The new group, composed of the seven nations in the interim group, is expected to reach Korea in about six weeks.

The important policy action on Korea coincided with these other main U. N. developments:

1. The Economic and Social Council held its first meeting to plan relief measures for Korea, but the main business was held up more than two hours by a debate over a new Russian attempt to oust the Chinese Nationalists. The Soviet resolution finally was beaten, 11-7.

2. Col. Alfred G. Katzin, personal representative of Secretary Trygve Lie in Korea, reported that hostilities probably will cease in "a very short time."

The proposal to keep the Rhee government from extending its civil authority to North Korea as MacArthur's armies advance was made earlier this week by Australia. At a closed meeting of the interim committee this morning, five of the other six members approved this policy, and the Netherlands delegate received similar instructions a short while later.

The committee's unanimous action, it was understood, was cabled immediately to MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo, the other committee members—in addition to Australia, Netherlands and Philippines—are Chile, Pakistan, Thailand and Turkey.

The approved Australian proposal contained these recommendations:

1. That officers of the various national armies fighting for the U. N. in Korea be attached to the interim civil government.

2. That the unified command keep the committee informed on how these recommendations are carried out.

Behind the move to keep Rhee's government south of the thirty-eighth parallel was the feeling of a number of delegations that the North's resistance will diminish if it is assured the U. N., rather than Rhee, will take over until elections are held.

Foxhole Service Draws Frown

TOKYO, Oct. 12 (U.P.).—American GIs in Korea did not exactly greet with joy the announcement today that the Army post exchange stores offered them foxhole service for the Christmas season.

Red Cross women volunteers in Tokyo and Yokohoma will team up with the PX officials in "Operation Santa Claus," designed to make Christmas shopping easier for the men in Korea than it ever was back home.

The Army will hand out order blanks will all the elaborate PX stocks listed, sell the soldiers money orders and turn over their orders to the Red Cross volunteers who will make the purchases, gift-wrap the parcels and do all the waiting in line to get them mailed home.

It will be pointed out to the GIs that the service is not being offered because PX officials are certain that the war will last through Christmas, but that the Christmas shopping season already is on because of the shipping time across the Pacific.

GIs Hear They Will Stop at 40th Parallel

By Marguerite Higgins

WONSAN, North Korea, Oct. 12 (NYHT).—The South Korean Army, flushed with its victory at Wonsan, was told today that its mission would be to chase the Communists up to the Manchurian border.

South Korean Defense Minister Shin Sun Mo told assembled officers of the Republic of Korea Capital Division and Third Division that the South Korean forces would not stop till they had liberated all of Korea up to its northern borders at the Tumen and Yalu Rivers.

This afternoon both of the R.O.K Divisions already were on the march north and west. They have 150 miles to go—as the crow flies—until they reach the Tumen River.

Rumors here have it that only the South Koreans will march clear the border, and that American and other United Nations troops will be stopped at the fortieth parallel.

It is the best guess of top South Korean officials that the Reds plan to pull back across the Manchurian border, making harassing raids back into Korea.

The American Air Force opened its first airfield in North Korea at Wonsan today.

We flew into the strip, which is overgrown with grass, in huge C-82 flying boxcars laden with critically needed ammunition and heavy equipment for the South Korean troops now pushing north and west of this smoking city.

Motar shells still spattered into the important port city. We could see fleets of American fighters dive-bombing the islands dotting Wonsan Bay. The bomb bursts spurted great geysers into the October haze.

"We believe there may be thousands of Red soldiers dug in on those islands," said Captain Odell W. Smathers of Winston-Salem, N. C. "It appears that the Reds expected an amphibious landing rather than an attack by land. All their big guns face the sea."

Last night in one final destructive flurry, the North Koreans sent five tanks ranging through Wonsan streets in a harassing raid. The tanks, accompanied by 500 infantrymen, penetrated nearly a thousand yards into the town, burning and battering the buildings, before they turned around and backed off.

The mark of Red Russia is stamped all over Wonsan, the largest North Korean city seized to date. A huge marble monument topped with a red star bore a slogan praising Stalin, "our defender against American imperialism." American military advisers found Russian money strewn about some of the office buildings. Signs written in both Korean and Russian turned up on many street corners and buildings.

Wonsan appears virtually deserted. This is a startling contrast with past experience of advancing United Nations forces. One of the worst hazards in the fighting to date has been the teeming civilian population

49 Miles From Siberia

Chongjin is an iron and steel port of 190,000 population, 49 air miles southwest of the Korean-Siberia border and 43 miles southeast of the Korean-Manchuria border at the closest points. It is linked by rail with the rest of North Korea and with Manchuria.

Carrier-based planes rocketed the city for two days before the attack from the sea opened Thursday.

The United States Cruiser Helena led the sea strike with a quick shelling from close up, with her 8-inch guns. Then the ponderous Missouri began throwing in one-ton missels from three of her nine 16-inch guns.

The United States Cruiser Worcester, the British Cruiser Ceylon, and the Australian Destroyer Warramunga also participated.

City Afire After an Hour

AP Photographer-Correspondent Gene Herrick, who watched the assault from the decks of the Missouri, said part of the city was ablaze after one hour of shelling.

Herrick said a Canadian ship also joined the attack but he did not identify it.

Capt. Jeffrey Brock of the Canadian Navy said that in addition to the Chongjin attack, three canadian destroyers on patrol had hit east coast points. He did not identify them. He added that the Reds appeared to be hurriedly digging in, expecting an assault from the sea.

Herrick quoted a Navy officer as saying the results of the Missouri's attack were good.

Vice Adm. Arthur D. Struble, commander of the task group operating off the east coast of North Korea, told Herrick aboard the Missouri, "we have a 400-round allowance for today." He apparently meant 16-inchers — a tremendous quantity of such big shells.

The fact an allowance had been set for Thursday indicated the shelling probably would continue.

There were no official reports on results of the Chongjin bombardment at Navy headquarters in Tokyo or Washington.

Navy headquarters in Washington at first said its reports mentioned only the smaller port of Songjin, 83 miles southwest of Chongjin, but later said Chongjin was the scene of the big bombardment.

Navy planes hit Songjin, Chongjin and many other points all along the North Korean east coast prior to the Missouri's bombardment.

The fact the big ship was busy with operations against the North Korea coast ruled out speculation that she might be the scene of the forthcoming weekend meeting between President Truman and General MacArthur.

Red Army Is Falling Back

In the ground action of the Korean war, the weakening Red army was falling back before the Allies in the central sector of the 130-mile front in North Korea.

A spokesman for General MacArthur said the pullbacks might signal a general retreat toward Pyongyang, which the Reds expected to defend in do-or-die fashion.

The stiffest resistance came from the ends of the line in the form of small-arms fire—not the pulverizing artillery and tank power which the Reds once threw with abandon when they were heavy with Russian-built war material and were invading deep into South Korea with victory-flushed troops.

Most of the Red equipment now is gone—smashed or captured—and the bulk of the army is out of action too—killed, captured or wounded.

There was a lack of firm news from the fighting front, but headquarters officers attached no significance to this.

War correspondents with the battleline units apparently were in one of their frequent out-of-touch periods. As the Allied forces ground northward, the correspondents were getting farther from communications contacts.

United States Eighth Army headquarters moved Thursday from Taegu to Seoul. There was no official statement on the switch that put the ground command almost 125 miles nearer to the front where the United Nations is expected to mount a final win-the-war offensive soon.

Spokesmen at MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters told of Red pullbacks along large sectors of the front. Authorities reported an estimated 3000 to 5000 Communist troops were retreating from Pyongyang, 28 miles deep in Pyonggang, 28 miles deep in North Korea, was the apex of a Red defense triangle which South Korean troops captured in stubborn and fierce fighting.

On the east coast, the story was much the same. The Reds fell back westward toward their capital of Pyongyang, from Wonsan port, lost to the South Koreans.

There was no report on progress of the U. S. First Cavalry Division and British Commonwealth troops advancing on Pyongyang from the south. Their forward elements were last located 12 miles north of the Red Korea border, preparing to close a pincers on the Red defense center of Kumchon.

American B-29s and other warplanes kept up their running attack on the dwindling North Korean war potential. Their latest strikes were against key highways and warehouses in and near five major North Korean cities.

Fighter planes were unable to deliver all-out attacks Thursday because of bad weather.

Planes Routed Reds Beating Alexandrian

SERGT. ROBERT P. SHERMAN
. . . beaten with bamboo poles

Koreans attacked in front of his platoon.

"They cut through us and were in back and on both flanks," said Glasgow, a handsome fellow of medium build. "We tried to stand, then fell back on the reserve platoon but found that it had been hit and had withdrawn."

He and eight other men, two of them wounded, were pinned down in a rice paddy. "My foot stung and I thought I had it," he said; "but it was just a glancing blow and knocked a nail out of my shoe." He was hit once before in the forearm—"just a scratch," he said.

The rest of his battalion also was cut off behind enemy lines and the following morning the platoon rejoined it after wading and swimming through a lake two miles wide. "It was foggy, so we yelled at the boys (in the battalion). They could tell GI voices, of course, so we went in."

"We fixed bayonets after the ammo ran out, but we didn't have to use them because the Air Force supplied us by C-47. We held out for another day and finally broke out with tanks. We made contact with another battalion that had just broken through the roadblock and we rejoined the division."

Once, he said, he and his platoon sergeant had a North Korean cornered. As they approached him, yelling for him to surrender, the North Korean merely turned his head to one side and put up his hands.

"He was acting suspicious," said Glasgow, "so we shot him. When we got to him he had a grenade stuck in his mouth, like an apple, with the pin pulled out. He was going to drop it when we got to him and kill us all."

Glasgow is the son of retired Army Capt. and Mrs. William M. Glasgow. His mother was present when he told of killing "at least 10" and probably dozens more of the North Koreans. "My goodness," she said, "you seem to have gotten awfully hard."

Killing North Koreans didn't disturb him, he said. "I'd rather kill Gooks than go out here and kill a chicken."

Puerto Rican Division Now on Duty in Korea

TOKYO, Oct. 12 (AP).—General MacArthur's headquarters announced today the Puerto Rican Sixty-fifth Infantry Regiment is on duty in Korea.

The announcement did not give the strength of the unit or say whether it was in action.

Truman Can't Recall White House Number

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12 (U.P.).—A man in a hotel room here picked up the telephone.

"This is the President," he said. "I want to talk to my wife."

"Sorry sir," the operator replied. "Do you have her number?"

The man turned to his companion. "What is that White House number, Charlie?"

Charles Ross, press secretary to President Truman, told him—"National 1414."

"I call it so seldom," Mr. Truman said.

Defense in '51 May Top All 1950 Budget

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 12 (AP).—Secretary of the Navy Matthews said today the cost of operating the national military establishment alone next year may exceed this year's entire national budget. That would be more than 42 billion dollars.

He said the final sum, when determined, "will be painful to contemplate" and "will test the national character to face up to the reality."

Matthews cautioned there must be "no hesitation or indecision" about going through with military legislation now being drawn up for presentation to Congress when it reconvenes November 27.

"It must not be forgotten," he said, "that Korea is only a symptom of the political plague which afflicts the world. Total war may not be inevitable, but we dare not assume it is avoidable."

To finance the new defense effort, he told his home State Nebraska Bankers Association, new taxes must be paid, controls endured and "the even tenor of our civilian pursuits will be violently disturbed."

Matthews gave a preview of what defense planners have in mind in the wa of appropriations when he said that next year the "cost of operating the Depatment of Defense alone would amount to as much or more than the Federal budget for all purposes this year."

Last January President Truman handed Congres a budget of $42,439,000,000. After the Korean fighting started in June, he asked Congress for nearly $17,000,000,000 more, largely for military purposes. In all, Congress appropriated over $50,000,000,000 for the fiscal year ending next June 30. Matthews, however, apparently referred to the original budget since he referred to a figure of "over 40 billion dollars."

Matthews called Korea a "testing place for the imperialistic forces of Communism." He said the fighting is not yet finished and there undoubtedly remain some costly battles to be fought and won.

He added:

"As yet, we cannot tell how many billions of dollars our part in the Korean effort will cost. We do not know how many additional Americans must pay with their blood or their lives in this first effort by the free nations of the world to turn back the tide of modern tyranny.

But when the cost in vanished dollars, in shattered bodies and buried dead is all totaled up, that will be just the beginning of the price to be paid. The final task will remain to be done.

"That is to build up our military strength sufficiently to support and make effective our international policy to establish a free world where freedom-loving people can live in peace."

Export Curbs May Depend Upon Imports

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 12 (AP).—Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer tonight called on the nations of the Western Hemisphere to pool their efforts and resources to combat the totalitarian threat to freedom.

In a Columbus Day banquet address to representatives of every Latin American nation, Canada and the United States, Sawyer said the 22 nations of the Western Hemisphere "must do our utmost to prepare ourselves for whatever emergency may lie ahead."

The address climaxed a day-long conference officially launching a projected multimillion dollar inter-American cultural and trade center in Miami.

"My department," Sawyer said, "is undertaking to impose certain controls upon the use of commodities which will include controls upon their export. I am mindful of the needs of Latin American countries in this connection.

"In decisions as to what we can clear for export, we will undoubtedly be influenced by a consideration of what we can get in rereturn.

"Nations that abhor external domination must remain strong and become stronger to meet the threat to freedom," Sawyer said. "We in the Western Hemisphere stand side by side—the stronghold of freedom."

Sawyer said in the troubled years ahead, the plans of the western world must be motivated, "not by the fear of communism or any other brand of tyranny; they must be impelled forward by the deep conviction that the democratic way of thinking and acting is the right way, the God-given way, to achieve for human beings their greatest well-being and their full spiritual stature."

French Yield Fort; Hanoi Peril Feared

SAIGON, Indo-China, Oct. 12. (AP)—French forces gave up another outpost today north of Hanoi, and serious consideration was being given to bolstering Hanoi itself against the danger of a Viet Minh attack in the wake of a series of sharp French reversals.

Transformation of the Viet Minh guerillas of Moscow-supported Ho Chih Minh into a powerful regular army has forced the French to take precautions to safeguard Hanoi, great trading center in northern Indo-China.

The city, capital of Tonkin and major French base, is only about 40 0miles from Thainguyen, which the French now have evacuated.

The relatively weak frontier positions remaining in French hands are constantly exposed to attack by overwhelming numbers of well-equipped Viet Minh forces.

[France appealed to the United States today to speed up arms aid for its 150,000-man army battling against heavy Communist odds in Indo-China, the United Press reported from Paris.

[It was understood that the French government had cabled instructions to Defense Minister Jules Moch and Finance Minister Maurice Petsche, both in Washington, to urge the United States to rush arms and supplies, the UP said.]

Thainguyen was a principal Viet Minh base in the north before the French captured it October 1. A French military spokesman said the withdrawal was made without any pressure to the new defense line, which he said was established along the northern limit of the Red River delta rice bowl some 15 miles south of Thainguyen and only about 25 miles north of Hanoi.

No fighting accompanied the withdrawal, the spokesman said.

Earlier dispatches from Hanoi had said that the French planned to make Thainguyen the anchor fortification for a series of 30 fortresses to guard the area.

Pleven Holds Conference On Indo-China Strategy

PARIS, Oct. 12 (AP).—Premier Rene Pleven held a top-level strategy conference today to study possible revision of troop dispositions in North Indo-China.

The Premier met with Jean Letourneau, Minister for Relations with the Indo-Chinese governments; Francois Mitterand, Minister for Overseas France; Max Lejeune, secretary of state for the land forces, and a group of military experts.

World Federalist Head Says Peace Depends on U. N. Police

Peace and national security depend upon a United Nations with a police force strong enough to enforce disarmament, according to Alan Cranston, president of United World Federalists, Inc.

In Washington for the opening of the four-day, fourth annual general assembly of the organization, Cranston suggested at a press conference that the organization's goal of a strong international police force might be realized by 1955.

The former Palo Alto home builder, a World War II veteran, said the U. N. Charter provides that upon a vote of two thirds of the General Assembly, whose vote cannot be vetoed, the Charter can be reviewed, and if such review is not voted, must automatically be reviewed in 1955—10 years after formation.

Cranson gave these reasons for his optimism:

1. His organization is at a peak membership of approximately 40,000 persons, and is the largest foreign policy organization of its kind in the country.

2. A recent Roper poll indicated that 48 percent of American citizens favor some form of strong international organization.

3. Organizations in the United States with memberships totaling about 20 million persons have gone on record in favor of the principle of world government through the United Nations. "Knocking off several million persons because of overlapping memberships," Cranston said, that is still a sizable number.

4. Twenty-seven other countries have similar world government movements, and four governments—France, Italy, Western Germany and Japan—have provisions in their constitutions for entering into a world government.

UWF, which began its sessions at Inspiration House yesterday, will hold its first general assembly at the Shoreham Hotel at 10 a. m. today. Justice William O. Douglas of the United States Supreme Court will be the chief speaker at a banquet at 7 p. m. Saturday at the Shoreham.

Routine Police Call at Club Nets Two for Gambling

Two men were arrested on gambling charges yesterday following a routine visit of a First Precinct plainclothesman to the Hellenic Club, 608 G st. nw.

Lewis J. Pantos, 50, 625 Emerson st. nw., was charged with setting up a gambling table, and Peter V. Mantos, 71, 1814 Rhode Island ave. ne., in charge of the club, with permitting gaming.

United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence released them in $1500 bond each and continued the cases until November 29.

First Precinct Capt. Howard Covell said Nicholas Jenua, plainclothesman, entered the club at 4 p. m. and saw Robert S. Boyd, 48, of 324 2d st. se., making a bet with Pantos on a horse race. Boyd was released under subpena to appear as a witness.

Columbus Honored at Plaza Rites

America said thanks yesterday to the man who discovered it.

Annual ceremonies honoring Christopher Columbus were renewed throughout the land in observance of the 458th anniversary of the founding of the New World. Most of the Columbus Day rites in the District of Columbia, as elsewhere, were sponsored by the Knights of Columbus. Twelve K. of C. organizations and two other groups here placed 14 wreaths at the Columbus statue in Union Station Plaza.

Last night, the Washington council of K. of C. held a dance at 1601 R st. nw., and Dr. Alexander Morales of the Inter-American Institute of Statistics gave a talk on Columbus at the Club de las Americas in the Commerce Department Building.

Parochial schools in Greater Washington were closed, as well as banks in Maryland and Virginia. The District Stock Exchange shut down in line with the tradition of the New York Stock Exchange.

More than 200 persons turned out at Union Station to watch the wreath-laying, which was under direction of Henry G. Catucci, District Deputy No. 2 of the K. of C. The Right Rev. Henry F. Graebenstein, recently named pastor of St. Anthony's Church, 12th and Monroe sts. ne., gave the invocation.

Afterward, participants attended a luncheon at the Carlyle Hotel, at which the Right Rev. William E. Kelly, pastor of St. Martin's Church, gave the principal address. Joseph Genau was toastmaster and chairman of the luncheon.

The Metropolitan Police Band played from 10:30 a. m. throughout the Union Station ceremony.

Truman Plane Lands At California Base

cern for the Nation's security, the two men have one thing in common—a love of soldiering and the military art.

Mr. Truman, as a boy, wanted to go to West Point, but couldn't because of his eyes. Nevertheless, military history—stories of great battles and great heroes—has continued to be his favorite reading. Therefore, MacArthur will find him thoroughly familiar with Hannibal, Napoleon and the other great captains, if the talk ever gets around to such matters.

Both men fought in France in 1918 against Imperial Germany, Mr. Truman as an obscure captain in command of an artillery battery of the Missouri National Guard and MacArthur as the brilliant chief of staff and later commander of the famous Forty-second or Rainbow Division.

Mr. Truman arrived in Washington as a United States Senator from Missouri in 1935, the same that General MacArthur finished a five-year tour of duty as Chief of Staff of the Army and became military adviser to the Philippines Commonwealth.

Congressional Medal of Honor

Six years later, the man who had hoped in vain for a career as professional soldier was President of the United States and Commander in Chief of the Nation's armed forces. The professional, MacArthur, was an almost legendary figure, hailed by his countrymen as a hero and a master strategist for his exploits against the Japanese in the Pacific.

Mr. Truman has said many times that he would rather have the Congressional Medal of Honor than be President. Well, MacArthur has that coveted decoration and a good many more, from his own and foreign governments.

It would seem, however, that for a time General MacArthur would not have been averse to swapping places with Mr. Truman. There was a MacArthur-for-President boom in 1948, and, though the famous soldier did nothing to discourage his admirers, nothing much came of it.

President Truman, as is his custom, was up with the cock's crow this morning. At 6:35 he left the Jefferson Hotel and took a walk through downtown St. Louis. Along the way he talked to a young girl and a Negro Army sergeant.

Hopes for Peace Contribution.

Before leaving for the airport to take off for California, the Chief Executive attended a luncheon at the Sheraton Hotel in honor of his "baby sister," Miss Mary Jane Truman, 61, who last night was installed as worthy grand matron of the Order of the Eastern Star of Missouri.

At the installation ceremony, Mr. Truman said he hoped his conference with MacArthur would make "some contribution to the peace of the world."

The President has been in a jaunty mood since he left Washington, which is more than could be said for him in the early days of the war in Korea. At that time, his expression was grave, and Gen. Wallace Graham, his physician, said he was under "a terrific strain."

Mr. Truman is scheduled to arrive in Hawaii tomorrow (Friday) morning at 8 o'clock local time. He is expected to meet General MacArthur Saturday or Sunday.

Tickets for the trip are marked "destination—Point X."

If Point X turns out to be Wake Island, as is generally expected, the two men will come together on a coral reef that gave Americans their first great thrill in World War II. It was there that Maj. James P. S. Devereux and his Marines made their valiant stand against the Japanese shortly after Pearl Harbor.

Steel Asked for Freight Cars

steel output and to reduce possible disruption of distribution."

How it keeps up maximum production was not immediately apparent. It prevents the disruption of distribution in the sense that it does not let one steel producer become flooded with a disproportionately large share of defense priority orders that would put him at a competitive disadvantage with other steel concerns in serving his civilian customers and keeping their good will.

From Pittsburgh, the United Press reported yesterday that steel-using manufacturers were struggling under the most critical shortage of steel since World War II.

Cutbacks of from 40 to 50 percent in production among some small fabricators were reported. Many instances of production dislocations, through delay in obtaining steel parts, were discovered. Steel officials said a gray market in steel was also flourishing despite industry efforts to control it.

Meantime, in Washington, representatives of the Nation's retailers met with the NPA to urge a delay in the imposition of wage-price controls. They asserted that the credit restrictions recently put into effect on installment buying had already hurt their business, especially in the used car and furniture fields.

M. I. Behrens of New York, president of the National Retail Furniture Association, told Harrison the consumer credit controls hit the poor man harder than anyone else and urged that they be relaxed immediately.

Maury L. Nee, chairman of the Commerce Department's retail trade advisory committee, said the curbs have hurt the used car market and have cut sharply into all retail sales.

French Consider 10 Divisions

where 30 percent of the workers were Communist three years ago, and where 20 percent are believed to be Communist even now.

One French official said yesterday his country was in the position of a workingman who was given an expensive car.

"He just doesn't have the means to keep it up," the Frenchman said. "That is the case with our new military establishment. It is at present beyond our means, and threatens to involve the country in a new round of inflation which would cancel out the benefits of the new strength."

Increased American help is by no means out of the question. Before the Korean war Congress appropriated a billion dollars for military aid to the North Atlantic treaty nations; after the Korean invasion it voted an additional $3,504,000,000, plus 496 million for Greece, Turkey and threatened parts of Asia.

The French share of the post-Korea fund has not yet been determined, and the French pleas this week may make their share bigger than the Americans originally planned. This money can be used not only for equipment made in the United States but also to pay for war material made in France or other countries.

German rearmament is not expected to figure largely in this week's ministerial talks here; the French are in no position to commit themselves in advance of their parliamentary debate next week.

But the French will have a good deal to say about the other long-term aspects of the effort needed to prevent a Soviet invasion of western Europe.

As the French see it, a large part of the combined western army will have to be stationed on their own soil. This means that the economic strain, and the inflationary danger, will be greater for them than for other allied countries.

Therefore, the French say, all the North Atlantic treaty partners should contribute to the cost of the effort, in accordance with an agreed formula, and should let a combined authority decide how and where the pooled contributions should be used.

The French are convinced, too, that there will have to be international agreement to prevent the prices of raw materials from skyrocketing, and to make sure that supplies are available.

The French have additional long-term ideas, but these are the main ones, and in general they have American sympathy and approval.

B'nai B'rith Schedules Roll Call Sabbath

Each district lodge of B'Nai B'Rrith in Washington will hold a Roll Call Sabbath today in celebration of the organization's 106th anniversary.

Meetings will institute a drive to enlist 50,000 new members, the national goal for this year. Beginning Sunday, teams of national workers will visit non-members to solicit their aid in carrying out the work of the Jewish service organization.

Church Oil Burner Blast Holds Up Choir Practice

A rehearsal of the Petworth Methodist Church choir was interrupted abruptly last night by an explosion in the oil burner. There was no fire and the choristers returned to their practice.

The Rev. Mr. Ralph D. Smith, pastor of the church at 32 Grant cir. nw., called firemen, who found the blast had blown open the heater door and the door of the furnace room.

Burma Surgeon Goes on Trial

RANGOON, Burma, Oct. 12 (U.P.). The Burmese government today opened its prosecution of Gordon S. Seagrave, the famed "Burma surgeon" accused of aiding the Karen rebels, and said it would prove him guilty on nine charges.

The charges were outlined by Assistant Attorney General Chan Tun Aung, who told the court that as an American citizen, Seagrave owed "local allegiance" to Burma.

The doctor, who has served in Burma many years, was arrested last August 18.

Tun Aung defined treason as an "act against the allegiance one owes." He said the prosecution would prove that the doctor permitted rebels to camp in his hospital compound, congratulated a rebel leader and was friendly to the hostile government of Rebel Leader Naw Seng.

Seagrave, who is 53, accompanied the late Gen. Joseph Stilwell on his 1942 jungle retreat from Burma to India. He was a colonel in the United States Army Medical Corps at the time.

The Karens, estimated to number two million,, constitute one of a number of rebel movements against the Burmese government. They have concentrated on the issue of self-rule, and their revolt, like the Hindu-Moslem differences in India, is marked by racial and cultural characteristics.

Czech Newspaper Hits Street (and Trouble)

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 12 (U.P.).—Police confiscated at least one city edition of the official Communist newspaper Rude Pravo Saturday when it appeared with a front-page photograph showing the Czech army chief of staff wearing a swastika on his sleeve, it was disclosed today.

Reliable sources said the Nazi emblem either was painted in by a photographer or an artist, or scratched in during the engraving.

A three-column picture of President Klement Gottwald administering the army oath to Defense Minister Alexei Cepicka showed Gen. Jaroslav Prochazka wearing an arm brassard bearing Hitler's hooked cross.

The edition was ordered killed and police immediately seized all available copies. A second edition appeared, with the picture cut down to two columns and most of Prochazka's figure eliminated.

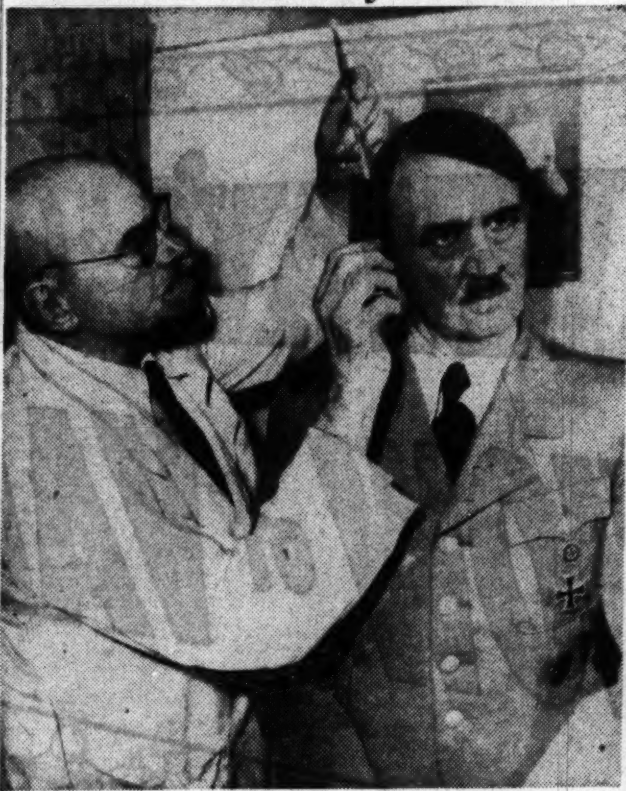
Even after many copies of this edition had been sent to outlying areas, it was discovered that one of Cepicka's assistants in the background had a swastika on his lapel. Final editions eliminated the picture entirely.

It marked the third time police had been called in recently to prevent distribution of anti-Communist digs in the official press.

In the trade union humor magazine Dikobraz last week, it was discovered that a cartoon showed Gottwald being strangled under the ruins of a bombed Korean town. The issue was confiscated.

The magazine also was confiscated in September when it carried a cover cartoon showing figures, ostensibly Americans, but with the faces of Czech Communist leaders, launching a battleship called "Peace."

Hitler in Germany—in Wax



Associated Press WIREPHOTO

FUEHRER FIGURE—Germans are getting another look at their wartime Fuehrer—but this time he's in wax. The waxen figure of Adolf Hitler is given a final sprucing by Hermann Faeber at the St. Pauli wax works at Hamburg. Said Faeber, "He gave us some headaches because we could not get the proper cloth for his uniform jacket"

East Germans Face Reprisals If They Vote Against Reds

BERLIN, Oct. 12 (AP).—East Germany's 13 million voters were urged tonight to show their opposition to the Communist-run elections next Sunday—but cautioned not to endanger themselves.

Jakob Kaiser, minister of all-German affairs for the west republic, addressed the east zone voters over the American radio, arias, following tabulation of a "ration card plebiscite" by west Berlin city officials.

There were 375,712 East Berlin residents who mailed their old ration cards to West Berlin in response to a call for them to do so to show their opposition to communism.

Kaiser advised the east to show opposition either by staying away from the polls or voting "no."

But the Communists have exerted strong police pressure, and a high official in the east zone interior ministry issued a veiled warning of reprisals even against those who fail to turn out to vote.

The feared security police of the east zone stepped up their campaign for unanimous, open balloting. State Secretary Hans Warnke of the interior ministry said persons who do not vote will not have their names checked off.

"Naturally," he said, "we are interested in who is foolish enough to fall into McCloy's trap."

He was referring to U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy's condemnation of the elections.

Since the interior ministry controls about 195,000 Volkspolizei (people's police), East German residents had cause for alarm.

Six May Be Dropped From Red Cabinet

BERLIN, Oct. 12 (U.P.).—Reports circulated today that six top East German Cabinet officers would be ousted as "unreliable" after Sunday's elections.

German sources said those destined to be dropped included Deputy Prime Minister Hermann Kastner, recently removed as chief of the East Zone Liberal Democrats; Interior Minister Karl Steinhoff; Minister of Industry Fritz Selbmann; Justice Minister Max Fechner; Finance Minister Hans Loch, and Hans Reingruber, Minister of Traffic.

Steinhoff, Selbmann and Fechner are members of the Communist Socialist Unity Party (SED).

It was reported that thousands of voters in the Soviet-occupied zone would be organized into marching groups Sunday to parade to the polls and cast their ballots.

Harriman Will Keynote Herald Tribune Forum

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (U.P.).—W. Averell Harriman, special assistant to President Truman, will make the keynote speech opening the three-day nineteenth annual New York Herald Tribune forum October 23.

The three-day forum will be devoted to discussions of the theme, "Mobilizing America's Strength for World Security." Another opening session speaker will be Leon Keyserling, chairman of President Truman's Council of Economic Advisers.

ECA Grants Famine Aid Fund to India

The Economic Cooperation Administration announced yesterday it is making an outright relief grant of $4,500,000 to the Indian Government to purchase United States surplus sorghums to stretch food rations in famine-threatened India.

With the ECA assistance and financial aid from the Department of Agriculture, India will be able to buy more than 400,000 long tons of sorghums from the surplus stocks of the Commodity Credit Corp. India will meet the major part of the $13,404,236 purchase price with its own dollars, ECA said.

The grain is a basic part of the diet of many Indian people.

The ECA assistance to India is a departure from customary ECA procedure which calls for any financial assistance to be for the primary purpose of economic recovery and not emergency relief.

The relief assistance was ordered by President Truman out of the ninety-six billion dollar China aid program. The President is empowered to use the money in the general area of China.

Indian Food Minister K. M. Munshi said the sorghums would be used in Bombay, Madras, Mysore, Hyderabad and Bihar "where the food situation is difficult and the stocks are low."

Shipments are to start soon.

Gen. Anders Speaks At GU Tonight

Lieut. Gen. Wladyslaw Anders, who fought both German and Russian invasions of his native Poland, will speak at 8 p. m. today at Gaston Hall, Georgetown University.

Appearing on the program with General Anders will be Jan Ciechanowski, former Polish Ambassador to the United States. The program is open to the public.

Congressmen Wangled Free Airplane Rides

Three members of Congress have been touring the Near East in military aircraft, it appeared yesterday, after both the State and Defense Departments turned down their requests for free rides.

The congressional tourists are lame duck Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) and Representatives Cooley (D., N. C.) and Poage (D., Tex.). Last month they left with their wives to attend a meeting in Dublin of the Inter-Parliamentary Union.

After the meeting, according to a State Department spokesman, they requested from Frankfurt that Government aircraft be supplied for a tour of the Near East. While sympathetic toward their desire to get acquainted with things in that area, State informed them the Defense Department had declared itself "unable" to furnish them with transportation. Aircraft assigned to military attaches, the message added, were not under jurisdiction of the State Department.

"The department is advised its spokesman said yesterday, "that subsequent trips were made by the members of Congress in attache planes attached to the embassies."

While both State and Defense were understandably coy in dealing with the activities of three members of Congress, the implication seemed to be that after their turndown they had somehow made their own arrangements with individual ambassadors. Reports from Rome were that parts of their tour were made in aircraft assigned to military and other official missions.

A Defense spokesman said his department had received two requests for rides from the junketing legislators. The first was honored with a flight from Teheran to Dahran in Saudi Arabia because no other air transportation was available. The second, when the trio sought to continue their trip from Dahran, was reported to have been turned down, on the basis of regulations issued two years ago by the late Defense Secretary James Forrestal.

These regulations, later reissued by former Secretary Louis A. Johnson, provided for air transportation to nonmilitary personnel only under special circumstances. In the case of Members of Congress flights can be furnished "in the national interest." If for Defense business that department will bear the expense; otherwise it must be borne by the department or agency benefited.

In the current affair the legislators were reminded that "the regulations apply to Members of Congres."

Virginia Alcoholic Program Outlined In Alexandria

The two years of operations of Virginia's pilot program of study and care of alcoholics were outlined to Alexandria physicians last night.

The reports were presented at a regular meeting of the Alexandria Medical Society by Kenneth Lee, administrative director, and Dr. Ebbe C. Hoff, medical director, both of the State Health Department's division on alcoholic studies and rehabilitation, of Richmond, Va. The meeting was held at the Alexandria Health Center.

Lee told how the program was set up by public funds on October 16, 1948, at the Medical College of Virginia, Richmond. It now operates a 12-patient bed clinic for hospitalization of alcoholics, and an out-patient clinic for the treatment of other victims of alcoholism. Four physicians man the out-patient clinic on a part-time basis, he said.

Former Policeman Guarded in Bribery Quiz

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP).—A former cop, held under police guard today, was accused of running a 20-million-dollar-a-year gambling syndicate while its boss took a trip to California.

The former plainclothesman, James Reardon, 33, was held in protective custody so he wouldn't "jump a banana boat," a judge said.

A Brooklyn rackets investigator told Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz yesterday that Reardon admitted he took over for big-time Bookie Harry Gross for a time last year.

Assistant District Attorney Julius Helfand, who made the charge, did not say whether Reardon handled the one-million-dollar-a-year graft which Gross has admitted paying to police.

Helfand said Reardon maintained a safe dsposit box under a fake name and address while attached to the chief inspector's office, and only last Monday took out $1500 and other valuables.

Reardon, who resigned from the department three years ago after five years' service, has been living the life of a country gentleman in Westport, Conn.

Among other developments in the gambling-graft inquiries:

1. An appellate court in Brooklyn refused to pave the way for the 34-year-old Gross' release from jail by reducing the $250,000 bail in which he is held as a material witness. The district attorney's office says he might be slain if freed.

2. District Attorney Miles F. McDonald announced that the special Brooklyn grand jury probing rackets and police corruption will call Ex-Mayor William O'Dwyer, now Ambassador to Mexico, as a witness. Revelations of police graft during O'Dwyer's administration have been made by McDonald, spearhead of the investigation.

3. Senator Kefauver announced he would go to Trenton, N. J., late today to talk with Anthony Guarini, who is imprisioned there on a gambling charge. He has been listed as a principal figure in New Jersey gambling. The committee will take testimony in Philadelphia Friday and Saturday, the chairman said.

Chester, trustees.

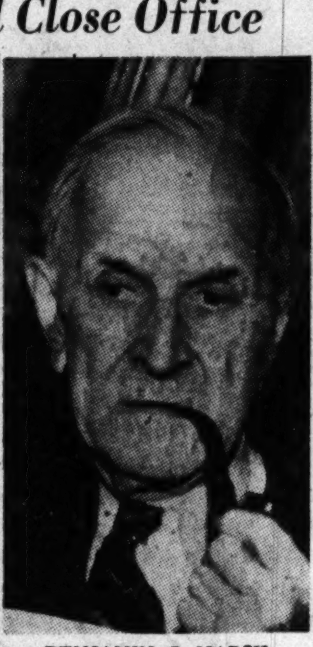
B. C. Marsh, People's Lobbyist, Will Retire and Close Office



BENJAMIN C. MARSH

". . . a radical in economics"

The Nation's No. 1 lobbyist, 74-year-old Benjamin C. Marsh, is retiring at the end of the month after gazing keenly at the Washington scene for 32 years and trying to "educate" both Congressmen and his supporters.

Marsh is not only executive secretary of People's Lobby, Inc., for practical purposes, he is the People's Lobby. For this reason, when he retires because his doctor says he must take a rest, his organization will go out of business, too.

No cocktail-party, expense-account wielding lobbyist, Marsh has worked six and seven days a week in his country-editor-type office at 810 F st. nw. to put across his "constituents'" point of view. He recently listed his office expenses at $12,000 a year, including his own salary of $1800.

For years, he has been advocating a "mixed economy,"—public ownership of the basic industries and of natural resources, plus cooperatives and privately owned industries small enough to be monopolies.

The lean, hawk-nosed, white-haired man wit' the look of a retired farmer admits to being a radical in economics, but insists on the democratic process.

Recently, the ranks of his supporters have been dwindling. Mostly "small professional people such as teachers, and a number of pensioners," as he describes them, they've been "awfully hard hit by inflation," and many have been afraid they might be tagged with the Red label, he says rather sadly.

He is urging the 2100 or 2200 who have remained in People's Lobby to the end to work through their labor organizations, their churches and groups such as Americans for Democratic Action.

A Grinnell College graduate with a Phi Beta Kappa key, Marsh came to Washington originally for the Farmers' National Council in 1918. In 1920, he started the People's Reconstruction League, which became the People's Lobby in 1928.

"I have never tried to dictate," says the man who was the first to register as a lobbyist under the 1946 Congressional Reform Act.

"No, we never had the money or the votes to threaten any Congressmen," he reminisced, "but I think we have been successful."

U. of Md. Dairy Team Enters Two Contests

The University of Maryland dairy products judging team will compete against about 48 others this weekend in two contests.

Members of the Maryland squad are Joseph D. Libbey, Jr., of Riverdale, Md.; Jack S Conrad, of Easton, Md; Eugene T. Wachter, of Frederick, Md.; Lyman O. Schooley, of Washington, and Glenn Brauner, of St. Petersburg, Fla.

The first contest is in Raleigh, N. C., today, where the team will compete against nine others from the South.

Government Wins Retrial In Patent Suit

A new trial in a suit previously won by Louis H. Crook, dean of Catholic University's School of Aeronautics, against the Federal Government for patent infringement, was ordered yesterday by the U. S. Court of Claims.

The Government claimed it had found evidence to show that the ignition-shielding system invented by Crook had been in use at airbases before he took out his patent.

Last year, in awarding Crook a judgment against the Federal government, the court ruled the government had infringed on Crook's patent. The case was then referred to a commissioner to determine damages. Estimates of the amount ranged in the millions.

Commissioner Hayner Gordon is to review the new evidence in the case.

Crook, who lives on Persimmon Tree rd., Cabin John, Md., obtained his patent in October, 1927, and offered it to the Federal government. The government refused to concede that the patent was valid.

The invention is an ignition shielding system employed on internal combustion engines to prevent interference with reception of radio signals and messages on a radio receiver installed in close proximity to the engine.

Probers May Quiz O'Dwyer and Bookie

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP).—Senate crime probers said today they may call former Mayor William O'Dwyer and Brooklyn bookie boss Harry Gross, whose 20 million dollar gambling empire is under grand jury fire.

"We're looking into it," said Senator Estes Kefauver, Tennessee Democrat and head of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee.

Senator Tobey (R., N. H.) spoke a little more strongly. If it's agreeable to Kefauver, he said he would like to talk with O'Dwyer and the bookie at some future date.

Gross has admitted paying crooked New York police at the rate of one million dollars a year for protection. However, he has refused to give their names.

Apologized for Remark

O'Dwyer, who quit as mayor August 29 to become Ambassador to Mexico, once called the Brookland grand jury a "witch hunt." But he made a special trip home this week to apologize for the remark. The Brookland grand jury announced yesterday that it is calling O'Dwyer as a witness. No date was set.

The Senate committee wound up two days of hearings here with a threat to cite for contempt one of its key witnesses, Meyer Lansky. Kefauver said Lansky refused to say whether gambler Joe Adonis, bookmaker Frank Erickson and reputed crime leader Charles Fischetti were business associates of his. He did admit knowing the trio, however, Kefauver told newsmen.

Kefauver and his staff left New York City for Trenton, N. J., and Philadelphia, promising to return here in six weeks or two months for "an open hearing in the New York-New Jersey area." In Philadelphia, Kefauver said, his full committee will gather to act on the contempt charge against Lansky.

The stop-over in Trenton is to talk to Anthony Guarini, a New Jersey gambler now in jail there on gaming charges.

Says Lansky Kept Mum

The secret hearings here dealt with gambling activity in the New Jersey-New York area, although other areas were mentioned.

Kefauver said Lansky refused to tell the investigators whether he had any connection with the Flamingo Club in Los Vegas, Nev., the Beverly Club near New Orleans or gambling inns at Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

The witness also refused to say whether he met vice lord Charles (Lucky) Luciano on a recent trip to Italy. Luciano was deported but reportedly still exercised strong control over the American underworld.

Kefauver also said his committee is trying to indict for contempt Harry Russell, whom he described as a "well-known gambler and part of the Capone outfit who went to Miami Beach." The Senator did not go into details on the charges against Russell.

Florida Guards Witness Who 'Spilled Everything'

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 12 (U.P.).—A special 24-hour guard today protected the life of a former Dade County deputy sheriff who "spilled everything" about Florida Gold Coast gambling to a grand jury.

The jury ordered the guard for George Patton, now a candidate for constable, after he voluntarily testified last night on gambling and political corruption. It said it wanted "no repetition of the Drury killing," referring to William Drury of Chicago, who was killed last month.

"He's really spilling everything," said Robert H. Givens, special grand jury counsel. "It's far beyond our expectations. Some of it is almost incredible."

Givens said he had no doubt there will be indictments "almost immediately." Eight members of the S & G gambling syndicate and several others already have been indicted.
several others already have been indicted.

Patton said his testimony before the grand jury "may cost me my life." He said he decided to talk in the interest of "decency and the respect of my family and friends."

He said he would testify before the Kefauver Senate Crime Committee if asked and would reveal what he has told the Dade County grand jury.

1st Reactivated Plant Begins Rubber Output

PORT NECHES, Tex., Oct. 12 (AP).—The first of the Nation's all-purpose synthetic rubber plants to be reactivated began production today—20 days ahead of schedule. United States Rubber Co. modernized the plant under the Government's rubber expansion program.

The Port Neches installation, designed to produce 60,000 long tons a year, has been modernized to produce more than 72,000 long tons when operating at peak load. October production is expected to total 1500 tons.

State Seeks 2d Chance to Convict Politician

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 12 (AP). The State today asked for a second chance to convict William (Little Willie) Adams, Baltimore politician, on gambling charges.

Adams had been acquitted of six numbers counts because Judge Michael J. Manley in Baltimore Criminal Court ruled a police search warrant was too vague and general to be constitutional.

Adams had walked up to a numbers racket headquarters at 2006 West North ave. last November 19, an hour after it had been raided. Police frisked him and found $2000 and two keys. The keys opened two boxes stuffed with numbers tickets.

Of 17 others arrested, all but one pleaded guilty. They were fined up to $2450 apiece—the stiffest numbers racket penalties dealt out in Baltimore in many months.

The State declared evidence against Adams should have been admitted. He was arrested for struggling with a patrolman and "could not complain about the search of his person under those circumstances," Assistant Attorney General Kenneth C. Proctor said.

The Court of Appeals today also heard an electrical contractor ask for $1000 damages from Sears, Roebuck & Co. Harry S. Mickey said he lost $589 from a briefcase he left with the company overnight on April 14, 1948.

His briefcase "was taken in charge by the company's agents," at its loading platform, he told the court.

The company contended that, since it had not been forewarned of the contents of the case, it could not be held responsible for the loss.

Arlingtonian Not Guilty InPeepingCase

Roy B. Raynor, 29, of 5800 S. 3d st., Arlington, yesterday was cleared of a "peeping Tom" charge, but was fined $75 for speeding from the scene at a 95-mile-per-hour clip.

He wasn't peeping, Raynor told County Court Judge Hugh Reid. "I was out to catch a prowler," he said.

Raynor testified he stopped his car at Lee blvd. and N. Edison st. Sunday night on seeing "a prowler" behind a nearby house.

But the prowler vanished, he said, and when homeowners saw Raynor and "hollered," he hopped in his car and drove away. The suspect described himself as "excited and scared."

A police car, summoned by a neighbor's phone call, tailed Raynor up Lee blvd. at speeds touching 95 miles an hour, police said, before he was stopped and arrested.

Judge Reid also handed him a 30-day suspended jail sentence in addition to the fine.

Boys' Branch of 'Y' Gets Aquatic Director

Appointment of Joseph H. Nill as aquatic director for the Boys' Branch YMCA was announced by Fred D. Carl, executive secretary of the Boys' Branch, 1732 G st. nw.

Nill, former safety services field representative for the eastern area of the National Red Cross, has been a swimming coach and instructor at various colleges and universities for the past 30 years.

Publisher Of La Prensa Wins Award

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (U.P.).—Dr. Alberto Gainza Paz, publisher of La Prensa of Buenos Aires, received the annual Americas Award tonight as "an indefatigable apostle of inter-American friendship."

The scroll was presented at a Waldorf Astoria banquet attended by delegates to the sixth Inter-American Press Conference. Previous recipients of the awards have included Nicholas Murray Butler, Sumner Welles and former President Herbert Hoover. It is awarded each year by the Americas Foundation.

In his speech of acceptance, Dr. Gainza announced that the independent Argentine daily newspaper that he heads is establishing an annual prize of its own, which will be awarded each spring to a distinguished journalist or writer. The winner may be a citizen of any American country. The citation will be for outstanding contributions toward American friendship.

Dr. Gainza said the La Prensa award would be named for two great Argentines—Domingo F. Sarmiento, teacher-journalist and author; and Juan B. Alberdi, newspaperman, publicist and master of public law.

The Alberdi Sarmiento prize will consist of 25,000 Argentine pesos, a silver plaque and air passage for the winner from his home to Buenos Aires for the presentation ceremonies.

Farris A. Flint, president of the Americas Foundation, presented the Americas award.

Dr. Gainza said in his acceptance speech that democratic ideals "are the primal substance of pan-Americanism" and warned against what he called the "infiltration of totalitarian regimes."

"To be able to live and flourish," he said, "pan-Americanism must be understood by the people from whom will emanate all the enthusiasm and faith which official action usually lacks."

"Watchdog" of Freedom

A committee of the press conference decided to keep itself on call as the "watchdog" of press freedom in the Western Hemisphere.

Jules Dubois of the Chicago Tribune, was chosen as president of the freedom of the press committee and said any report of a "serious violation" would be dealt with promptly.

The five-man committee will issue monthly reports on the state of freedom of the press in the Americas, Dubois said.

Girard Alumni to Meet

National Capital Chapter of the Girard College Alumni Association will hold its first fall meeting from 1 to 3 p. m. Saturday at the Good Earth Restaurant, 1609 K st. nw. David I. Richards, vice president, will preside in the absence of Jesse B. Manbeck, president.

To Stop Russia

Rearm Fast, Eden's Plea To England

BLACKPOOL, England, Oct. 12 (AP).—Anthony Eden warned Britain today to remarm with "all speed and vigor" for fear the Russians may miscalculate western strength and launch a war.

He told the Conservative Party's annual conference that the Labor government has been "dangerously slow" in rebuilding its arms.

Eden forecast that "1951 must inevitably be a very critical year."

"Personally, I do not believe there is any nation in the modern world that will be so rash as to embark upon a policy of open aggression once it is convinced of the strength, readiness and resolution of the forces arrayed against it," Eden said.

Eden urged expansion of the British army, to which the government planned to add three new divisions next year. One is to be sent to Germany. Eden said one "is not enough" and ought to be increased.

The conference passed a resolution calling for military cooperation of Britain, the Commonwealth, western Europe and the United States, approving armed action in Korea and rapping the government for taking over the steel industry in the middle of its arms program.

The delegates also sought formulas to stem communism in this country, to solve the problems of rising living costs and to lure trade union votes into the Tory fold.

A motion urging new laws to suppress communism was withdrawn after several delegates argued suppression would only make martyrs of persecuted Communists and drive them underground.

"We could never approve a witch hunt as in some countries," asserted Lieut. Col. T. R. Rhys-Roberts.

Iceland Will Close Legation in Moscow

MOSCOW, Oct. 12 (U.P.).—Icelandic Charge d'Affaires Sigurdur Hafstad today said that Iceland had decided to close its legation here for economy reasons. He called on Soviet Foreign Vice Minister Valery Zorin and notified him of the decision.

Diplomatic relations between the two countries were established in 1944, but during the last three years the legation has been run by the Charge d'Affairs. Diplomatic relations between the two countries will continue.

U. S. 'Freezes' Visas To All Aliens Abroad

By The Associated Press

The Government yesterday announced a temporary world-wide "freeze" on passport visas to aliens seeking to enter the United States. The action was taken under the new Communist-control law.

The shutdown threw a screen around this country pending clarification of the statute which Congress passed over President Truman's veto.

The State Department issued the suspension order as more than 200 aliens—chiefly Germans and Italians—were detained at Ellis Island, New York, and many hundreds of others were on the high seas en route here.

Crew members on some foreign ships arriving in this country were also barred from going ashore.

The State Department cabled United States embassies and consulates all over the world to hold up visas — entry permits — until they can recheck the background of aliens planning to come here.

United States officials abroad were instructed to notify transportation companies of the suspension order and warn them of possible liability for damage if they transport aliens to this country who do not have valid permits.

Displaced persons are exempted from the order. They are being brought in for resettlement under other legislation.

The so-called anti-subversives law bars aliens who have ever been members of the Communist "or other totalitarian" parties or affiliated organizations. It thus applies not only to former Nazi and Fascist Party members, but also to countless Germans and Italians who were members of some sort of state organizations during the Hitler and Mussolini regimes.

State Department estimated 90 percent of all Germans would be ineligible under a strict interpretation of the law.

The suspension order specifies that aliens now holding visas can get them re-stamped as valid only by satisfying United States consuls abroad they are not banned from the United States under the 1950 Security Act.

Italy and Germany have both protested vigorously against detention of their nationals, and the State Department has promised prompt action to clear up the confusion.

The statute authorizes the United States Attorney General to exempt certain individuals as temporary visitors, but not immigrants, and he has to explain each exemption to Congress.

Officials said exemptions will be granted generally to foreigners brought here at United States expense under exchange programs. This would mean that 14 German technicians, who arrived Tuesday on a Government-paid visit to study American democracy, will be released shortly. They have been detained at Ellis Island since their arrival.

More than 200 aliens were being held for a check-up yesterday, and others fell into the security net on arrival today.

Among those newly detained was Victor de Sabata, Milan's La Scala orchestra conductor, along with 34 others aboard the liner Queen Mary. The group included 14 Italian musicians who came to this country on a "good will tour" sponsored by the Italian government. They were freed in 2 hours.

Albert Morini, their agent, said they came to make a concert tour on behalf of the Boys Republic of Italy, which he described as the Italian counterpart of Father Flanagan's famed "Boy's Town" in Nebraska.

Others detained under the new law during the past week included 38 German war brides and seven children. After 33 hours' detention, 33 of the brides—wives of American soldiers—were released.

At least 1000 Aliens were scheduled to arrive by ship in New York Thursday and Friday. Many faced rigid questioning.

Cause of Blaze In Alexandria Is Still Sought

Harvey Lunsford, 63-year-old Alexandria fireman who was seriously injured fighting a mattress shop blaze Wednesday night, was reported in "fairly good" condition at Alexandria Hospital last night.

Lunsford, who lives at 307 Duke st., suffered a possible skull fracture and severe scalp lacerations when he was struck by a metal hose coupling that became disconnected.

A second fireman, Taylor Rudd, 38, of 309 King st., who tripped over a hose, suffered a broken left arm, X-rays disclosed yesterday. Rudd is recovering at home.

Alexandria Fire Prevention Bureau officials said last night they were still trying to determine cause of the blaze that gutted the Boyles Mattress Co., 112 S. Fairfax st.

Duff's HOT ROLL Mix
Guaranteed by Good Housekeeping

DUFF'S CHEESE ROLLS

Place yeast (contents of small envelope inside Duff's Hot Roll Mix package) in medium-size bowl. Add 1 cup very warm water (as hot as you can hold your finger in) and stir until completely smooth. Empty Duff's Hot Roll Mix (large bag) into another medium-size bowl, blend in ½ cup grated sharp cheddar or Italian style cheese. Add to yeast-water mixture gradually, mixing and blending till smooth dough is formed. Cover bowl with plate or greased wax paper. Then, follow package-back directions exactly, starting with step 2.

BE SURE TO CLIP THIS RECIPE!

My Duff's Devil's Food Mix makes such yummy chocolate cup cakes your family will be eating them with both hands! Bake 'em by the dozen!

Duff's Gingerbread Mix makes rich, golden-brown gingerbread just like my mother used to make. It's simply delicious. And you just add water, that's all!

Says Dorothy Duff of the famous Duff's Kitchen

IN the good old days, it took a practiced hand, and lots of time and patience to make rolls. But now, to-day, you can make plump, tender cheese rolls—without a day's previous baking experience—thanks to my Duff's Hot Roll Mix.

What's even more exciting is that you can get your package of Duff's Hot Roll Mix while you're out grocery shopping in the afternoon, and serve these delicious cheese rolls the very same day for dinner!

The secret? My Duff's Hot Roll Mix has everything in—including my marvelous new QUICK-RISE YEAST that cuts rising time in half. All you add is water—so there's no chance of failure. You'll get old-fashioned, party-perfect raised rolls—every time you bake with my Duff's Hot Roll Mix.

You'll just never believe the miracle of this wonderful mix till you try it. But believe me—when you do, you'll say you haven't tasted such rolls since you were a child. They're that good. Just be sure you ask your grocer for Duff's Hot Roll Mix. And don't forget—CLIP MY RECIPE FOR CHEESE ROLLS at the left.

*Money back if you're not satisfied. Send box top to Dorothy Duff, Duff's Kitchen, Hamilton, Ohio, and I will refund your purchase price.

State Dept. Purge Asked In Legion Vote

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12 (AP).—The American Legion, after hours of bitter wrangling, today voted to "demand" that President Truman shake up his State Department.

The sweltering Legionnaires did not officially identify Secretary of State Dean Acheson by name or suggest his ouster. But the resolution left no doubt that is what was intended.

The resolution condemned what it termed the State Department's "failure . . . to deal adequately with the grim and bloody advance of communism throughout the world," adding:

"We submit that this failure is due fundamentally to a lack of understanding of communism, itself, and to a refusal on the part of the Secretary of State to evaluate properly the gravity of the dangers to America and all free peoples which communism presents . . ."

Dispute Over Giving Name

The Legion's retiring executive committee had urged that the resolution name Acheson by name and call for his firing. However, the foreign affairs committee toned it down somewhat. Former National Commander John Stelle, former Governor of Illinois, said: "Let's name names. Let's name Acheson."

Michael L. Rooney, Washington, D. C., delegate, led a fight in opposition of criticism of the State Department.

Said Rooney: "This majority report of the foreign relations committee is an indorsement of about 90 percent of the policies of the Administration . . . It says, in effect, that our foreign policy has met with success in most of the world."

Rooney said the "President of the United States makes our foreign policy. Why stick a knife in the back of Dean Acheson?"

National Commander George N. Craig said: "I feel it would be sacrilege to name the person meant. I think the majority of Legionnaires present do condemn and will continue to condemn that man (Secretary Acheson). I think the wording of the resolution will leave no doubt as to who is meant."

The convention, by voice vote, changed from "urge" to "demand" the wording of the key paragraph of the resolution.

Other Recommendations

Other recommendations of the foreign affairs resolution, which was passed by overwhelming but not unanimous vote on the floor, included:

Strengthening of the United Nations charter in removal of the veto power in matters pertaining to aggression.

Soviet Russia aggression to be met with atomic retaliation.

Military and other aid to western Europe, including Spain, and full diplomatic recognition of the latter country.

Earle Cocke, jr., 29-year-old World War II hero, was elected national commander of the Legion.

Cocke, an airlines executive from Dawson, Ga., was elected virtually without opposition by shirt-sleeved delegates perspiring under 99-degree temperature, hottest October 12 in history.

Cocke, accepting his unanimous election, pledged himself to carry out the Legion program. Assisting him will be five vice commanders: Herbert Jacobi, Washington, D. C.; Joseph H. Adams, Miami, Fla.; Felix Pogliano, Denver, Colo.; Lewis H. Gough, Pasadena, Calif., and Frederick Bramlage, Junction City, Kans.

The Legion's highest honor—its Distinguished Service Medal—was presented to Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord of Annapolis, Md., for outstanding service in the National Guard. Gen. Reckord was provost marshal in the European theater and now is adjutant general of Maryland.

Harber Chosen As Chairman Of RFC Board

By The Associated Press

Elmer Harber, Oklahoma banker and supporter of Truman "Fair Deal" policies, has been elected chairman of the board of the multibillion dollar Reconstruction Finance Corporation, it was announced yesterday.

He succeeds Harley Hise, dropped by President Truman in a reshuffle that brought three new men, including Harber, onto the board.

It is taken for granted that the RFC will be the agent for loans of up to two billion dollars to finance expansion of defense industry.

Harber's election by the RFC board apparently represented a White House choice, though the RFC's own announcement said the Oklahoman was named "pending the designation of a chairman by the President."

Harber's nomination for board membership, like those of the other directors, both old and new, is subject to Senate confirmation after Congress goes back to work November 27. The Senate took no action on the nominations before it went on its campaign vacation, and some Senators have expressed dissatisfaction with the selections.

Autumn Hues Beckon D. C. Excursionists

Out into the autumnal go the National Capital Parks tours this weekend.

Taking full advantage of the fact that fall colors are now at their peak in the Shenandoah National Park, NCP will send special buses to traverse the Skyline Drive between Front Royal and Big Meadows on a park trip scheduled to leave 1416 F st. nw. at 7:30 a.m. Sunday and return at about 8 p.m.

Reservations may be made by calling Michigan 6363, extension 400.

Other out-doorsy events scheduled for the weekend include bird walks, to be held from 7 to 8:30 a. m. Saturday at the Roaches Run Waterfowl Sanctuary (meet at the Roaches Run parking area on Mount Vernon Memorial Highway) and at Sligo Creek Parkway (meet at Colesville rd. and Sligo Creek pkwy. in Silver Spring).

On Sunday, birdwalks will be conducted at the same hours on the C&O Canal Parkway, Sycamore Island (meet at MacArthur blvd. and Walhonding rd.) and in the Miller Cabin section of Rock Creek Park (meet at Military rd. and Beach dr. nw.).

For those who want to combine water with land operations for their nature walks, there will be a trip to Roosevelt Island, starting at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at the boat landing near Wisconsin ave. and K sts. nw. A round trip ferry ride will cost 25 cents for adults, 15 cents for children.

Canal barge trips will be made from Lock 3 on 30th st. at 2 p. m. Saturday and from Lock 5, Brookmont, at 4 p. m. Saturday and Sunday.

Church Group Names Area Men to Boards

DES MOINES, Oct. 12—Delegates to the biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America which ended here today have elected several from the Washington, D. C., area to boards and agencies of the church.

They include: Board of Foreign Missions—M. P. Moeller, jr., Hagerstown, Md.; Board of Special Missions—Victor H Evjen, Washington; Board of Education—Rev. Lawrence D. Folkemer, Bethesda, Md.; Executive Committee of Laymen's Movement for Stewardship—Thomas P. Hickman, Washington;

Junior College Dean Tells Of Its Growth

Hugh G. Price, dean of Montgomery County Junior College, Wednesday told a dinner meeting of the Takoma Park Chamber of Commerce the institution has "met its challenge" by sending about 50 students on to colleges and universities.

Principals of high schools in the area were dinner guests of the chamber. Price announced there are now 537 students enrolled in the school, as compared with 185 when the school was established four years ago in quarters formerly occupied by the Bliss Electrical School.

He said the businessmen in Takoma Park can expect a boost in their sales because of money spent by students. He asked principals to encourage high school students to continue their education at a junior college.

Price also announced plans are under way to establish an adult education program at the junior college.

Magner to Open Carroll Forum's Lecture Season

Dr. Magner

"The Holy Year in Europe" will be discussed by the Rev. Dr. James A. Magner, procurator of the Catholic University of America at the first Charles Carroll Forum this fall at 8:15 p.m. today in the Mayflower Hotel.

Father Magner's lecture will inaugurate the forum's tenth year of public lectures on Catholic culture and moral issues.

During the season Marjorie Moffett, of New York City, will present a series of solo sketches on November 17 and the Rev. Harold Gardiner, S. J., will give a Catholic appraisal of great books on December 15.

Planned for the first lecture of 1951 will be the "Catholic Position on Marriage and Divorce" by the Rev. Dr. Francis J. Connell, C. SS. R., dean of the School of Sacred Theology of Catholic University.

Biffle Says Democrats Will Control Congress

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 12 (U.P.).—The man whose "barnyard polls" led President Truman to predict his 1948 victory said today that the Democrats will keep control of the House and gain strength in the Senate in the November election.

Secretary of the Senate Leslie Biffle said "without any ifs, ands or buts, we will beat (Senator Robert A.) Taft in Ohio, we'll beat (Senator Homer E.) Capehart in Indiana and we'll beat (Senator Eugene D.) Millikin in Colorado."

Pennsylvania Junto Meets

Harry C. Shriver, an employe of the Maritime Commission, will be the speaker at a meeting of the Pennsylvania Historical Junto at 8:15 tonight at the National Archives building, 8th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw.

The Gallup Poll

Decision to Cross 38th Parallel Had Broad Support of Public

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N.J., Oct. 12.—The decision to cross the thirty-eighth parallel in Korea was closely in line with the sentiment of the American public as expressed in a public opinion survey completed shortly before the crossing was made.

This survey, for which the interviewing was started in mid-September, found a vote of greater than 2-to-1 in favor of having our troops continue the fighting on the North Korean side of the parallel.

Troops of the American First Cavalry Division entered North Korea shortly before Gen. Douglas MacArthur issued, on October 9, his final ultimatum to the North Korean government, basing his action on a United Nations resolution calling for unification of all Korea under a democratic government.

In the survey, a cross-section of voters was asked:

"What do you, yourself, think—should the fighting stop when we have succeeded in pushing the North Koreans back over the line from where they started—or do you think we should continue the fight in their own territory until they have surrendered?"

Stop fighting	27%
Continue	64
No opinion	9
	100%

The study found a lower vote among college people for crossing the parallel than among those who have not had college training.

	College	High School	Grade School
Stop	35%	26%	25%
Continue	59	65	66
No opinion	6	9	9
	100%	100%	100%

Universalist Laity Begins Meeting Today

More than 150 laymen from the Universalist churches in the United States and Canada will gather here today for a three-day conference on "The Function of a Free Church."

Separate conferences of Universalist men and women will be held in National Memorial Church, 1810 16th st. nw.

It will mark the first occasion in the 180-year history of the church that the laity has conferred without the presence of the clergy.

Keynote address for the men today will be given at 10 a. m. by Kingsbury Badger, professor of English literature at Boston University. His topic will be, "The Truths That Unite Us."

The women will hear Edna P. Bruner, a member of the board of education of the Universalist Church of America. She will talk on "Universalism for Today's World."

Saturday, a joint dinner meeting will be addressed by Lowell B. Mason, member of the Federal Trade Commission, on "The Meaning of Liberal Christianity for Times Like These."

Ross S. Gleeson of 3918 W st. nw. is chairman of the local committee. The Rev. Seth R. Brooks is host minister.

Boss Tells 45 Workers To Vote or Lose Jobs

GENEVA, Ill., Oct. 12 (AP).—The boss today ordered his 45 workers to vote in the Nov. 7 general election or lose their jobs.

Aldridge J. Yates, president of the Kane County Title Co., posted a notice telling the firm's employes to "vote November 7 or don't show up thereafter because your places will be filled by loyal Americans."

"I'm not trying to tell them how to vote," Yates later told a reporter. "I'm telling them only that they must vote."

Housing Bureau Is Proposed

A relocation bureau to help find homes for low-income families evicted from housing razed for commercial purposes or slum clearance was proposed yesterday by the Washington Housing Association.

The bureau could be operated as a District government adjunct or by a private agency, the association suggested.

The need for the center is clear, the association said. "A great deal of demolition and remodeling for business and other purposes is going on in Washington. Each time residential property is demolished or converted to commercial property, families are evicted."

The association cited a case about two months ago when George Washington University gave 73 families 60-day notices to leave their homes to make way for a parking lot for the university hospital.

The university hired two social workers to help the evictees find new quarters. All but two of these families now have been relocated, the association reported yesterday.

This experience and many others, said the association, points up the fact that the logical answer is a permanent relocation bureau.

Maryland Man Dies In Traffic Mishap

A 53-year-old Hall (Md.) man was instantly killed last night when the pickup truck he was driving near his home was struck by a tractor trailer.

The victim, Harry F. Brown, was thrown out of his truck and was decapitated as the tractor trailer skidded over him, according to Marlboro police.

The driver of the tractor trailer, Melvin J. Fair, 25, of Reisterstown, Md., was charged with manslaughter and reckless driving.

Police said Brown was driving north on Route 301 and was about to turn left into Central ave., near Hall, when the tractor trailer crashed into the real of the automobile.

Fair was held under $1000 bond for appearance in Marlboro Police Court at 10 a.m. today.

One man was critically injured and two others seriously hurt early yesterday when their car ran off Leesburg pike, about four miles west of Tysons Corner in Fairfax County, hit a tree and overturned.

All of the injured were taken to Arlington Hospital where Charles Webb, 34, of Millville, W. Va., was in critical condition with back and chest injuries.

Listed in serious condition were Paul Ballenger, 21, of Bolivar, W. Va., with back and leg injuries, and Wallace Mills, 31, also of Millville, W. Va., with scalp and chest injuries.

Fairfax County police said it had not been determined which of the three men was driving the car.

A 5-year-old girl was struck by an automobile last night as she was crossing 4th st. nw. at Oakdale pl., suffering a fractured thigh. The girl, Ruth E. Dean, daughter of Mrs. Edna Dean, 439 Elm st. nw., was reported in satisfactory condition at Freedman's Hospital.

Driver of the car was identified by police as Vincent N. Cascio, 24, a carpet layer, of 1327 Rittenhouse st. nw. A hearing will be held at the corporation counsel's office November 10.

Vice Commander

D. C. Resident Wins High Legion Post

HERBERT J. JACOBI
. . . elected to high Legion post

Herbert J. Jacobi, Washington patent attorney and past department commander of the District American Legion, yesterday was elected national vice commander of the American Legion at its convention in Los Angeles.

Jacobi, a native Washingtonian who lives at 3805 Gramercy st. nw., attended George Washington University where he specialized in engineering and later graduated from the Georgetown University law school. He served during World War I in the Army from 1914 until 1917.

Jacobi is married and has two sons, Herbert, jr., who served as an Army infantry officer, and Robert, a student at Washington-Lee University.

Jacobi is a member of National Cathedral Post No. 10 of the District department.

Homemakers Meeting Has U.N. Flavor

The Montgomery County Council of Homemakers Clubs held its twenty-third annual meeting yesterday at the Silver Spring National Guard Armory.

In keeping with a theme emphasizing international goodwill, representatives of several diplomatic missions from United Nations countries attended the session.

A United Nations flag was presented to the group by the council by Mrs. Ralph Beall, who made it herself.

J. Burton Morris, assistant county agent, told the meeting that the County Agriculture Center at Gaithersburg is not designed only for the use of farmers but for all the county.

Dr. Charles Weniger, dean of Washington Theological Seminary, talked on the "Life of Benjamin Franklin," whom he called the father of civic groups. Mrs. George Ray, jr., presided.

Thorez Ill; Rest Ordered

PARIS, Oct. 12 (U.P.).—French Communist boss Maurice Thorez was ill today with an acute attack of high blood pressure caused by overwork, and his doctors ordered him to rest several weeks. He was stricken while en route to work Tuesday.

Bond Refused For Edwards In Slaying

Judge Stedman Prescott of Montgomery County Circuit Court yesterday refused bond for Lee Edwards, 20, Washington Army veteran charged with murder.

Edwards is charged with the slaying September 2 of Donald J. Stambaugh, 21, of 409 4th st. nw., on Longley rd. near Piney Branch rd., Silver Spring.

Edwards, who lived at 4911 14th st. nw., asked in a habeas corpus hearing that he be admitted to bail so that he could prefare his defense. Defense Attorney James H. Pugh characterized the evidence presented by the State as "purely circumstantial" and not enough to warrant holding Edwards in jail pending his trial.

Judge Prescott said his duty was not to pass upon the guilt or innocence of the defendant, but to determine if the State presented probable cause to hold him.

"There is no question that the State has amply met the need to show probable cause to hold the defendant," the judge said.

Auto Loan Firm Denied Title to Car

Judge Alexander Holtzoff of District Court refused yesterday to issue an order compelling Traffic Director George E. Keneipp to grant an automobile repossession certificate to Columbia Auto Loan, Inc.

The credit firm charged that it had repossessed an automobile after a loan was not repaid, but that Keneipp would not give title for the car to the company. Keneipp contended that the lenders must show evidence which would entitle them to the car, according to Assistant Corporation Counsel Milton D. Korman.

Judge Holtzoff ruled that he did not have jurisdiction over the case.

The judge also said he wanted to clarify a statement he made in another automobile loan case the day before in which he criticized administrative officials for not abiding by fundamental legal principles. He had mentioned District Superintendent of Insurance Albert F. Jordan by name.

Judge Holtzoff said:

"Of course, I do not mean to reflect on the good faith or the ability of the superintendent of insurance or his zeal to protect the public interest. But in his zeal to protect the public interest, he went in excess of his authority and the limitations of due process of law."

Bolt Narrowly Misses Trans-World Airliner

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (U.P.).—A bolt of lightning narrowly missed a Trans World Airline plane, in which 13 passengers were about to take off for Germany tonight, and flattened ground crewmen as it danced across LaGuardia Field.

The lightning struck the concrete parking area three feet from the Constellation and tore holes in the landing apron. Ground crew members 20 feet away were knocked down but nobody was hurt. A tremendous clap of thunder followed. Another plane took off for the trip after a 6-hour delay.

Adventists Forming Corps for Civil Defense

The 3500 Seventh-Day Adventists in 35 churches throughout Greater Washington have been called upon to enlist in a civil defense and disaster relief program conducted by the denomination.

Carlyle B. Haynes, executive secretary of the S-DA War Service Commission, urged them to attend a mass meeting on the subject to be held in the Sligo Church, Carroll and Flower aves., Takoma Park, Md., on Saturday at 7 p. m. He will preside.

Principal speaker will be Daniel Leonard, director of safety service for the District Chapter of the American Red Cross. Medical problems in the event of disaster in Washington will be outlined by Dr. Theodore R. Flaiz, head of the S-DA International Medical Department.

Army films showing effects of the atomic bombs on Japan also are scheduled.

Squads will be organized for devastation, rescue, decontamination and litter bearing work at the session, Flaiz said.

At the same time, a medical cadet training corps for employed persons will be organized. The Adventists for years have been training to serve as noncombatants in time of war.

Because their faith forbids Adventists to kill in war, they serve their country in other capacities, church officials explained.

Pittsburgh Mayor Declares Bank Record Call Is 'Smear'

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12 (AP).—Mayor David L. Lawrence today called the State's subpena of his bank records "a smear attempt" but said he is perfectly willing to show them to any authorized person.

Bank accounts and safety deposit box records of Lawrence and 57 other city officials and high police officials were subpenaed yesterday by Special Deputy Attorney General W. Denning Stewart.

Stewart is in charge of a grand jury investigation into charges that some city officials have violated the public interest by misuse of city labor.

Lawrence, a Democratic National Committeeman, said Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti and the grand jury will be surprised to learn "that public office honestly administered is more of a financial liability in these times than it is a financial asset."

The Mayor said the subpenas—which also were served on the officials' wives—bears out his prediction that the investigation "will be used for political purposes from start to finish."

He called the subpenas "a cheap publicity stunt" and suggested to the grand jury that it subpena personal records and accounts of Margiotti.

County Jailer Seeks War-Bomb Insurance

CROWN POINT, Ind. (U.P.).—Warden George McCormack wants to get the county jail ready for war.

He asked the commissioners to install an auxiliary power unit in case an enemy bomb knocked out the regular line.

"I can't send my guests home if the power does go off."

The board ordered the county engineer to make cost estimates.

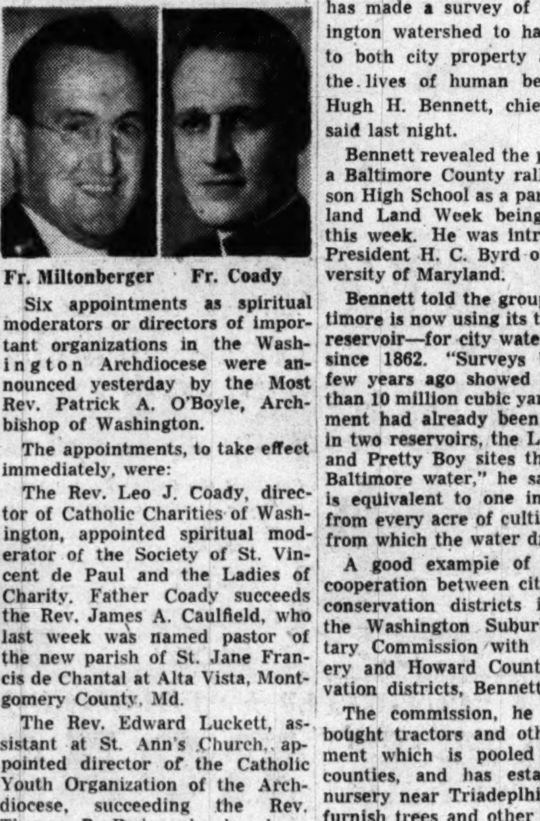
Six Priests Named for Extra Duties



Fr. Miltonberger Fr. Coady

Six appointments as spiritual moderators or directors of important organizations in the Washington Archdiocese were announced yesterday by the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington.

The appointments, to take effect immediately, were:

The Rev. Leo J. Coady, director of Catholic Charities of Washington, appointed spiritual moderator of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul and the Ladies of Charity. Father Coady succeeds the Rev. James A. Caulfield, who last week was named pastor of the new parish of St. Jane Francis de Chantal at Alta Vista, Montgomery County, Md.

The Rev. Edward Luckett, assistant at St. Ann's Church, appointed director of the Catholic Youth Organization of the Archdiocese, succeeding the Rev. Thomas B. Dade, who has been pastor since last April of St. Bernard's Church, East Riverdale, Md.

The Rev. John B. Roeder, assistant at St. Gabriel's Church, appointed spiritual director of the Sodality Union. He succeeds the Rev. Charles W. Nelson who will assume his new duties as pastor of Our Lady Star of the Sea Church at Solomons Island, Md., on October 21.

The Rev. Louis F. Miltenberger, assistant at St. Martin's Church, appointed director of Cana Conferences for the Archdioceses.

Father Miltenberger succeeds the Very Rev. Msgr. John S. Spence who will devote his full time to his duties as director of education.

The Rev. George V. Gingras, administrator of St. Augustine's Church, appointed director of the St. Vincent de Paul Summer Camps in southern Maryland.

The Rev. Joseph L. Teletchea, assistant at St. Patrick's Church, appointed director of resettlement for displaced persons succeeding Father Dade.

All appointments will be in addition to the regular assignments.

Watershed Is Land Week Talk Topic

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The Soil Conservation Service has made a survey of the Washington watershed to halt damage to both city property and "even the lives of human beings," Dr. Hugh H. Bennett, chief of SCS, said last night.

Bennett revealed the program at a Baltimore County rally at Towson High School as a part of Maryland Land Week being observed this week. He was introduced by President H. C. Byrd of the University of Maryland.

Bennett told the group that Baltimore is now using its third water reservoir—for city water supply—since 1862. "Surveys by SCS a few years ago showed that more than 10 million cubic yards of sediment had already been deposited in two reservoirs, the Loch Raven and Pretty Boy sites that furnish Baltimore water," he said. "That is equivalent to one inch of soil from every acre of cultivated land from which the water drains."

A good exampie of successful cooperation between city and soil conservation districts is that of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission with Montgomery and Howard County Conservation districts, Bennett said.

The commission, he said, has bought tractors and other equipment which is pooled with the counties, and has established a nursery near Triadeplhia Lake to furnish trees and other plants for conservation use in the districts.

Two Firms Forfeit $450 on Safety Act Charges

Two firms forfeited a total of $450 in Municipal Court yesterday on charges of violating the Industrial Safety Act.

Lenkin Construction Co., 3313 14th st. nw., forfeited $400 on charges of failing to have proper railings on runways, stairs and landings on apartments under construction at 3701 and 3801 Connecticut ave. nw.

James Kane & Co., plastering contractors, 2430 Pennsylvania ave. nw., forfeited $50 for failing to use construction materials safely. According to Inspector Herman C. Lauritzen, scaffold planks were not handled properly at 4201 Massachusetts ave. nw.

Breweries Here And in Baltimore Raise Beer Prices

The Christian Heurich Brewing Co. here and Baltimore's five breweries announced they would increase wholesale beer prices by 10 cents a case and 41 cents a barrel today.

This is expected to mean a one-cent increase per can or bottle in the package stores and groceries, when new stocks are purchased at the hgiher price, probably in about a week.

Brewery spokesmen said the rise was due to higher costs of labor and of grain. National brands raised prices 15 cents a case in the area last week.

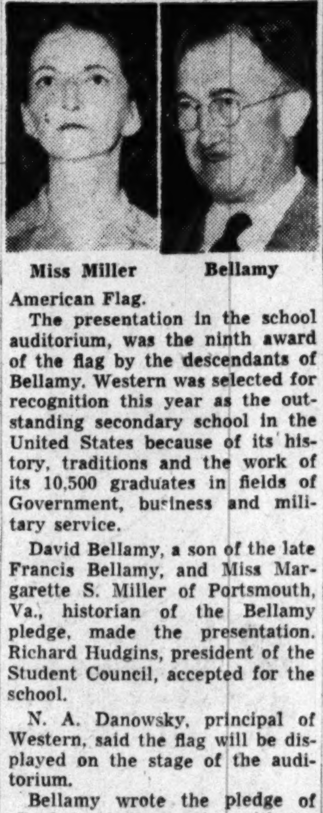
Md. Servicemen Are Reminded Of Voting Rights

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 12 (AP). Got a friend in the service? It's your duty, says the Maryland Secretary of State, to see that he votes next month.

Applications have been distributed widely, but so far only 60 servicemen have asked for an absentee ballot.

Bellamy Flag Presented to Western High

Western High School yesterday received a Francis Bellamy national ensign honoring the author of the pledge of allegiance to the American Flag.



Miss Miller Bellamy

The presentation in the school auditorium, was the ninth award of the flag by the descendants of Bellamy. Western was selected for recognition this year as the outstanding secondary school in the United States because of its history, traditions and the work of its 10,500 graduates in fields of Government, business and military service.

David Bellamy, a son of the late Francis Bellamy, and Miss Margarette S. Miller of Portsmouth, Va., historian of the Bellamy pledge, made the presentation. Richard Hudgins, president of the Student Council, accepted for the school.

N. A. Danowsky, principal of Western, said the flag will be displayed on the stage of the auditorium.

Bellamy wrote the pledge of allegiance in connection with the 1892 World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago. With few changes, the pledge has been handed down to succeeding generations.

Among other speakers were Dr. Hobart M. Corning, superintendent of schools; C. Melvin Sharpe, president of the Board of Education; Fulton Lewis, jr., a Western High School graduate, who accepted for the alumni of the school, and Miss Miller.

SAM Chalks Up Hundred Millionth Passenger Mile

SAM flew its hundred millionth passenger mile yesterday out of Bolling Air Force Base.

The Special Air Misisons group, which operates under orders from the office of the Secretary of Defense, is assigned for such special missions as disaster work—it was on hand for the Texas City, Texas, fire and transportation of Vice President Barkley and other VIPs.

Its record mileage was achieved while carrying Gen. Charles I. Carpenter of 19 Woodmont rd., Alexandria, chief of the Air Force chaplains, to a religious meeting at Sherman, Texas.

Bolling authorities said the only accident to mar the flying safety record of SAM hapapened when a mission plane in 1948 was hit by a B-25 near Newton, N. Y., and nine persons were killed.

$245,705 Low Parking Bid At Pentagon

Low bidder for the job of adding 1600 spaces to the Pentagon's north parking lot is the Alexandria firm of Payne & Oliver, Inc., the Bureau of Public Roads reported yesterday.

It is expected the firm's bid of $245,705 will be accepted in a few days. The contract will call for completion of the parking lot expansion within 90 days.

The extension will be built between the north end of the present parking lot and the sewage disposal plant.

This will ease a serious shortage caused by increase in personnel at the Pentagon, where the present 6000 spaces are filled by 9:30 each morning and hundreds of would-be parkers are turned away.

Large numbes of motorists are parking without permits, or in the wrong spaces, Pentagon officials report. There is a backlog of 1400 permit applications which it is hoped to fill when the new parking spaces are completed.

VFW to Participate In Observing U. N. Day

Charles C. Ralls, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, announced last night that his organization would go through with plans to cooperate in the celebration of U. N. Day October 24 although he objects to flying the U. N. flag over American public buildings.

Crime Poor Pay; 'Got No Dough, Am Turning Straight'

CLIFTON, N. J., Oct. 12 (AP).—A life of crime wasn't worth while, one thief decided. He wrote police a letter today and told them to come get the loot.

Enclosing a newspaper clipping about a Florence Drive house robbery, the thief wrote police: "Down on Adams st. you will find the stuff from dis place. A white rag is hanging from a tree."

Police went to Adams Street, located the white rag and recovered 20 bars of soap, 10 pounds of sugar and 10 cans of tomatoes.

The note, signed only "The Phantom," explained the change of heart:

Mother Wins Discharge For 16-Year-Old GI

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Oct. 12 (AP).—A St. Petersburg mother has won her fight to get her 16-year-old son off the Korean battlefields.

Mrs. Christeen Austin said she yielded to her son's pleas when he was 14 and signed enlistment papers saying he was 17. When the boy, Lloyd R. Austin, was sent to Korea she asked the Army Department for his discharge. Yesterday Lloyd telephoned her from Fort Knox, Ky., that he would be discharged Oct. 23.

Salt, Soda Hailed As Shock Treatment

The Public Health Service yesterday announced that a simple solution of common table salt and baking soda—taken by mouth—is "in a vast majority of cases . . . as effective as blood plasma in the emergency treatment of shock."

Since shock would be a prime killer in the event of an atomic bomb attack, the announcement may have solved dramatically one of the Nation's toughest problems in civil defense: The stockpiling of enough blood plasma to be used in the event of atomic bombings.

Fifteen top American surgeons—a Government official called the list "a partial Who's Who in surgery"—recommended the technique. The surgeons comprise the surgery study section, an advisory body serving the National Institute of Health and the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service.

Medical experts of the National Security Resources Board, the Atomic Energy Commission, the Federal Security Agency and the Red Cross expressed approval—cautious approval—of the development. They said it has great potential significance, particularly in the event of atomic attack.

One section of the surgery group's recommendations read:

"While further clinical research concerning the effectiveness of oral salt solution in the treatment of burns and other injuries is certainly in order, there is already sufficient evidence to suggest that this form of treatment should be used in any large-scale disaster involving the civilian population."

The preparation consists of about one level teaspoon of ordinary salt, plus a half-teaspoonful of baking soda in a quart of water.

The technique of administering the fluid is simple: The patient drinks as much of it as he can, but is allowed no other liquid for the first few days after his injury.

Those who have tasted the salt-and-baking-soda mixture describe it as "bland" and "quite palatable." An amazing sidelight reported by one medical source is that persons in shock from burns develop a taste for the liquid, take it voluntarily.

Tried on Animals, Humans

The technique has been tried both on animals and on humans with success.

The formula represents about one-half the concentration of salts in water in todays "normal saline solution," used in hospitals in shock treatments. "Normal saline solution," chemically concocted to duplicate as nearly as possible the bloods own plasma, is dripped into the patient's veins from its suspended bottle.

Dr, Leonard A. Scheele, PHS Surgeon General, emphasized that the treatment, "while of enormous benefit in the event of a large-scale disaster, must not be constructed as lessening in any way the importance of blood bank programs. Whole blood and plasma are still essential."

"We believe," said Dr. Scheele, "that the salt water method of treatment should be included . . . in Red Cross training programs so that the necessary information may be fully available to all first-aid personnel, including firemen, policemen, air-raid wardens and housewives."

The technique had its origins in the Bethesda laboratories of Dr. Sanford Rosenthal, chief of the pharmacology section of the National Institutes of Health.

Comment on the technique and its implications included a statement rom the Atomic Energy Commission. Dr. Charles Dunham, chief of the Medical Branch of AEC, reported:

"We have been following these reports with a great deal of interest, particularly because this is something that is simple and may be a very effective stopgap method in case of emergency."

Red Cross to Study Technique

Concerning the recommendation that the Red Cross include the method in its instruction courses, Dr. Carl Potthoff, Red Cross director of first aid and an associate medical director, explained that the Red Cross would study the suggestion as well as the treatment itself.

Rainmaker Can Bring Drought

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Oct. 12 (U.P). — Artificial rain-making, by seeding the clouds with silver iodide, can backfire and cause drouth conditions, Dr. Irving Langmuir said today.

Langmuir, Nobel Prize-winning scientist, made the disclosure at the National Academy of Sciences. He recommended large-scale weather experiments throughout the country, saying the project should be handled by the Weather Bureau.

He said that, under certain conditions, by overseeding a cloud, you can prevent it from raining, and that such might be advisable when a community had too much rain.

"During the winter and spring repeated seedings in the Southwest apparently gave, five to six days later, heavy widespread rains over areas of more than 600,000 square miles extending east-northeast from the western boundaries of Louisiana, Arkansas and Missouri," he said.

However, he said, west of the rain-belt and south of central Colorado "there was at this time unusually low rainfall."

"As summer approached," he said, "the area showing high correlation with the systematic seedings gradually receded nearer to the point of seeding, so that in July the average rainfall in New Mexico has greatly exceeded previous records."

Here is Dr. Langmuir's explanation:

During the winter in the Southwest there is insufficient moisture and convection activity for the silver iodide to be carried into clouds where ice crystals could form. The prevailing winds therefore carry it over the Mississippi Valley where it meets moist air from the Gulf.

The heat liberated by the condensation in the showers that are set up over wide areas greatly exceeds the heat delivered by the sun.

"Thus," he said, "drouth in the Southwest and heavy rains in the Southeast may have resulted from changes in the weather conditions induced by seeding in the Southwest."

Radioactivity Clock Gives New Data on Age of American Man

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP).—The age of man in North America was dated in a new and accurate way with radioactive carbon studies reported today to the National Academy of Sciences by Dr. Willard F. Libby and Dr. James R. Arnold of the University of Chicago.

Radioactive carbon, a product of atomic energy, is also made in the air by cosmic rays. The radioactivity lasts 50,000 years and can be found in organic objects that old. The carbon dates these objects.

The radioactivity shows that the last ice age in North America was about 12,000 years ago, instead of 25,000, as had been believed.

The dates came from spruce trees at Two Creeks, Wis., which grew just before the ice moved down from the North.

This radioactivity clock finds the first humans in North America in Oregon and Nevada. They were identified in Oregon by woven sandals found in a cave in the eastern part of the State. The sandals are 12,000 years old, by the carbon clock. Since the early Oregonians already could make sandals, it is concluded that men must have been there much earlier.

The first carbon evidence of man in the eastern United States goes back only 5000 years. One clew is some fish wire stakes found three years ago, when excavations were made in Boston.

Charcoal fires in New York State and deer antlers that early men used in Kentucky go back 5000 years.

The first carbon evidence of agriculture has come from Jarmo, Iraq, and goes back 7000 years.

Mexico was inhabited at least 7000 years ago by people who produced carvings that are dated by carbon. Peruvians a thousand years before Christ wove 200 feet of three-eighths-inch rope. Crater Lake, Oregon, one of the world's famous scenic places, was created by a volcanic explosion 6000 years ago. The date comes from trees killed by flowing lava.

Land And Life

Maryland Land Week, which is being observed currently, is not a back-to-the-soil movement. It is, however, a period wisely chosen to emphasize the ultimate dependence upon the soil and natural resources of every Maryland citizen, city dweller as well as farmer. During this week Maryland agricultural, civic and business organizations are cooperating in a program demonstrating proper conservation practices on farms and showing how urban residents are affected by erosion, poor drainage and the like. In every county in the State there are exhibits of contour plowing and terracing, cultivation of woodlots and wildlife protection. School children are taking part through essay contests.

This is the sort of observance that deserves to be copied in a Nation that has been profligate with its natural endowment. Land is the sustenance of us all, and we can never afford to forget our dependence. Nor is the interest of the city dweller remote—proper conservation and restoration figure in his food, his water supply (witness New York's recent plight), flood control, health and in countless similar necessities. Maryland Land Week has a particular bearing on health in the Washington area in its relation to the problem of pollution in the Potomac River, to which so much attention has been called recently. The vile conditions below Hains Point have become a first degree health menace. Perhaps increasing popular awareness can shame nearby Virginia authorities into action.

Driving Diplomacy

It is indeed unusual to have a member of the Diplomatic Corps in Washington praised for his driving. Diplomats here are the targets for a good deal of tart comment for their seeming inattention to traffic regulations, particularly on parking. For that reason it is refreshing to have the tables turned, with a diplomat receiving a courteous driving award from the American Automobile Association. Jorge Hazera, the Minister-Counselor of the Costa Rican Embassy, has won this recognition for his courteous regard for a pedestrian last week—an incident reported to the AAA during its courteous driving campaign for the metropolitan area. We congratulate Mr. Hazera and commend his example.

Refugee Problem

The International Refugee Organization had still under its care on September 1 of this year approximately 305,000 displaced and homeless human beings. It has done a mammoth job during the slightly more than three years of its existence. It has repatriated more than 70,000 refugees, resettled more than 700,000, given care and maintenance for varying periods to 950,000 and provided other services such as legal protection to half a million. It is plain, however, that its job is not completed—and cannot be completed by March 31, 1951, the deadline set for it to start liquidation and cease resettlement.

Between now and the end of next March a good deal of progress is expected to be made. The United States will probably take in between 40,000 and 50,000 under our recently amended Displaced Persons Act. Other countries will take in considerably more. But when the utmost has been done, it is estimated that some 200,000 will still be left uprooted and uncared for, constituting a problem that must trouble the order and the economy and the conscience of the world. For this reason the executive committee of the IRO has approved a recommendation of its director general, J. Donald Kingsley, to continue resettlement operations "until it has completed its task, exhausted its funds, or both." It believes that it has enough money left, without asking its member governments for any additional contributions, to go on functioning until the end of 1951 and that by then it can virtually wipe out the problem.

The residue of 200,000 expected after next March will comprise two principal categories. One is what is generally known as "the hard core"—the DPs whom it has been found difficult to resettle either because they have physical handicaps or lack desirable occupational skills or are politically suspect; the other consists of latecomers—persons who fled from oppression in Iron Curtain countries and sought the IRO's protection subsequent to the deadline for registration of October 15, 1949. In accordance with a second recommendation by Mr. Kingsley, the IRO executive committee has decided to ignore this deadline.

Although the residue will not be eligible for admission to the United States, it is expected that they will be taken in by other countries more eager for settlers and less jittery than we. Canada, Australia and some of the South American republics will probably absorb the bulk of them. But the problem, so long as it remains, belongs to the whole world. These are the victims of war and tyranny. Civilized men cannot turn their backs on them.

Use Of The Veto

A curious conception of the big power veto in the United Nations Security Council is being advanced as a means of high-pressuring the United States into vetoing the proposal to admit Communist China to the United Nations. Some Congressmen are reported as saying that nonuse of the veto in this instance would amount to surrender of our right to use it. Such an attitude, it is said, might be deemed a violation of the spirit of the Senate's ratification of the U. N. Treaty. Whatever may be the merits of proposals for elimination of the veto right from the Charter, the argument continues, no case can be made out for unilateral abandonment of this important power by the United States while Russia continues to use it with no restraint.

This seems to us an extremely narrow view of the issues actually involved in the use of the veto. When this power was granted to the Big Five at San Francisco, they pledged themselves to use the veto sparingly, and, except for the Soviet Union, they have kept that pledge. To its great credit the United States has never used the veto. Of course, this does not mean that it will never do so. If the Council should propose some action threatening our security, the President would doubtless have the approval of Congress and the people in directing our U. N. representative to stop it. But there are many lesser issues on which the United States may differ from the majority view in the Council without feeling justified in employing the veto. And in the present case it must be remembered that the United States has condemned use of the veto to exclude new members. Accordingly the State Department could not employ the veto power to prevent the seating of a delegate of the Peking government without bringing condemnation down upon its own head for not living up to its own pledge.

Aside from this, the strength of the United States' position in the U. N. is dependent largely upon its willingness to abide by U. N. principles and to avoid blocking action that a large majority of the U. N. members wish to take. At present the American delegation is attempting to give the General Assembly the means of moving against an aggressor by a two-thirds vote. Use of the veto would throw cold water on that effort. Certainly it cannot reasonably be said that failure to use the veto against the seating of the Chinese Reds (an issue that should be decided on its own merits) would amount to abandonment of the veto. As we see it, such action would reflect only wise restraint in the use of power for the sake of retaining and strengthening our leadership in the world organization.

United Nations "Plot"

The President General of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution has brought patriotism to a new pinnacle with the inauguration of her campaign against the United Nations flag. In a press release issued Monday, she called resolutely "on all our members to resist the un-American effort which is being made to fly the flag of the United Nations above or in equal prominence with the Stars and Stripes." This un-American effort has gone so far that even Gen. Douglas MacArthur has allowed the U. N. emblem to fly over his headquarters side by side with Old Glory. Indeed, American soldiers serving under him as commander of United Nations forces in Korea have carried the U. N. flag into battle. It will be news to them and to General MacArthur that, as the president general put it, "there is no need ever to display the United Nations flag except at a United Nations meeting."

It appears that the un-American effort to supersede, or at any rate rival, the American Flag with the U. N. flag is nothing new but has been cunningly hatched and had its origins in a plot conceived long before the U. N. itself, let alone its flag, came into being. As far back as August, 1933, according to the president general, an unnamed architect let it be known that "flag poles atop imposing Government buildings under construction are not in good taste." Thus, subtly, the attempt to "take the Stars and Stripes out of sight of the people" was begun. Where will it all end?

The Daughters of the American Revolution do not stand alone in their determination to keep the U. N. flag from parity with the United States Flag. They are joined resolutely by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, whose national commander accused the Department of Agriculture of an "apparent effort to flood the country with United Nations flags." He had reference to an audacious attempt by the department—at the request of the U. N. anniversary committee—to promote the display of U. N. flags, parallel to American Flags, from public buildings on October 24, the fifth anniversary of the date on which the United Nations Charter became effective. As the DAR and the VFW no doubt remember, the United Nations is an organization created at San Francisco with headquarters at New York of which the United States is a member in good standing.

Long ago, in Colonial days, there were forebears of today's Daughters of the American Revolution who engaged in an un-Virginian or un-Pennsylvanian effort to fly the flag of the United States along-side the flags of their particular localities. At Cambridge on January 2, 1776, Gen. George Washington raised such a flag before his troops. It seemed to inspire in them a new sense of unity and purpose. Perhaps a flag that stands for a union of the free is not so un-American as the present president of the DAR seems to believe.

Capone Again

It should not have been necessary for Senator Kefauver to emphasize that his crime committee is acting in nonpartisan fashion. That the Tennessee Senator is letting the chips fall where they may in his exposure of interstate crime rings is shown by the committee's investigation in Kansas City, a citadel of Democratic political power, along with its excursions into Republican strongholds. The fact is, of course, that the crime syndicates make use of venal politicians wherever they find them, and machines of both major parties have some pretty sordid alliances.

Probably the most spectacular work of the committee so far is to show the extent to which the criminal syndicates are linked together, the important part played by racing wire services which seem to be indispensable to interstate crime operations, and the way the syndicates use legitimate business operations as fronts. It is dismaying but not surprising to learn that the Capone gang did not end with the death of Scarface Al and that it still presides over a vast criminal empire. That the committee struck pay dirt here is indicated by the sudden disappearances of mobsters summoned to testify—evasions which will earn them contempt citations if nothing more.

In the wake of the committee disclosures there already seems to be a healthy awakening over the country to the menace of the conspiracy which has been milking the public and corrupting law enforcement. The shakeup in New York, though not directly related, is an example of tough action against corruption. Corralling the mobsters, of course, will not be easy, especially since they have been put on the run. All the Kefauver committee can do is expose; it will be up to an aroused local citizenry to act. But in getting at the facts the committee already has more than justified its existence.

Non-Communist Oath

There is a certain amount of merit to Senator McCarthy's charge that the Department of Justice has ignored evidence indicating that false non-Communist affidavits were made by some officers of the independent United Electrical Workers Union. This is the group that was expelled from the CIO on the ground that it was under Communist domination and the Senator must be credited for once with rational conjecture when he said that the UE contract with General Electric, covering some 47 plants and 37,000 employes, was an "agreement in which one of the parties represented the interests of the Kremlin."

We can see no warrant, however, for berating the Department of Justice. It is faced with an impossible problem by the non-Communist affidavit provision of the Taft-Hartley Act—and will be faced with the same problem in a still more impossible form under the Communist registration requirements of the McCarran Act. The problem is how to prove that a Communist who says that he has resigned from the party is, in fact, a Communist. It will not suffice to prove that he used to be a Communist; no doubt the FBI could do that in most cases if it considered it worth while to expose all its undercover operatives. But if a man who admits that he was once a Communist, turns in his card, makes a public resignation and recantation and ends, as Lee Pressman put it, all "organizational contact" with the party, even the FBI would be hard put to it to show in court that he had mental reservations.

The Constitution is very clear in its prohibition of ex post facto laws; therefore the requirements of the Taft-Hartley Act and the McCarran Act cannot be applied to former membership in the party. It would be a great misfortune if they were to be applied by mere inference, for this would be to cast forever into outer darkness anyone who had joined the party at any time for any reason, no matter how genuine his reconversion. Senator McCarthy ought to present his complaint to the Congress which enacted the unenforceable provisions of these laws rather than to the Department of Justice which is saddled with the unhappy task of enforcing them.

The Senator might, incidentally, lodge a complaint against the General Electric Co. which continues to do business with a union which, he says, represents "the interests of the Kremlin." David E. Lilienthal—whom Senator McCarthy would no doubt be ready to denounce as a subversive radical—refused to deal with the UE when he was chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; as a result there is now no question of divided loyalty in AEC projects. His realism deserves emulation.

Arlington School Taxes

The Arlington School Board has recently estimated that the cost of the proposed school bonds to the individual taxpayer will be "approximately $7 on a tax bill of $100, or two cents a day."

At a meeting of the Barcroft School and Civic League last Thursday night, John Locke Green, county treasurer, misquoted the statement by declaring the board had said that there would be a tax rate of $7 on every $100 of assessed property valuation. When members of the audience tried to call Mr. Green's attention to his error, he shouted them down, and walked out of the meeting.

There is a big difference between a $7 increase on a total tax bill of $100 and a rate of taxation which would levy $7 on every $100 of property valuation. Actually, the increase for the proposed bonds would amount to about 25 cents which added to our present tax levy of $3.63 would be a total of $3.88.

It is a lamentable situation when this difference is ignored by the man who is Arlington County's treasurer.

LANCE G. HOOKS,

If Green, although treasurer of a county of 135,000 population is so ignorant that he cannot understand plain English, he should resign. If he does understand it, and continues to tell audiences as he did recently that their tax rate will be $7 on each $100 valuation, he lies.

GI Dividend

A recent article appearing in "Stars and Stripes" newspaper here in Korea suggests the possibility of another dividend on National Service Life Insurance in 1951.

The article greatly raised the spirits of many boys on the fighting front and visions of paying overdue bills and maybe a down payment on a home or a new car were visualized.

However, for me the article was just a bit depressing. For 9 months now I have waited patiently for the first long over-due dividend. Numerous letters to the Veterans' Administration have gone unanswered.

In order to maintain my morale at a satisfactory level, please have the VA answer one question, "When am I going to receive my first dividend?"

Peace Department

Ever since Cain killed Abel, men have sought to solve their problems through physical combat. Sticks, stones, and arrows were used by primitive people, while later the so-called civilized resorted to guns and cannons. Today men resort to liquid fire and atomic bombs, in futile endeavors to establish world freedom.

Guy de Maupassant regarded human conflict as the quintessence of stupidity. Jack London, a strong, virile character, said, "Give us institutions that will teach us how to think and reason, and there will be no more wars."

Over a century ago, William Lloyd Garrison, the famous abolitionist wrote, "War is as capable of analysis as slavery, intemperance, licentiousness, or idolatry. It is not an abstraction, which admits of doubt or uncertainty but as tangible as bombs, cannon, mangled corpses, smouldering ruins, desolated towns and villages, rivers of blood. It is substantially the same in all ages and cannot change its moral features." General Sherman said, bluntly, "War is hell."

It seems incredible and unbelieveable that while all Christian countries have war departments, not one has a peace department.

Agriculture Parking

Parking space in the Southwest near the Department of Agriculture is for all practical purposes nonexistent. But there was a small strip of parking space along Independence ave. between 12th and 9th sw. which could accommodate a few cars. But, lo, now a new Hitlerian decree forbids this even, with hours that cannot possibly be met by employes.

Iron Curtain Caricature

It seems to me petty and undignified to lower the standards of a comic strip (which at best is a caricature of life) in the manner we now see being done in Joe Palooka. To provoke, unfairly, the foolish excesses of emotional feeling which this strip is no doubt doing, seems unworthy of its originator and the paper printing it.

Russian Stamps

After reading in your October 8 edition that the stamp collectors are going on record to encourage their members not to collect Russian stamps, I think it is time we sat up and took notice of what is happening to us.

One need not be a Russophile to demonstrate this sort of ludicrous action. If this is the trend, the next logical steps are for the art collectors and then the musicians, etc. until finally we are so completely insulated from the Russians, their culture and way of life that it will become relatively easy to "create a ghost and get frightened of the shadow it throws."

One of our major complaints of the Russians has been their refusal to allow anybody to leave (except the chosen few). Now we are drifting toward the same state of affairs. For our own protection we must learn more about the Russians, not less. We must study their culture, political structure, economic state and social behavior rather than isolate ourselves either piecemeal or in toto from their way of life.

McCarran And The Paiute Indians

For more than a decade, Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada has been trying to cajole or coerce Congress to pass a bill that would require the Pyramid Lake Paiute Indians of his State to sell to white farmers, for less than it is worth, part of the lands that they inherited from their forefathers. These farmers for years have been trespassing on the land in violation of Indian rights which have been reinforced by Federal law and court decisions. The superintendent of these Indians, E. Reeseman Fryer, one of the best men in the Indian Service, is now being forced out by McCarran. It is important that the public should know the relationship between Fryer's removal and McCarran's efforts to grab the Indians' lands.

The key to the protection of Indian rights is the superintendent. It was because of this that the appointment of Fryer two or three years ago was of so much importance to the Pyramid Lake Indians. He encouraged the Indians to repossess the lands that had been illegally taken from them. They succeeded in getting possession of part of the land. He also tried to arrange so that they might use, on that and other unused lands, some of the water to which they are entitled under a consent decree. Little by little, the Indians' rights were being vindicated in Nevada, while the Indians' friends were holding the line in Washington against confiscation under a McCarran-sponsored bill.

The squatters retaliated by cutting off the ditches serving the Indians' land. Fryer then moved in the direction of making water available through a siphon from the Truckee River. The law specifically requires the Government to put the Indians in possession of the property. It was Fryer's duty to do what he did, at least unless and until the Congress, under pressure from McCarran, should repeal or amend the law.

McCarran knew that he was stalemated in Congress. But he also knew that there were two other steps that he could take to starve the Indians out or force them to leave Nevada. One was to prevent them from gaining access to the water as to which the courts had confirmed their legal rights. Without water, the lands would be useless in arid Nevada. The second possible step was to harass or destroy every Indian superintendent who might protect their rights. He has now taken the first step, and if Secretary Chapman does not again block his attempted raid, he will have taken the second before the end of this week.

Complaining of surveys that Fryer was making for use of the water to which the Indians are entitled, McCarran wrote to Indian Commissioner Dillon Myer on August 29.

From McCarran's letter it might almost be assumed that the Indians were planning to steal the water from the Truckee River, instead of merely taking water that the courts had decreed to them. Commissioner Myer should have told McCarran this. But instead the Indian Office promptly ordered Fryer to discontinue the surveys Acting Commissioner H. Rex Lee promptly wrote McCarran to tell him what he had done. This letter was published by McCarran in the Nevada papers in order to show his politically active non-Indian constituents that he was serving their interests well.

But this is not enough to satisfy McCarran. He must also take the second step by which he hopes to nullify the Senate's refusal to confiscate Indian lands. Fryer has been notified that he is to be moved on the 15th of this month to the Colville Agency in Washington where he will not be in a position to antagonize the powerful Senator from Nevada.

This action was taken by Dillon Myer without consulting Secretary Chapman. When questioned about the order transferring Fryer, by representatives of the National Congress of American Indians, Myer replied that the suggestion for transfer had come from Fryer. The organization then queried Fryer who replied by telegram that he "did not request transfer" and that the transfer is "regarded as a repudiation." Secretary Chapman is now in the Virgin Islands. His Assistant Secretary, Doty, who has jurisdiction, should suspend the order to transfer Fryer until Secretary Chapman returns and is able to consider the sinister political implications that are involved.

Rearming Germany

By Marquis Childs

West European Army

FRANKFURT, Germany.—The sound of clashing gears is audible here even to the visitor who passes through on the briefest sort of journey. Three months ago it was stated flatly, as official American policy, that the Germans would not be rearmed. Now the American objective is to bring about rearmament, in some form or other, as quickly as possible.

The gear lever has been pushed from one direction to another and it is not surprising that quite a few people are confused and uncertain. This includes Americans as well as Germans.

The German reaction takes various forms. The great coal and steel industrialists of the Ruhr are talking very small about rearmament. Their story is that the German people are fearful of it; they do not want it. Martin Liebes, front man for the Ruhr industrialists in Dusseldorf, said:

"One of your most important American officials was here recently. He told me that privately he was pleased that the stand of the French at the Foreign Ministers' conferences had not allowed the Germans to form military units with their own commanders at this time. I replied to him, 'allowed! May I ask you who in Germany has requested permission to rearm?' No, it is not we who are asking for remilitarization."

IN PART, of course, this represents shrewd bargaining on the part of shrewd and determined men. In return for their approval, they will want to get the last remaining Allied controls taken off so they will once again be firmly in the driver's seat.

But those who should know say that it also reflects a real desire for peace in the years immediately ahead. The Ruhr steel barons are apparently confident that they can out-compete France and Great Britain in peacetime rivalry for the European market. They express public approval of the Schuman plan to pool Europe's steel and coal production.

The proposal for rearmament causes deepest concern among those Germans who have worked earnestly for a democratic Germany. This includes the Social Democrats, who survived Nazism and World War II and who have cooperated most readily with the American policy of denazification and demilitarization. These leaders, who also have the truest understanding of the threat of communism, with its suppression of all freedoms, are deeply troubled. When they speak frankly, American officials talk of the urgent necessity of trying to win over this element to accept the arming of some German units within a West European army.

The group that really welcomes rearming is the former officer class from general down to sergeant. They are eager to put on a uniform again. But how they would behave once they were in uniform is precisely what alarms those who still believe that Germany can follow a democratic path, if given half a chance.

FOR most of the German people, as for all Europeans, the memory of the horrors of the last war are still terribly vivid. They still walk among the rusting ruins of that holocaust. And, if one can accept the word of long-time observers, the nationalism that has produced so many violent eruptions in the past is now at a low ebb.

Therefore, or so runs the argument of American High Commissioner John J. McCloy, this is the moment to get the Germans to agree to become part of a west European army under a unified command. His aides say that in the recent conferences in New York and Washington he resisted the American military demands to reestablish a German army complete with a general staff. McCloy believes that if this were done, with American authorization, we would promptly lose the confidence of most Germans, who would regard such a revival with fear and foreboding.

So the problem comes down to taking one step toward rearmament within the western European framework and to persuading the average German to overcome his doubts and uncertainties and move along this new road.

One persuader will be the sending of additional American troops to west Germany. Unless there are new and unexpected demands from the Korean war, the hope of Americans here is that the new troops will arrive before Christmas. This will mean complications, particularly as to housing despite the fact that the soldiers will not be allowed to bring their dependents with them. But the new troops will be taken as a pledge of America's defense of western Germany and that pledge, in the belief of American planners, will help to align most Germans behind a western European defense system.

Parental Neglect

I was very much interested in your October 1 article concerning parental neglect. However, it did not go into some of the causes of this very serious matter.

One of the chief reasons is due to the fact that too many fathers do not earn a sufficient income properly to take care of their families. There are still firms that pay their employes below the minimum wage of 75 cents an hour. It is easy to see how there could be friction in a home where the breadwinner's salary is $27 per week. There is no wonder that families are broken up, and as a result children are made to suffer.

If we ever expect to improve this condition, it will be necessary for employers to pay higher wages, especially to those employes in the low income group. No employer should pay a wage that is less than the minimum wage law.

Matter Of Fact

By Stewart Alsop

The Kremlin's Growing Stockpile

IT IS now possible to give the accepted current intelligence estimates of Soviet production of atomic bombs. It is not possible, of course, to know how accurate these estimates are—there is no more difficult intelligence target than the Soviet Union. But it can be said that they are advanced with considerable confidence, and are accepted as a basis for American strategic planning.

The Soviets will have 22 bombs by the end of this year—by December 31, 1950. Rightly or wrongly, this figure is considered wholly reliable. So is the estimate of current Soviet atomic production—two bombs a month. It is also confidently believed that this production rate will not be substantially increased during the year 1951. This gives a total Soviet stockpile of 46 bombs by January 1, 1952.

The Soviets are, however, now constructing a great new atomic production plant in the Urals. This plant is being built with all the relentless energy of which Lavrenti Beria, secret police chief charged with responsibility for Soviet atomic production, is capable. It is expected that it will come into production at about the beginning of 1952.

HERE the estimates are, naturally, less precise. But it is believed that this new plant should step up the Soviet atomic production rate to between five and seven bombs a month. At this rate, by January 1, 1953, the Soviet stockpile should amount to a minimum of just over 100 bombs, or a maximum of 130 bombs. By the end of 1955, the Soviet stockpile is expected to total approximately 300 bombs.

It is believed that this may well be the upper limit of Soviet atomic production potential, given known uranium resources within the Kremlin's control. In other words, the experts believe that the German and Czech uranium mines, now being worked with utmost ruthlessness under slave labor conditions, will yield only enough uranium for about 300 bombs.

This is no doubt what Winston Churchill meant when he said in a recent debate in Parliament, that "the extraordinary efforts which the Soviet government are making to obtain even small quantities of uranium seem—I only say seem—to justify a hopeful view." But as Churchill was quick to point out, hope should not mean complacency. Even if no new Soviet sources are found, 300 bombs will be enough—enough, delivered by surprise with reasonable accuracy, to cripple the American war potential, which is all that stands between the Kremlin and world domination.

YET, as Churchill said, the rate of Soviet atomic production, as estimated above, does give us "a considerable interval." And as he also said, "it is this interval which we must not waste." In other words, we have some time—some time, but not very much.

If anything is certain, it is that the Kremlin will not consciously start a war which it cannot expect to win. And for at least two years, and perhaps longer, the Soviet could not expect to win a war, if these estimates of atomic production are correct. Even 100 bombs, delivered at the right time and in the right places, could do tremendous damage. But the Soviets will not be able to deliver 100 bombs at the right time in the right places even when the Soviet stockpile totals 100.

This is because of the problem of delivery. There are three main techniques of delivery. One is by bomb-laden merchant ships exploded in the harbors of coastal cities. But this is for technical reasons the least destructive way of using the bomb. Moreover, its effect would be confined to coastal areas and therefore could not be decisive. The second way is by guided missiles, fired from submarines. But again, according to the most reliable intelligence, the Soviets do not now have and will not soon have either the missiles to do this job with any degree of accuracy, or submarines capable of transporting such missiles and serving as platforms.

THERE remains, of course, the air. The Soviet strategic air force is now believed to consist of about 400 B-29 type, long-range bombers. This air force will, of course, grow—but so will American defense, and the American capacity of retaliation. Yet as the Soviet stockpile increases toward the 300 mark, so will the temptation to attempt a knock-out blow.

This temptation will become almost irresistible, if the time comes when the men in the Kremlin have both the capacity to cripple the American war potential and the capacity to conquer all Europe. This time simply cannot be allowed to come. It can only be prevented from coming if there is the most concerted and determined effort to build a serious defense in western Europe, by mid-1953 at the very latest. To make such an effort will be extraordinarily difficult and extraordinarily expensive. But if it is made, we may at least hope, to quote Winston Churchill again, for a "peace of mutual terror." If it is not made, we cannot really hope for anything at all.

Williams Tells of Long Ordeal

the University of Connecticut, Storrs, Conn.

"She was so very, very happy," he said.

The case was brought after the two girls saw Williams passing by in his automobile and told a policeman that, Williams had exposed his person to them a block away.

"The officer who arrested me would not tell me the charge, but told me to drive to the precinct house," Williams said. "I begged them to tell me the charge, and finally a sergeant told me, and I replied, 'You have the wrong man, Buddy.'

"For almost four hours they held me incommunicado. I pleaded witih the police to at least call my daughter, Evangeline, but they said that she was old enough to take care of herself. I told her that she was alone, was waiting to give me dinner and that I wanted to relieve her anxiety."

"They started bringing in everybody from the Northwest section who had ever been the victim of an indecent exposure. Some wouldn't come and I offered to pay their cabfare," he continued.

Finally, according to Williams, he was allowed to call his lawyer. It was almost 1 o'clock before Williams was released.

The next morning Williams, a trustee of the All Souls' Unitarian Church, consulted his lawyers, and they told him that under the facts, the Government could get a conviction, however unjust. They advised him to plead guilty, told him that he would probably get a light fine or probation.

"I just can't go in and plead guilty to something that I didn't do," he kept on repeating.

"That Really Hurt"

Then there was the trial before Judge Aubrey Fennell in Municipal Court. The girls steadfastly stuck to their story and Williams to his. Judge Fennell found him guilty.

"That was the thing that really hurt me the most," Williams recalled. "I was born in Georgetown, taught school here, and even while I was in the Navy kept my contacts.

"I had a spotless record, literally hundreds of friends who would vouch for me. I can't find the right word, but it was very—trying—to have all that just go by the board.

"I kept on saying to myself that the man who had done it, would admit it and I would be cleared."

His hope came true.

Shortly theerafter the prosecution received anonymous letters admitting the crime.

But police document expert Ira N. Gullickson charged that Evangeline wrote the letters.

"I was sick at this," said Williams. "I knew she had not done it, but I had seen enough of police 'proof' so that I didn't know what to expect."

When vindication finally came, Williams felt the strain was worst of all.

"Now, the relief was so great," he said. "It had all been such a severe blow to me. I am unable to understand it all yet."

The fight cost Williams $1600 for investigators, for psychiatrists, for court costs, and he has yet to pay his lawyers.

It cost him untold hours of worrying. "But I slept, because I had a clear conscience."

He said that he did not know "what a person without funds would do in similar circumstances."

Found His Friends

"I learned," Williams declared, "that I had friends I didn't know about, people who don't let anything stand in the way of friendship. Mere business contacts, people I knew only in business stuck by me.

"If I would single out anyone whose support kept me alive throughout all this it was my employer, Everett S. Lank. I shall thank him all my life."

Through it all, the Rev. Dr. A. Powell Davies, minister of All Souls Unitarian Church, where Williams is a trustee, stood steadfastly by him.

"Do you know," said Williams, "some people sided with me merely because they knew my father, knew that his son would not have done this thing."

He said that there should be a better way of handling sex cases, based more on medical tests than prevailing police-prosecution methods.

Of the girls who accused him, Williams said, "They are to be pitied. They were victims of self-hypnosis."

Over all, said Williams, "I learned something about police methods that didn't make me too happy."

Of this, Captain Anthony Richitt of the Eighth Precinct said:

"I was not present during the investigation itself. However, it seems strange that Williams should make the statements at this time."

Williams Cleared of Sex Charge 6 Months, 2 Days After Arrest

The indecent-exposure case against church-trustee Robert S. Williams, jr., 46, was dismissed yesterday in Municipal Court.

The case was nolle prossed by Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark F. King, who announced that another man had made a complete confession of the crime.

King refused, however, to divulge the identity of the second man. The prosecutor said that he had promised the man immunity and nondisclosure.

"Those were the conditions under which I was able to get him to come forward," King said. "It was the only way that I could get the facts to determine whether in prosecuting Williams, an innocent man might be sent to jail."

Arrested April 10

For Williams, a trustee of All Souls' Unitarian Church, a widower with an 18-year-old daughter, a former schoolteacher and naval officer, it was the end of a six-month ordeal.

It began April 10 when the lean, gray-haired Williams was arrested in his car near American University.

He was pointed out by two 14-year-old girls who said he had exposed himself to them a block away.

Tried before Judge Aubrey B. Fennell, Williams was found guilty.

Then the publicity which the case had received—over the objections of Williams and his lawyers—had an unexpected effect.

The attorneys received a mysterious telephone call. The caller said he had committed the crime. The lawyers begged him to call King, the prosecutor.

Received 2 Unsigned Letters

King received two unsigned letters confessing the act. Judge Fennell ordered the letters investigated.

Goaded by a charge from Williams' lawyers that he was indifferent, King demanded that the handwriting and fingerprints of all defense witnesses be submitted. King included the Rev. Dr. A. Powell Davies, Williams' minister.

Dr. Davies readily gave what was asked but demanded a public apology from King for the insinuations behind the request. King refused to apologize.

On a motion for a new trial, Police Criminologist Ira N. Gullickson said that Williams' 18-year-old daughter, Evangeline, wrote the letters to protect her father.

Two other handwriting experts said that she couldn't have. Judge Fennell ordered a new trial.

Calls King Again

The mysterious caller telephoned King again, and King beseeched his help. King urged the caller to consult his priest, his intimates, and do what was just. The man came to see King at home.

King described the subsequent course of events as follows:

The man wrote out a confession, repeating the attempted handwriting disguise used in the "I did it" letters.

As a condition of immunity, the anonymous man agreed to see a psychiatrist. There he was given a drug, sodium amytal, and under its hypnotic influence described the indecent incident, the psychiatrist reported.

The man is now under the constant care of the psychiatrist, who says:

"Guilt Complex"

"His sole purpose for writing the letters was motivated by a guilt complex manifested by severe anxiety at the thought of some innocent person being held for a crime he had committed.

"He admits previous episodes of exhibitionism and wants to be cured of this sexual affliction. His diagnosis is psychoneurosis, anxiety type associated with a sexual maladjustment.

Williams then took the amytal test. The psychiatrist reported that Williams did not show the symptoms associated with the crime nor did he admit it under the drug.

The man who admitted the offense was confronted by the two girls involved.

Girls Ran Away

"The girls still were of the opinion that Mr. Williams was the offender," King said. "However, the confessor identified one of the girls and was not sure of the other."

King quoted the man as saying:

"I don't think that the girls could have positively identified me at the time because I know that I took them by surprise and frightened them and they ran. I don't believe that either looked me in the face."

King questioned the man further. The man knew so many of the intimate details of the offense that King was convinced that he was guilty.

In a still further step, King had both Williams and the other man submit to standard lie-detector tests given by L. H. Harrelson, of Deception Tests Associates.

Thought Neither Guilty

Harrelson concluded, according to King, that neither Williams nor the other man committed the crime, but that there was no collusion involved. King said Harrelson could not account for the knowledge of the hitherto undisclosed details possessed by the other man.

In reporting to his superiors, King said that he was acting in accordance with a Supreme Court decision that stated that the interest of a prosecution "is not that it will win the case, but that justice shall be done."

But Gullickson, the expert who accused Williams' daughter of the letter writing, said he will continue the investigation.

"There has been too much talking and not enough investigating done," he said. "I have yet to see anything to show that she didn't do the writing. I see no reason to change my story at all."

$85-Million Plan Drafted for Aid To 600,000 Jews

PARIS, Oct. 12 (U.P.). — The American Joint Distribution Committee today announced that it had mappe... 85-million-dollar, three-year plan to complete relief, resettlement and reconstruction for 600,000 Jews now in Europe, North Africa and the Middle East.

Moses W. Beckelman, European vice chairman for the committee, said the success of the plan would depend on the American Jewish community, which would have to raise the necessary funds to carry it out.

"If we can realize our plan, the problem of destitute Jews in Europe and in these other areas will be virtually solved," he said.

Bailey Firing Case Is Argued

using the term in the judicial sense.

Justice Robert H. Jackson, a former Attorney General, said that "we must all agree that FBI reports are not evidence but information" which "contain a great deal of unverified and unverifiable information." He added that "in my view, nothing is evidence until it is subject to cross-examination."

The executive order calls for consideration of all the "evidence" in determining loyalty. FBI reports on Miss Bailey were used against her.

Justice Felix Frankfurter said the "essence" of the case was "the process by which the conclusion" of disloyalty was reached. At another point he said he had read "every word" of the hearings and he challenged Perlman to read a single statement which "even remotely" came within the area of a specific charge against Miss Bailey.

Perlman said in reply that such distinguished men as Seth W. Richardson, Loyalty Review Board chairman who is a former assistant Attorney General himself, and his colleagues would never act on "whim." He read the accusation which Richardson had read to Miss Bailey: that information had come to the Government that she had been a Communist Party member or sympathizer.

Perlman argued Miss Bailey wasn't fired "without evidence" and he said the Loyalty Board "didn't pull this verdict out of the air."

At this, Justice Hugo L. Black asked if the Loyalty Review Board had been in a position to "make an estimate of the credibility of the statements" in the FBI files. Perlman said "no."

Then Black asked if the statements were made under oath. Again Perlman answered "no."

Then Frankfurter asked if the Loyalty Board knew the names of those who made the derogatory statements. Perlman said "no."

Finally Black asked if they know the names of the persons to whom the statements had been made. Once again Perlman answered "no."

Arnold and Porter contended Miss Bailey had been "permanently barred" from ever again holding a Federal job. But Perlman argued that the Civil Service Commission recently changed its regulations so that a disqualified person such as Miss Bailey may not be denied for more than three years the right to take an examination for reinstatement.

At this Jackson asked Perlman if he "really" wanted the Court to decide the case "on the theory this girl can be reinstated." When Perlman said she wasn't "inteligible under the rules" Black commented:

"Not under the rules but in reality."

Arnold and Porter said that the Court could decide the case without considering the constitutionality of the loyalty program. Arnold told the justices that if a "fair hearing" were granted an employe under suspicion of disloyalty, then the program "probably is constitutional." But he asked the court to say "that when the President said a 'fair hearing' he meant just that."

The case, along with the three companion cases argued on Wednesday which challenge the Attorney General's right to put an organization on the subversive list without a hearing, probably won't be decided for some time. Opinions are not likely to be handed down until next year.

Supreme Court Uses First Loud Speakers

For the first time in history, the Supreme Court yesterday was in session with the air of microphones and loud speakers.

Speakers were hidden under the massive bench at which the nine justices sit, with mikes scattered along the top. Another mike was placed in front of the lawyers' lecturn and a speaker was placed on a high courtroom ledge over the bench.

Observers thought there was a definite improvement in the court's notoriously bad acoustics. The one-day test may result in a request to Congress for money to install a permanent system.

Driver Errors Cited in 80% Of Accidents

LEXINGTON, Va., Oct. 12 (AP). The fourth annual Virginia highway conference was told today that 80 percent of all highway accidents are caused by "driver errors."

The speaker, Capt. W. L. Groth, safety engineer for the Virginia State Police, said an additional 10 percent are caused by road defects and the remaining 10 percent by mechanical failures.

"Accidents in traffic don't just happen," Groth declared. "They are caused, and the sooner we accept that fact and act accordingly, the sooner we are going to have a sounder basis for preventing them."

Groth was one of several speakers who addressed various panel groups dealing with problems connected with municipal streets, secondary roads and highway safety.

At the panel session on secondary roads, H. M. Morecock, State Highway Department cost analyst, said nonsurfaced mileage on Virginia's secondary system has decreased from 25,000 to 4580 in the past 18 years. He said it will cost an average of about $750,000 in each county to bring the secondary system to "desired standards."

Another speaker during the opening day of the conference was Joseph Barnett, chief of the urban section, division of design of the United States Bureau of Public Roads.

Barnett recommended five approaches to solving the urban traffic problem. These include improvement of arterial routes in the cities; development of adequate parking facilities; improvement of the general street systems; improvement of public transportaion systems and better use of "facilities we now have."

Phone Union Loses Rise Plea In Maryland

BALTIMORE, Oct. 12 (AP).—The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland has turned down a union request for a wage boost, saying there are a number of increases provided for in the current contract and others are to follow.

A spokesman for the company said today the C&P rejected at an informal meeting a union proposal for reopening of the work contract.

The reopening had been asked by Division 34 of the CIO's Communication Workers of America. It represents about 2600 telephone workers in Maryland.

At the meeting, the company pointed out that many wage hikes were contained in the present contract and further boosts would come under a seniority and merit schedule.

Mail balloting is to wind up October 24 in an NLRB election among the company's 3500 operators and clerical workers to find out if they want the independent Maryland Telephone Traffic Union to represent them. They were formerly aligned with the CWA but left it in a dispute with national leaders.

Arrested Boy's Mother Startles Police Clerk

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 12 (AP). Police Clerk Pat Nash braced himself today for the tirade he expected to come.

The mother of a youngster who had been arrested was on the phone. Said the mother: "My boy was arrested last week and he says you took some pictures of him. We'd like to buy a dozen copies to send to relatives."

Nash explained gently the department was not in the commercial photography business.

Army Camp Dope Ring Is Reported Smashed

CAMP EDWARDS, Mass., Oct. 12 (U.P.).—Federal narcotic agents today said they had smashed a "vicious dope ring" operating at the Army's Camp Edwards.

Four New York soldiers have been taken into custody and five civilians are being sought in connection with the smuggling of heroin and marijuana into the camp, according to Pliny A. Williams, head of the Narcotic Bureau for New England.

Widespread Storm Damage Reported in Maryland Areas

A furious thunderstorm with near-hurricane winds whipped through central and Western Maryland Thursday causing damage unofficially estimated in the tens of thousands of dollars.

The storm brought hail and flurries of snow in its wake.

Telephone and electric services were interrupted in areas of Baltimore City and Baltimore, Carroll, Howard, Hartford, Frederick and Washington Counties for short periods.

Small craft on the Chesapeake Bay were tossed and buffeted by high waves.

Despite the damage, there were no reports of injuries.

John Unkert, an Aberdeen filling-station operator, his wife and their 6-year-old daughter had what may have been the narrowest escape.

They were caught in Chesapeake Bay off Millers Island in their 25-foot cruiser.

Unkert said the waves "looked like they were 25 feet high."

They made Bear Creek safely about 3 p. m., three hours after the storm struck.

The wind reached 65 miles an hour at the weather station at Harbor Field, on the outskirts of Baltimore.

Two 85-ton steel forms for the Chesapeake Bay bridge were knocked over at Curtis Bay, where they were on barges. One of the forms fell on a crane, damaging it badly.

From the Sharpsburg area of Washington County came reports of hail stones as big as marbles.

Trees and power lines were felled on the campus of Mount St. Mary's College at Emmitsburg.

Lightning split a willow tree on the lawn of the E. B. McCain home near Frederick. Fifty windows of the house were shattered and McCain's television set was burned out. McCain is a well-known orchardist.

The storm was reported particularly violent in the Sykesville area of Carroll County.

New Fisheries Head

GLOUCESTER POINT, Va., Oct. 12 (AP).—The appointment of Dr. John Laurence McHugh of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography of the University of California as the new director of the Virginia Fisheries Laboratory here was announced today.

Selection of Dr. McHugh was made public by Charles M. Lankford, jr., Virginia Commissioner of Fisheries, during ceremonies at the dedication of the new $150,000 laboratory which is jointly operated by the Commission of Fisheries and the College of William and Mary.

Dr. McHugh succeeds Dr. Nelson Marshall, who became dean of William and Mary in July, 1949, but who continued to serve the laboratory until a successor was found. Dr. McHugh's appointment becomes effective in January, 1951.

Snavely Says Magazine Story Is 'Obnoxious Lie'

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

THIS FELLOW Paul Richards, whom the Chicago White Sox are bringing back to the majors as a manager, scarcely qualified by taking his Seattle team into sixth place in the Coast League last season. There must be another reason. There is.

Povich

In fact, major league operators have been tabbing Richards as managerial timber for a half-dozen years now. Clark Griffith gave him a long thought before he finally hired Bucky Harris last season. Before the Yankees engaged Casey Stengel in 1949. Del Webb murmured much about the possibility of hiring Richards. The guy had strong recommendations.

Hard to miss, when Richards was catching for the Tigers back in 1943-46, was his complete intolerance with losers. "They blow a game, and they're not even mad about it," he used to say. Richards himself always acted as if he were unhappy until the last out was made, and then he was still unhappy if the Tigers didn't finish in front.

For the most part, he was a mere .240-hitting catcher with Detroit, but he didn't defer to any of the club's prima donnas in his zeal to win ball games. Hal Newhouser and Dizzy Trout used to complain of blistered glove hands after getting some of their pitches back from a displeased Richards.

IF HE WASN'T the American League's finest catcher since Bill Dickey, he was close to it. He brought his own style to the majors, catching off one foot as it were, with his right leg akimbo and far toward the first base line. He didn't have the grace of Dickey's workmanship, but he had a Dickey tactic that helped him win games.

That was cowing the umpires, at least as much as possible. Richards could come as close to withering Hizzoner with a look of disgust as could Dickey. He was smart enough not to make the umps look bad, though. "The things he said, he said under his breath and we appreciated that," relates one umpire. "Sometimes ball players can get away with murder if they say things quietlike and don't get the fans on us."

When George Case was the terror of the league's catchers, the fellow who threw him out the most was Richards. "He used to look my way and dare me to run," said Case, "and then I discovered it was only when he had certain fast-delivery pitchers working with him. He threw me out ten times before I wised up."

RICHARDS never could hit enough to latch on to a regular big league catching job for the first 17 years of his playing career, after coming out of Waxahachie, Tex. He bounced up and back between the minors and the Giants, Brooklyn and the A's, before he tired of the whole business of the minors and chucked a secure job as manager at Atlanta to try the majors again.

He was so eager to get back to the majors that he was giving it another try at the age of 35. Originally he signed on with Detroit as catcher-coach. Before the end of spring training, Manager Steve O'Neill, an old catcher himself, agreed that Richards was the best of the four catchers on the club. At 35, he became the Tigers' No. One backstop.

When the Tigers were within one game of the pennant in 1945, and were playing the Browns in the last game of the season, O'Neill found himself fresh out of starting pitchers. But Virgil Trucks, out of the Navy one week, was in St. Louis. O'Neill dispatched Richards to Trucks' home, asked him to learn if Trucks could pitch. Richards worked out with Trucks, told O'Neill confidently, "He's ready." Trucks blew the Browns down, with Richards catching him.

SOMEWHAT circuitously, Richards was responsible for the long term of success Dutch Leonard, the old knuckleballer, had with the Nats. Leonard was a discredited major league pitcher in 1935 after losing nine games, winning only two with Brooklyn. They sent him to Atlanta where Richards was managing.

He couldn't win for Richards, either, at the start. "How come you won even two games for Brooklyn?" Richards demanded.

"I'd have won more if they'd let me throw my knuckler," said Leonard. "Those Brooklyn catchers were scared of it. It jumped too much and made 'em look bad—too many passed balls."

Richards was newly interested. "Try throwing me that knuckler. Maybe it will help save my job here," he told Leonard. The rest of the story is Leonard's.

"He was the first catcher who ever dared to call for my knuckler. I won 28 games, lost only 11 for him in two seasons, and Washington bought me. Thanks to Richards, I've been drawing major league paychecks for the last 13 years."

Winter Tour O. K., Freudberg Says

Fazio Staying at Woodmont Until April, 'Maybe Longer'

Geoge Fazio is still Woodmont Country Club's golf pro and will continue to be at least until April 1 when his one-year contract expires.

"And maybe after that," said Fazio yesterday after meeting informally with Leopold Freudberg, head of Wodmont's greens committee and the man who hired the National Open finalist.

The meting was brought on by persistent rumors that Fazio was planning to resign. "They were pure scuttlebut," said Fazio again yesterday. "I'm happy here and the best of friends in every respect with most of the members. I hope to remain here even after my present contract runs out."

Freudberg nodded in ageement.

"We tried to get to the source of the stories and had to give up. George will go on the winter tournament tour November 1 and be away until April 1. That was our understanding when he signed last March, and we discussed that again today."

The rumors of Fazio's impending resignation carried with them stories that Woodmont was dissatisfied.

Berg Whips Alice Bauer, 2-1

Fort Worth, Oct. 12 (AP).—Patty Berg blasted her way into the semifinals of the women's Texas Open today at River Crest Country Club with a 2-1 victory over pint-sized Alice Bauer.

Sixteen-year-old Marlene, the younger Bauer sister, also fell from contention before Betty Jameson, the 1947 titlist, 3 and 2. Betsy Rawls easily disposed of Betty MacKinnon of Dallas 5-4.

Rawls clashes with the defending champion, Beverly Hanson in tomorrow's other semifinal battle. Beverly brushed past Pat Devany of Grosse Ile, Mich., 2-1.

Butler caught six passes in G.W.'s 21-14 victory over West Virginia a week ago. Butler is a six-footer, weighs 195 pounds, comes from Waltham, Mass., and is a senior

Knee Banged at Michigan State

Mighty Mo Hurt, May Sit Out Hoya Game

Maryland will go into the Georgetown game at Griffith Stadium Saturday with its biggest offensive star, Ed (Mighty Mo) Modzelewski, as a "very doubtful" participant.

The hard-hitting halfback from Harbrack, Pa., injured his knee last Saturday against Michigan State and hasn't practiced all week.

"It's highly improbable that Ed will play," Trainer Duke Wyre said last night. "He hasn't practiced all week and we don't want to take the chance of aggravating the injury."

The 200-pound Modzelewski, the Terps' busiest ball-carrier, has averaged 4 yards a carry. He scored twice against Michigan State and was injured trying to score a third time. His knee hit the ground a yard from the goal line in the fourth quarter and he had to be helped off the field.

Replacing him in the starting backfield will be another junior, 190-pound Ed Bolton of Miami. Bolton has been used primarily on defense. He was injured in the Georgia game and has seen very little action.

THERE ARE plenty of good seats remaining for the game. Unless there's a late rush for tickets, the attendance doesn't figure to go over 15,000.

IN SHORT—George Washington, which also claims Griffith Stadium as its home park, lists the stadium's seating capacity at 37,000. The Hoyas say it can handle only 33,000 . . . Coach Jim Tatum, Guard Bobby Ward, Center Jake Rowden, Trainer Duke Wyre and Lefty Nairn, football manager, addressed a huge student rally at College Park last night . . . Georgetown holds its rally tonight on the Hilltop with Harry Costello and Augie Lio, former G. U. stars, on the program . . . Maryland and Michigan State have "severed relations" to the extent that the schools are trying to work out a new series starting in 1953. The present contract expired with last Saturday's game and date difficulties, not strained relations as reported elsewhere, are the reason the teams will not play next season. Anyway, it was originally announced last January that Missouri, not L. S. U., replaces Michigan State . . . L. S. U. replaces Duke, which is off the schedule for two years after the October 28 game. The Duke-Maryland relations are not strained, either . . .

Yanks Whip 49ers, 29-24

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP).—A 15-yard touchdown sprint by Buddy Young in the last five minutes of play gave the New York Yanks an uphill 29 to 24 victory over the San Francisco 49ers in a National Football League game at Yankee Stadium tonight.

The forward passing of George Ratterman also helped pull New York from behind in the final quarter after the Forty-niners apparently had the game won, 24-15, on a sloppy field. Only 6000 braved rainy weather to see the game.

New York now leads the National Conference of the NFL with a 4-1 record. The Chicago Bears and Detroit Lions are tied for second with 3-1 record.

Ratterman threw three touchdown passes in handing the Westerners their fifth straight loss. The Forty-niners gave up hard under the leadership of sparkling Frankie Albert. The former Stanford ace threw two touchdown passes in this near-upset. New York was rated a two-touchdown favorite.

San Francisco	10	0	7	7—24

San Francisco scoring: Touchdowns—Strzykalski, Perry, Cason. Conversions—Soltan 3. Field goal—Soltan.

Where to Buy GW-Virginia Tech, Hoya-Terps Tickets

There are plenty of tickets available for Washington's two big weekend college football games at Griffith Stadium, George Washington vs. Virginia Tech tonight and Maryland vs. Georgetown Saturday afternoon.

For G. W. vs. Virginia Tech, tickets may be bought at the Co-Op Shop, 21st and H sts. nw. and Griffith Stadium.

For Maryland vs. Georgetown, tickets are avaible at Fairway Sports Store, 1328 G st. nw.; Champion Sports, 816 13th st. nw.; American Automobile Association, 17th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw.; Georgetown and Maryland Universities, and Griffith Stadium.

DiMaggio May Quit Yankees

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (U.P.).—Joe DiMaggio, 36, said today that he might not be back with the New York Yankees in 1951.

But he added he probably would not make up his mind until next spring.

"I have two different points of view on next year," DiMaggio said. "I told Dan Topping (Yankees' owner) in July and August that I didn't know if my aches and pains could take it another year. Then I felt like a two-year-old during the World Series and I never felt better all season than I do now."

Behind DiMaggio's indecision is his own desire "to go out while still on top." DiMaggio has numerous contacts in television and radio and may prefer to jump immediately into the field rather than struggle through another season like 1950.

Whether DiMaggo would be offered a replica of his $100,000 contract remained a moot point. The top cut permissible under baseball law is 25 percent so the least the Yankees could offer Joe would be $75,000.

Colonials Can Tie for League Lead Tonight

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

George Washington's Colonials strike at Virginia Tech's weak air defenses with their strongest passing force in years tonight at 8:30 o'clock at Griffith Stadium.

The Colonials are bidding for their third straight Southern Conference victory, and will move into a first place tie with Washington and Lee if they achieve it.

Since losing their nonleague opener to Virginia, 19-0, the Colonials have beaten Virginia Military Institute, 15-12, and West Virginia, 21-14.

The Gobblers have lost their only two starts, 61-21, to Quantico and 47-6 to Virginia. In fact, under Coach Bob McNeish's three-year regime, the Gobblers have won only one game while losing 17 and tying three.

The Gobblers have yielded 12 touchdowns either set up or scored on pass plays. That fact has GW licking its chops. The Colonials are ranked seventh in the Nation in passing.

In Andy Davis, the Colonials have the twelfth-ranking passer, and in End Charlie Jones the tenth-ranking receiver. Davis has completed 30 out of 62 passes for 485 yards, and Jones has caught 12 for 200 yards. GW's air striking force doesn't stop there.

Exciting Night At Roller Derby

Excitement at last night's roller derby got so hot that police had to stop a fight by Washington and Chicago players, a fan was forcibly escorted from Uline Arena, and a lady fan had a heart attack.

It all started when Chicago's Russ Massro bumped Washington's Red Smith over the ramp, and was put out of the game for intentional fouling. Massro was accosted by another Washington player, Sid Harnesk, who floored him with a right to the stomach. Miss Emma F. Parker, 3704 35th st. nw., had a mild heart attack and was taken home. Washington lost, 22-19.

Coach Angry Over Assertion His Team Costs $275,000 Year

Life Also Cites Pitt and Trojans

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP).—College football, beset by spiraling costs of everything from adhesive tape to star halfbacks, "is on the verge of pricing itself right out of business," Life Magazine declares in an article appearing in this week's issue.

Asserting that it costs $275,000 a year—not counting player subsidies and other "hidden" expenses—to maintain a big time football team, the magazine says that some schools are losing money and giving up in disgust.

"The good old days, when a college could get rich simply by violating a few amateur ideals, are dead," Life says. "Halfbacks can no longer be bought for $50 and free education."

The article says it cost the University of North Carolina $275,000—again not counting player subsidies—to stay big-time last season.

"At other pressure areas like Pittsburgh and Southern California, where alumni enthusiasm and incomes are higher, the cost of football has risen almost to $500,000 and is still going up," Life asserts.

"One prize prospect had offers from 61 different colleges. He finally accepted one that sounded like the jackpot of a radio quiz show—board, room, tuition, books, free laundry, $300-a-month pocket money, free transportation to and from games for his family and $5000 cash in the bank.

"Because former servicemen got tuition free, the customary athletic scholarship was not enough. They wanted cash. At Illinois some jealousy developed in the backfield over how much which player was getting paid. At Tulane, where athletes lived apart from ordinary students in the $250,000 Zemurray Dormitory, discipline was maintained the way it is on professional clubs—by fining players for misdemeanors.

Life quotes Coach Carl Snavely of North Carolina as saying:

"The tendency is to dip into gate receipts to go out and get more players to build bigger and better teams, then build bigger stadiums to get bigger crowds to get more money to spend on more players to build bigger and still better teams.

"There is no damn excuse for the $1000 in the bank. I believe in declaring these players ineligible. The only way you're going to control the alumni is to make them think their money is going to hell."

The most single item of expense, the Life article says, never shows on the books at most schools.

"That is charged to organizations like Educational Foundation, Inc., a group of loyal North Carolina alumni who maintain a fund of $500,000 and sweeten it by $150,000 each year," Life points out.

Says Team's Cost Never Discussed

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

In a rare display of temper, Football Coach Carl Snavely of North Carolina University last night declared that quotations attributed to him in a current Life Magazine article about college football are ". . . an obnoxious lie."

Interrupting a meeting with his assistant coaches at Chapel Hill, N. C., the mild-mannered, close-lipped Dutchman said: "There is not one shred of truth in any sentence the irresponsible, fact-misrepresenting reporter wrote quoting me.

"The quotations attributed to me are so far removed from the truth, they are nothing but an obnoxious lie."

Snavely bitterly denied having told the Life reporter that it cost North Carolina University $275,000 to have a big-time football team last year.

"We never discussed figures and I haven't the slightest idea where he got that figure because I know nothing about it myself," the coach continued. "I am shocked that a magazine as well respected as Life would print a thing like that.

"It appears to me the writer was more interested in establishing some preconceived theories concerning college athletics than he was in presenting the truth. He only reproduced parts of our conversation, taking sentences from context and writing them in a style that is misleading in attitude and fact."

Catching his breath for a moment, Snavely resumed: "You've known me for a number of years. Did that read like me talking?"

It did not.

Snavely pointed out that the Life reporter came to him saying that he wanted to discuss ways and means to improve college athletics.

"I told him I would be glad to do that," Snavely said, "because I make my living out of college athletics and anything for the betterment of them would obviously be for the betterment of those in college athletics.

"He asked me about alumni helping fotball players. I told him, mind you I said "told," not advocated, that each college should take it upon itself to appoint a committee to see that there is no illegal help from the alumni.

"It must be done by the college itself. It's too big a problem for any national body to supervise because the group doesn't have the manpower to police every school. If we can't trust the honor and integrity of a college to say whether it's living up to its own rules, we can't trust anybody.

"The colleges know which alumni are helping which players. They are the ones who could put a stop to it."

Chesty Grimsley Now Picks Michigan Over Army

By Will Grimsley

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP).—A siege of "upsetitis" has all the football prophets gnashing their teeth and gnawing their nails. This week promises little relief, with a lot of impressionable young men going out to get even.

Last week's earthquake knocked the roof off our .823 average, but we salvaged some comfort in calling Maryland over Michigan State, Vanderbilt over Alabama and Tennessee over Duke, among others.

Record to date: Right 127, wrong 39, ties 10. Pct., .765.

Here we go again:

MICHIGAN OVER ARMY: Any way you look at the crystal ball it comes out Army, but we have a hunch the team with the greatest urge to win gets this one. Michigan has the urge, and Chuck Ortmann.

OKLAHOMA OVER TEXAS: Blair Cherry's Longhorns are favored by a touchdown, but we think Leon Heath will plow up enough yardage through Texas' ponderous line to win in a squeaker.

SOUTHERN METHODIST OVER OKLAHOMA A. AND M.: Kyle Rote and his buddies have too much speed and power for the fine team Ears Whitworth is building at Stillwater.

NOTRE DAME OVER TULANE: The fighting Irish begin a new streak against a team, fighting mad over the 46-7 walloping last year at South Bend. It won't be easy and there's good chance of an upset.

YALE OVER COLUMBIA: Big Herman Hickman spins another link in his three-game winning streak for the season.

VANDERBILT OVER MISSISSIPPI: An individual duel between Vandy's Bill Wade and Old Miss' John Dottley, with Bill's slingshot arm doing more damage than John's piston legs.

CALIFORNIA OVER SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA: You've got to string along with Pappy Waldorf until he shows shows signs of weakening. He's won 18 straight in the Pacific Coast Conference.

MINNESOTA OVER NORTHWESTERN: After two defeats, Bernie Bierman's Gophers come of age against a favored Northwestern.

PRINCETON OVER NAVY: The demoralized Middies drop No. 3 and the bells of Old Nassau ring again.

OHIO STATE OVER INDIANA: The Rose Bowl champions are coming along strong after their opening loss to SMU.

NORTH CAROLINA OVER WAKE FOREST: Tough games with Notre Dame and Georgia have primed the Tar Heels for a return to their winning ways.

The others hurriedly:

FRIDAY NIGHT

Alabama over Furman, Boston College over Fordham, UCLA over Illinois, Detroit over Marquette, Boston U. over St. Bonaventure, Denver over Utah, George Washington over VPI.

SATURDAY

WITH ANY WHISKEY—AT ANY PRICE!

ASK A FRIEND or your favorite barman to pour about ¼ oz. of Calvert Reserve into one glass, and the same amount of your present brand into another—without telling you which is which.

SNIFF ONE BRAND for aroma. Taste it critically for smoothness. Swallow slowly to judge its freedom from bite. Then judge the other brand in the same analytical way, and pick the one that really tastes best to you.

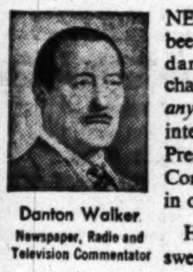
CALVERT RESERVE BLENDED WHISKEY—86.8 PROOF—65% GRAIN NEUTRAL SPIRITS. CALVERT DISTILLERS CORP., NEW YORK CITY

DANTON WALKER LEARNS SECRETS OF CALVERT'S BETTER TASTE



Danton Walker
Newspaper, Radio and Television Commentator

NEW YORK, N.Y.—I have been a little puzzled by the daring with which Calvert challenges comparison with any other whiskey. But after interviewing W. W. Wachtel, President of Calvert Distillers Corporation, I can let you in on the reasons.

Here are Mr. Wachtel's answers to my questions:

Q. How can you be so sure that most people will prefer Calvert Reserve to any other whiskey on the market?

A. Because the taste of Calvert Reserve is actually determined by a Consumer Jury of thousands of folks like you. Every year we conduct more than 50,000 individual taste tests to arrive at the hearty, full-bodied flavor most people prefer.

Q. Does that mean that you blend your whiskies to the taste the public wants?

A. That's right. For this purpose we have an unequalled "blending library" of more than 300 choice whiskies and grain neutral spirits—all made from the finest rye, corn and barley malt.

Q. Isn't that a pretty expensive layout to maintain?

A. Yes, but it's worth it. We've spent more than $10,000,000 on research and development to make certain that Calvert tastes best to most people.

Q. Then you really believe most people will prefer the taste of Calvert to other whiskies?

A. We're sure of it. But don't take our word for it. We invite you to make your own taste test between Calvert Reserve and any whiskey you choose. We're confident you'll pick Calvert. But if you really prefer the other brand, then that's the whiskey for you. Fair enough?

Q. How can people let you know the results of their own taste test?

A. I'd like to hear from them personally. Just drop a line to W. W. Wachtel, Pres., Calvert Distillers Corp., Room 1321, Chrysler Bldg., New York 17, N. Y.

Eastern High Loses Sullivan, Marr for Game With Wilson Today

Green Tigers Also Hobbled By Injuries

By Bill Gilbert

Eastern's Ramblers, eyeing their first Interhigh League football championship since 1946, and Wilson's Green Tigers, hopeful of defending their 1949 title successfully, meet in the Interhigh feature at 3:15 p. m. today at Wilson.

The Ramblers, undefeated in three league games though tied once, will be minus the services of two star backs—Quarterback Jimmy Sullivan and Fullback Eddie Marr.

Sullivan, who was bothered by a bad knee for some time, had it X-rayed Wednesday and the film revealed a torn ligament. Jimmy will be out of action for a month. Tom McHann will see most of the action in the quarterback slot.

Marr broke his nose in the Roosevelt game and will not dress for today's contest. Pat McDougall will fill in for him at fullback.

Wilson is also troubled by injuries, with two backs and an end expected to see only limited action. Fullback Bob Quinn, The Washington Post and Touchdown Club High School Player of the Week, is still suffering from pulled muscles in his leg and has four stitches over his eye.

Halfback Jerry Murphy, bothered by a bad knee, is also on the doubtful list, as is End Pete Haley, who suffered a slight concussion against McKinley Tech last week.

For Wilson, though it is still a young season, today's contest is a "must." The Tigers were defeated, 13-0, by Western in their opener two weeks ago, and tied McKinley Tech, 7-7, last week. A victory today is a virtual necessity if Coach Joe Carlo's boys are to stay in the running.

Mentzer believes today's game will be the turning point for his team. He says that, "Wilson, desperate for a victory, will throw everything at us. We have to win."

Dick feels his line, improving with each game, could be a decisive factor in today's contest. He is especially pleased with the work of Right Guard Phil Mulranen, Left Tackle Bob Mulranen and Center Spencer Lamperis. All three are all-high candidates.

In other inter-high games today, Coolidge meets McKinley Tech at Tech, Chamberlain plays at Western and Bell is at Roosevelt.

Deluge Good Hunch After Bowie Deluge

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

BOWIE, Md., Oct. 12.—Hunch players in today's gathering of 6784 should have gone home with nothing but money after the running of the feature event, a mile and a sixteenth trek for older horses called the Druid Hill.

The winner of the $3000 pot was C. B. Bohn's Deluge, a 3-year-old gelding brought to this point from Detroit by Trainer Roy R. Dickman of Washington.

Early this morning, the sun was out in all its glory but the black clouds gathered in a twinkling about an hour before post time and heavy rains struck the course, accompanied by severe thunder and lightning turning the racing strip from good into a sea of slop.

The sun returned as the races started but the leluge had left its mark not only on the track but also on the hunch-wise patrons.

Anyway, Deluge moved up strongly under Frankie Bone, the Nation's third-leading rider to take the lead from the tiring 4-5 favorite, Arcave, in mid-stretch to draw off to a handy five lengths score for a $12.60 payoff.

The daily double payoff returned to normal size today as two favorites Brownskin ($9.60) and Bases Loaded ($5.20) gave backers of the 6-3 combination a $29.40 return.

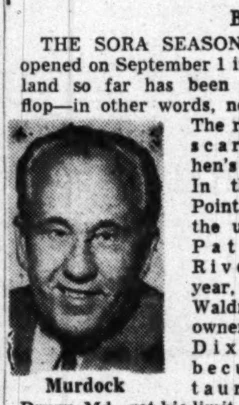
They'll Be Sora

Somebody Should Tell Birds This Is the Hunting Season

By Ralph Murdock

THE SORA SEASON which opened on September 1 in Maryland so far has been a total flop—in other words, no birds.



Murdock

The rails are scarce as hen's teeth. In the Pig Point area in the upper Patuxent River last year, Hugh Waldrop, co-owner of the Dixie Barbecue Restaurant at Drury, Md., got his limit of birds on three successive days.

This year, the same hunter only bagged eight birds in two days in the marshes at the same spot. The sora family evidently failed to stop at this location on its way south. The season ends on October 30.

Incidentally, we would like to mention the fact that the above restaurant furnishes ice free to anglers returning from the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries to help them to preserve their fish until they arrive in town.

THE FIRST migration of waterfowl to this area is now a reality—most of the early arrivals are bay coots and old squaws. These ducks are always the first to leave their breeding grounds in the north. Lest you forget, the opening day of the duck season is noon of November 27. This sport will end on January 5.

The first chill of autumn at Fort Meade, Md., brought forth not only heavier wearing apparel, but numerous requests for hunting permits.

Hunting and fishing at Fort Meade is prohibited without the proper license. The provost marshal, who is also the game and fish warden, will issue permits upon receipt of application from personnel stationed or residing on the post. The dates and limitations governing hunting activities are the same as for the rest of Maryland.

Weekend Suggestions

ROCKFISH—The tackle busters (and we're not kiddin') at Holland Point Bar near black buoy No. 25 and "The Hill" off Bloody Point Light. Top baits are large metal drones and No. 8 Lusby lures with full strips of pork rind. Wire lines best. Bottom trolling with 6 to 8 ounce sinkers.

PANSIZE STRIKERS—Solomon's Island area—shore trolling in shallow water is best. A number 3 or 4 Lusby with yellow head and green skirt is our choice. Attach a half strip of pork rind.

YELLOW PERCH — Severn and South Rivers producing fair catches. Live minnows will entice them.

Cards Take 11 From Farms

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals dipped heavily into the ranks of their minor league clubs today by purchasing contracts of 11 players in their farm system.

The biggest acquisition from Rochester is Third Baseman Don Richmond, who won the 1950 International League batting title with a .337 average. Outfielder Larry Ciaffone and Pitcher Eddie Yuhas also were purchased from the Red Wings.

Right-handed pitchers Bob Habenicht and Kurt Kreiger, together with Catcher Bill Sarni and Outfielder Larry Miggins are being brought up from Columbus.

The other players are southpaw Pitcher Tom Keating, a bonus player from Houston in the Texas League; First Baseman Harvey Zernia and right-handed Pitcher Jack Cohan from Omaha of the Western League, and Outfielder Eldon (Rip) Repulski, batting champion of the Class A South Atlantic League, from Columbus.

Upperville Show Today

By Harry DeMawby, Jr.

UPPERVILLE, Va., Oct. 12.—Thirty-two classes have been scheduled for the fourteenth annual Trinity Horse Show which will be held on the famous Upperville Horse show Gronds of Dr. A. C. Randolph's Grafton Farm near here on Friday and Saturday.

The show is the last of the Virginia major horse exhibitions this season and will be preceeded on Friday by a sale of hunters and show prospects, consigned by many well known Virginia breeders, starting at 11:30 a. m.

The two-day show starts at 1:30 p. m. and Saturday at 9:30 a. m.

Many top stables will be on hand for the breeding, conformation hunter, green hunter, working hunter, open jumper and junior divisions.

The show is sponsored for the benefit of Upperville's Trinity Church.

Wallace Back On Turner's Card

Matchmaker Gabe Menendez announced last night that he has matched Coley Wallace, promising New York Negro heavyweight, for a five-rounded with Ben Harrison, District pouncher, at Turner's Arena Monday night in support of the Charlie Titone-Luis Ramos 10-rounder.

Harrison, a 210-pounder has won his last four scraps while Wallace has been undefeated

Tigers, Navy Stir Old Memories

Special Dispatch to The Post

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 12. The thirty-second game in the colorful Navy-Princeton football rivalry, a series spanning 65 years, will be infinitely more than just another traditional contest to a distinguished Princeton alumnus who will be sitting high in Palmer Stadium Saturday as the Midshipmen wing into the Princeton horseshoe for the first time since 1941.

Seated with other members of the Princeton Class of 1897 will be Neilson ("Net") Poe, the fourth of Princeton's six famed Poe brothers. He will be able to turn the clock back to the quarter-century he held forth with the Nassau coaching staff, to the seasons early in the century when he helped Navy prepare for the climactic Army game, and to the even more distant years when two of his older brothers helped bring Navy football into being.

The 74-year-old Princetonian, a native of Baltimore and a mining engineer by profession, has been close to football ever since he was old enough to learn the rudiments of the game from two of his brothers, both of whom rank among Walter Camps all-time All-Americans, Edgar Allan Poe, Princeton 1891, and John Prentiss Poe, Princeton 1895.

Navy's first contact with any outside coach was with Edgar Allan in 1891, the year after he had captained Princeton for two successive seasons and led the Tigers to 21 victories and a tie in 21 starts. Johnny, the first American sports great to fall in combat in World War I, quarterbacked the first Princeton team to face the Blue and Gold in a formal football game and served as the Midshipmen's coach in 1896.

Neilson, 142-pound quarterback of the Princeton varsity elevens of 1894, 1895 and 1896, was overshadowed on the Nassau campus by the members of his family. Johnny was a two-time camp selection, while Arthur Poe, Princeton 1900, is remembered as one of football's most sensational opportunists, whose spectacular performances accounted for Princeton wins over Yale in both 1898 and 1899.

The other two football-playing Poes, who kept the name of Poe in Princeton line-ups from 1880 until 1902, were S. Johnson Poe, of the class of 1884, a halfback and lacrosse captain, and Gresham H. Poe, of the class of 1902, a backfield substitute and a star wing on the varsity hockey team.

At the turn of the century, early in Neilson's coaching career, it was customary for Princeton coaches and players to go to Annapolis after the close of the regular campaign to help prepare the Navy for its annual struggle with the Army. He followed this procedure from 1900 until 1904.

DEAR FOLKS: AT BOWIE:

Apprentice Jockey Augustino Catalano is an Arlington (Va.) boy and is a former student of Staunton Military Academy. Stable help has been warned to keep halters on horses during the night hours. Many more horses would have been saved at the Marlboro fire had they been thus equipped. Tenure's recent victory here makes the colt a threat in the Maryland Futurity scheduled at Laurel next Wednesday. By the way, General Staff, second to Tenure, was a $25,000 yearling purchase of Larry (former Yankee) MacPhail. The horse, Mr. Cross died here as the result of injuries suffered in a collision several weeks ago at Randall Park. Nine races again on the Saturday card. One On the Aisle

A Winning Comedy Has Perfect Star

By Richard L. Coe

"MISTER 880" is that unusual picture you've been looking for. Put down the Palace as a place you should visit.

"Mister 880" is a tiptop screen version of that fantastically amusing article St. Clair McKelway wrote for the New Yorker about a counterfeiter who couldn't spell Washington, but could keep the Treasury's Secret Service in a tizzy 10 years.

Robert Riskin, who wrote "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," did as neat an adaptation job for this one as he did for such other screen versions as "You Can't Take It With You" and "It Happened One Night." He's pieced the complex yarn together with charm and wit.

And to play the ancient, lovable counterfeiter, he's fortunate to have Edmund Gwenn, as canny a character actor as there is in any language. It's a dream of a part, but Gwenn is fully capable of giving it individual touches that make this one of the year's grandest performances.

The Secret Service, you learn, has had a problem on its hands a full decade. Someone has been passing around homemade dollar bills (on which the word is spelled "Wahsington") in the New York area. There are never many of them, but it's a steady trickle, and though they're only one-dollar bills, counterfeiting's still agin the law. The file on the case has been around so long and gotten so thick with fruitless leads, that it's affectionately labeled "Mister 880."

From California and new to the case comes Secret Service Man Burt Lancaster. He gets Millaard Mitchell as his chief helper. Suspicion falls on a young lady translator for the U. N., and the trick Lancaster and Mitchell pull for picking up the gal on the street will surely set a new high for wolf teams. The girl turns out to be Dorothy McGuire, a young lady from a small town who considers Lancaster just the sort of man she's been wanting to meet; she devises ways of holding on to him.

It happens she lives in the neighborhood where the fake bills were first reported and where they've always been fairly prevalent. A batch of characters inhabits this area, and the oddest and most loved of them all is an old sailor everyone calls "The Skipper." This is Gwenn's role, an amiable, generous oldster who gets what little money he needs from "Cousin Henry," a battered old printing press he reluctantly buries.

How "Cousin Henry" is discovered and what the consequences are is presented as neatly and amusingly as any comedy of recent memory. The reluctance of the Skipper's friends to see him suffer, his own beguilingly innocent approach to his lengthy criminal adventure and the astonishment of the government agents are richly amusing.

Year's Most Winning Comedy

Riskin's crisp writing of the plot, especially of the romantic angle without which no movie would be complete, is exemplary. He has given the romance an easy, natural touch. He has given Lancaster and Miss McGuire real people to play.

And play them handsomely they do, with frothy ease. With Mitchell and in pantomime, they make the pickup scene on 57th st. the funniest sequence of the year. The minor characters, too, have been presented not as types but as believable human beings in natural settings.

"Mister 880" stacks up as the year's most winning comedy, and you should decidedly go out of your way to see it.

"MISTER 880." 20th Century-Fox release produced by Julius Blaustein. Screen play by Robert Riskin based on The New Yorker article by St. Clair McKelway. Photographed by Joseph La Shelle. Music by Sol Kaplan. Directed by Edmund Goulding. At the Palace.

KEITH'S schedules a sneak preview for this Friday the 13th night at 9 o'clock.

JUST OUT is Daniel Blum's newest "Theater World" . . . This photographic record of the stage year has become the most informative of our theater's annuals; packed with cast and production credits and details, it's got a national viewpoint on the theater, increasingly so in this sixth edition, and for each of the productions it records, Blum presents several scene shots . . . The pictures are as splendidly reproduced as before on slick paper, with stills and biographical data on most everyone who's enjoyed program credits in the past few years . . . There's a paper-bound edition for $2, and one in cloth for $3.50 . . . Before showing you his collection of more than 500 pictures, Blum observes that last season "only 56 attractions were produced on Broadway and of these 10 were revivals, 3 were dance troupes and 1 was a vaudeville; this is the smallest number of productions to reach New York in any other season of the past 50 years" . . . His voluminous pictures almost belie the stark statistics.

THE MOUNT RAINIER Fire Prevention Show has its third annual "Going to Blazes" midnight vaudeville revue tonight at Sidney Lust's Kaywood Theater . . . There's no charge for this stage event, which is presented to the people of Prince Georges County in the interests of fire prevention.

"COUSIN HENRY" AT WORK: Edmund Gwenn is here getting help, however inexpert, as "Mister 880," the Palace comedy about a beguilingly innocent counterfeiter and, incidentally, one of the year's best pictures

Allyson, Powell, Montalban Make 'Right Cross' Move

By Orval Hopkins
Post Reporter

FILM called "Right Cross," at the Capitol, is the darnedest picture. The story seems to add up and the people, June Allyson, Dick Powell, Ricardo Montalban and some others, all give good, reasoned performances. But there is a faint flush of soap opera about it that I couldn't quite place. It was as if the breezy man wrote part of it, then the bathos man would take over for a couple of reels. It comes off all right, however, and I'd have to recommend it, despite the reservations.

It'll be heard to get this plot down to my customary 12 words, but hang on: Ricardo Montalban is a Mexican boy who has become a champion prizefighter but who dislikes "white" people—calls them gringos. He is under contract to Lionel Barrymore, who operates in a wheel chair and is in precarious health, and is in love with Barrymore's daughter, Miss Allyson. Montalban also has a cousin in "L. A." who is in wrong with the cops—because Mexican boys don't get a break—and a brother in Phoenix whom circumstance—presumably the circumstance of his Mexican blood—forces to labor as a bus boy in a club. He also has a sister who wants to marry a gringo boy, but Montalban will have none of it and chases the lad away Dick Powell is around as a sports writer (who never has to work, who hangs around nice clubs handing out sawbucks, and whom the check chick is mad for) with a yen for Miss Allyson second only, if at all, to that of Montalban. In addition, Montalban has a fragile right hand which, if he hits anybody with it, it's going to be good night championship. You never saw anybody with such problems.

It will be necessary for you to take my word that this all ties up at the end, but it does, though I'm not sure you could look at it too closely. Assuming that it does come together, the credit must go to Charles Schnee, who wrote it. He must be a fugitive from the radio.

The stage show is headed by Mr. Ballantine, a comic magician who made me laugh with no trouble at all, followed by Connie Sawyer, song satires, the Martells & Mignon, and the Three Juggling Jewels.

Sam Jack Kaufman started things off with a medley of famous overtures, probably one of the least-needed agglomerations we've had. As an old trombone, however, I can say that the trombones really let 'er rasp in "Orpheus." Good blastin', boys.

Wage Boosts Given In Several Industries

By The Associated Press

New pay raises in several industries were reported yesterday in the wake of wage boost demands in the vital steel and railroad industries.

The pay raises came in maritime, clothing, brick, aviation, dairy, and plumbing supply industries in several cities.

In steel, the CIO steelworkers and United States Steel Corp. planned to begin talks Monday on the union's demand for "a very healthy" wage boost.

In the railroad negotiations, firemen and enginemen are asking 35 cents more an hour for 85,000 workers and 15 other unions representing one million workers are seeking 25-cent hikes.

Wage boosts were reported from these cities:

New York—About 1000 CIO radio operators and 12,000 marine engineers sailing ships out of Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports have won a pay boost of 6.38 percent.

Boston—About 325,000 garment industry workers in the East were told their wages will go up 12½ cents an hour next month.

Pittsburgh—The brick and clay industry agreed to pay 10 cents more an hour after October 1 to 3000 workers in Pennsylvania, Missouri, Texas, Ohio and Kentucky plants.

Los Angeles — 11,170 CIO United Auto Workers at North American Aviation got a three-year contract providing cost of living increases, including a general boost of 9 cents an hour. It is the aviation industry's first long-term labor contract.

Louisville, Ky.—620 dairy company employes got pay boosts that mean 40 cents more an hour to some of the AFL workers and possibly higher milk prices.

Chicago — Crane Co., which makes plumbing fixtures, gave most of its 6500 Chicago plant workers a 10-cents-an-hour pay increase in advance of reopening contracts with CIO steelworkers and AFL teamster unions.

Canton, Ohio — The Hoover Sweeper Co. gave pay raises to AFL production workers, reported to average 8 cents an hour.

At Wood-Ridge, N. J., a wildcat strike made more than 7000 workers idle for a third day at the Wright Aeronautical Corp. plant where military aircraft engines are being made. CIO United Automobile Workers seek higher pay.

Chaos Faces NLRB Policy, Denham Says

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 12 (AP).—Robert N. Denham says his successor as general counsel for the National Labor Relations Board has approved policies that could lead to "economic chaos."

Denham told the American Hardware Manufacturers Association yesterday the new counsel, George J. Bott, proposes to fully support the 'divide and conquer' tactics in cases where association bargaining has been the rule."

He said that when an association bargaining with a union for several member companies reaches an "impasse" the union "promptly picks out one of the association members and strikes him, but insists on continuing work at the plants of other members."

In several industries, he said, the nonstruck association members closed down on grounds a strike against one member was a strike against all. In cases like this, the union files a charge of discriminatory lock-out against the members who closed down. Denham said he dismissed lock-out charges in the case of some Washington dairies because they were "wholly unrealistic and unfair to the principles of sound bargaining."

The board sustained lock-out charges in a recent case involving a liquor dealers association in Chicago and "the present general counsel agrees," Denham said.

At Washington, a board spokesman said the decision in the Chicago liquor dealers' case had upheld a position originally taken by Denham, who reversed himself on that point in a later case.

Testimony Insufficient, Maragon Says

By The Associated Press

Counsel for John Maragon, once a familiar figure around the White House, asked the U. S. Court of Appeals yesterday to reverse his perjury conviction.

There wasn't enough testimony against Maragon, Counsel Irvin Goldstein contended.

Maragon is under sentence of eight months to two years in jail following his Federal Court conviction last spring. He was convicted on charges he lied criminally in the Senate committee "five percenter" investigation of agents for firms seeking Government contracts.

Maragon used to be a friend of Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, Presiden Truman's military aide.

The jury convicted Maragon of swearing falsely that he had no bank account outside Washington in 1945-46 when he actually had a big account in a San Antonio, Tex., bank, and had cut off connections with Albert Verley Co., Chicago importers, before taking a State Department job on a mission to Greece.

Goldstein told the Appeals Court that even though Maragon once admitted it to be a fact, the prosecution failed to prove in the trial that he was the man who kept the San Antonio bank account.

On both points on which Maragon was convicted, Goldstein argued, the prosecution failed to support its charges with the testimony of more than one witness.

Charles B. Murray, assistant United States attorney, contended the prosecution submitted ample evidence to sustain conviction and Goldstein's arguments overlooked exceptions upheld by the Supreme Court to the legal rules Goldstein had quoted.

He contended Maragon had been caught in "misleading and deceitful statements" and should not be allowed to seek refuge in technicalities.

Arlingtonian Sentenced For Felonious Entry

Robert Chester Jones, 20, of 1227 Bluemont dr., Arlington, yesterday was sentenced to five years in the Virginia State Penitentiary charged with breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony.

He pleaded guilty to the charge in Arlington Circuit Court. Jones originally was charged with attempted rape after police said he seized a 23-year-old Arlington housewife on January 11, dragged her into her apartment with him, tore her clothes, but fled when a neighbor's dog barked.

Soaring Loans Set New Peak In Oct. 4 Week

By S. Oliver Goodman

Bank loans soared to new record highs during the week ended October 4, the Federal Reserve Board noted yesterday.

Business loans jumped 200 million dollars during the week to a total of $15,925,000,000. Real estate loans advanced 14 million dollars to $5,061,000,000.

Stringent curbs on private mortgage credit for houses became effective yesterday and new regulations on credit for apartment projects are being considered.

Installment credit terms also are being scrutinized by the Federal Reserve Board. Initial credit curbs, which went into effect September 18, apparently have had little effect on installment buying.

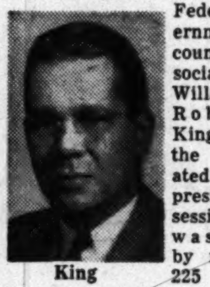
Another report is current that the board may soon raise reserve requirements to check bank loans in general, but there were no indications that such action is imminent.

Since June 1, bank loans to business have soared $2,500,000,000. This is considered more than the normal rise for that period.

In the Fifth Federal Reserve District, which includes Washington, loans also have climbed steadily to new peaks. Latest figures from the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond show that regional loans and discounts are in excess of a billion dollars, up more than 220 million dollars in the past 12 months.

HOLIDAY: Major security and commodity markets were closed yesterday in observance of Columbus Day. They will resume business today.

INITIAL PARLEY: Government accounting problems and auditing standards were discussed at the initial general meeting of the Federal Government Accountants Association in the Willard Hotel. Robert W. King, head of the newly-created group, presided at the session which was attended by more than 225 persons.



King

Secretary of Treasury Snyder emphasized the increasing importance of accounting in Government. Other speakers included Comptroller General Lindsay Warren and Frederick J. Lawton, director of the Bureau of the Budget. King, who is agency accounting officer at the Housing and Home Finance Agency-Office of the Administrator, said the association plans monthly meetings. More than 120 are already members.

LIQUID: Probably the most liquid bank in the city is the National Bank of Washington. Latest statement as of October 4 shows 89 cents in cash and Government securities for every dollar of deposits. Total deposits amounted to $84,575,074, against $75,858,430 in cash and Government securities. Loans on October 4 aggregated $12,070,259.

Edison's Daughter Elected Director Of Western Union

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP).—Election of Mrs. Madeleine Edison Sloane, daughter of Thomas A. Edison, as a director of the Western Union Telegraph Co. was announced today.

Walter P. Marshall, president, said she is the first woman to be elected to the board of Western Union or any other major communications company.

As a young man, Mrs. Sloane's father was a Western Union telegrapher before he rose to fame as inventor of the incandescent lamp, phonograph, motion pictures and numerous other devices. Edison got his financial start as an inventor by developing an improved stock and commodity ticker for Western Union.

Mrs. Sloane is the wife of John Eyre Sloane, former governor and treasurer of the New York Security Dealers Association, and the sister of former Governor Charles Edison of New Jersey. Her home is in West Orange, N. J.

Business Outlook

John Snyder Makes His Point, Helped by $100-Million Error

DID YOU ever stop to figure out how a slip gets started and grows? Well, here's an example. An Associated Press dispatch, which appeared in the New York Times, New York Herald-Tribune, Washington Post, and numerous other newspapers throughout the country, reported that in September only $248 million of Series E savings bonds were cashed, as against sales of $244 million. That made it seem as if the Treasury's saving bond troubles were over, as if sales had caught up with redemptions. After all, what's a $4 million difference among friends and the Government s billions? But somehow, there was a hundred-million-dollar error. The dispatch should have read that redemptions were $348 million, not $248 million. Which would mean that cash-ins exceeded sales by $104 million, or 43 percent. The error didn't end there. And, of all persons, Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder extended it!

Livingston

He was in Pittsburgh to spur the sales of savings bonds there. At a news conference, he expressed satisfaction that the wave of redemptions which followed the Korean war was tapering off. He used that same $4 million figure. When he is on a trip, Snyder apparently is like another well-known American, Will Rogers, who once said: "All I know is what I read in the newspapers."

That trifling $4 million difference fits conveniently into the Treasury line. At the American Bankers Association convention, Snyder pooh-poohed the post-Korean jump-up in savings-bond redemptions as temporary. At Pittsburgh, he went out on a limb and predicted that during this month sales would catch up with redemptions.

AT THE MOMENT, however, the evidence is far from conclusive, as you can see for yourself. The following table shows sales and redemption of Series E bonds so far this year:

	Sales	Redemptions (In Millions)	Excess of Sales
January	$402.1	$320.2	$81.9
February	360.5	224.0	136.5
March	363.7	309.4	54.3
April	304.7	274.7	30.1
May	307.2	312.9	— 5.8
June	297.4	333.9	— 36.5
July	317.6	367.9	— 50.3
August	269.7	393.5	—123.9
September ..	244.0	348.1	—104.1

The 45-million-dollar drop in redemptions from August to September is encouraging. But cash-ins in September were the third highest of any month in the year, and higher than in any month in 1949 and 1948. Further, for 5 successive months, redemptions exceeded sales.

The increase in redemptions is traceable, as Snyder says, to the outbreak of war in Korea. People, fearing a recurrence of wartime shortages, rushed out to buy automobiles, refrigerators, homes, washing machines and so on, and cashed savings bonds to do so. They also drew out funds from savings banks and savings and loan associations. Redemptions also were high in 1946 and 1947 when durable consumer goods were coming back on the market after the war.

THROUGHOUT the postwar period, there has been a noticeable drift away from Snyder's offerings, in spite of savings bond drives with all their free publicity, advertising, movie stars and hoopla. People are reverting to their prewar savings habits—putting money in savings banks and savings and loan associations. In the first seven months of this year, for intance, total deposits in mutual savings banks increased 3.3%, shares in savings and loan associations 7%, but savings bonds including accumulated interest were up only 2.3%.

An inference, it seems to me, is justifiable. People have watched this country move from the inflation of World War II into the inflation of the postwar period and now into the inflation of World War 11½. They've watched the purchasing power of the dollar drop 43% since 1939. So they're not as happy about the savings bonds and savings in general as they once were.

As yet, of course, no general distrust of savings has developed. Nor is it likely to unless prices rise much further. None the less, if Secretary Snyder wants to continue to sell savings bonds, if he wants to successfully refund Series E bonds when they start coming due in quantity next year and the year after, then he must begin to concern himself promptly with restoring confidence in the dollar.

Snyder's predecessor, Henry Morgenthau, jr., was faced with a quantitative problem: How to sell a lot of savings bonds quickly. Snyder's problem is qualitative: How to make those same bonds good—in purchasing power. On that will depend his rank in history as a Secretary of the Treasury.

Western Maryland Railway Proposes Capital Revision

BALTIMORE, Oct. 12 (AP).—The Western Maryland Railway is $136.50 a share behind in paying dividends on its 7 percent first preferred stock.

It came out today with a plan to rearrange its capital setup and pay off the dividend arrearages with new shares of stock.

Under the new plan, holders of the 7 percent first preferred would get 1.4 shares of new 5 percent first preferred, 1 share of new 4 percent second preferred, and 1½ shares of new common in exchange for each share they now hold and its accumulated dividends.

Holders of the present second preferred would get ½ share of new 4 percent second preferred and 1¼ shares of the new common.

The plan is based on estimates that the Western Maryland will have a net income of at least four million dollars in normal years, with about $2,450,000 available for common would withdraw a dividend of 50 cents a year.

Frank C. La Grange, senior partner of La Grange & Co., member of the New York Stock Exchange, described the plan as "totally unsatisfactory."

La Grange said today he owns or represents more than 30 percent of the present second preferred stock. To effect the recapitalization plan it must be assented to by holders of at least 75 percent of outstanding shares of each class of stock.

Speculators Hit By Australia's Pound Decision

SYDNEY, Oct. 12 (AP).—Australia's decision not to revalue her pound, announced by Prime Minister Menzies recently, is a body blow to exchange speculators.

Millions of pounds have been sent into Australia in recent weeks in anticipation of an increase in the value of Australia's pound, which would give up to 25 percent profit.

Today, the speculator's problem is to get the money out of Australia through a tight government exchange control.

Finance Editor W. J. Jackson of the Daily Telegraph, said 300 million pounds Australian came into this dominion in the past four years in anticipation of depreciation of sterling or appreciation of the Australian pound.

Dollar Value Reported Off 40c in 11 Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (U.P.).—The value of the dollar declined almost 40 cents in 11 years while food costs have more than doubled, the National Industrial Conference Board said today.

Scarce-buying, largely in household furnishings and food, forced the price index up another 0.6 percent from August to September. The board said last month's boost lifted living costs to within 1 percent of the all-time high of July-August, 1948, when the all-items index reached 166.1 percent, compared with 100 percent in 1939.

Central Places Order for 200 More Diesels

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP).—The New York Central Railroad has placed orders for 200 Diesel-electric locomotives at a cost of $31 million—the largest locomotive order ever placed by the road.

The new units will bring the total of that type of locomotive on New York Central lines to 1255 units with a total of 1,491,100 horsepower.

Earlier this year the Central ordered 185 units of Diesel power.

The new order will be made up by the Electro-Motive Division of General Motors Corp., the American Locomotive Co., Fairbanks, Morse and Co., and Lima-Hamilton Corp.

Hytron Sales Soar

Hytron Radio & Electronics Corp. and subsidiaries reported third quarter combined sales of $13,350,000 compared with $3,950,000 in the like period last year, an increase of 340 percent.

Memos of a Girl Friday

Dear WW: Your personal appeal to Gov. Dewey to do something about the crooks who swindle citizens out of donations for cancer victims got quick action. State Attorney-General Nathaniel L. Goldstein charged in court that the Cancer Welfare League's operation (sending people crisp, new dollar bills in a dramatic letter urging them to return it with their own offerings) was "nothing less than a shameful fraud on the public." He charged that this outfit collected over $102,000 last year and deducted about $97,000 "for expenses!"

Saw "State Secret" on your nod, and it is everything you applauded, but it certainly is a carbon copy of Metro's "Crisis" starring Cary Grant and Jose Ferrer. In fact, the same Hungarian author (who wrote the Fairbanks film) sold the "Crisis" thesis to MGM not too long ago . . . Rodgers & Hammerstein tried to buy the Rivoli Theater. Their bid was snubbed . . . Dambdest thing happened to the elegant Ilka Chase. She femme-c'd a fashion show in a plane (between here and Cleveland) and got very inelegantly airsick . . . Toots Shor's definition of Class: Not Forgetting Where You Came From.

Gorgeous Gussie Moran will wear her silly little lace panties when she returns to the Garden on the 26th. It says here she will make her quick changes of costume right before the crowd, but the lights will go out. Onowlookahere, girl! How sexy do you have to get—to get to be a bore? . . . Susan Yorke's new book, "The Widow," was completely sold out in Los Angeles and Boston the Mondaynoon following your plug. She says it is selling like hotcakes in "this very dull market," so thanks . . . Grace Oursler's new book just came in. It's "When Sorrow Comes" (Doubleday), and Grace celebrated the event by going to Doctors Hospital . . . Roslynd Lowe, one of the Navy nurses in "S. Pacific," becomes a bride week before Christmas . . . Gen. Eisenhower spurned that offer to do a col'm twice weekly.

Peggy Ferris, who was understudy to Patricia Morison, the star of "Kiss Me, Kate" (and now ditto for Anne Jeffreys), has never had a chance to go on—those leading ladies being too healthy. So Peggy, who decided she wanted some excitement, will marry Stanley Smith (an engineer) on the 21st . . . The Haakon Chevaliers have Thrown Theirs Away . . . Larry Finley's Progressive B'casting System expects to start with 400 stations and wind up with 700. Starts next month . . . RCA-Victor is mighty blue about Eth Merman signing with Decca to disc the "Call Me Madam" score. Specially since NBC, an affiliate, backed the show! . . . Here's a tip I got from the Venezuelan Embassy on how to prolong the life of an orchid. Dip the stem in boiling water (up to about 1½ inches) for 2 minutes. The heat forces up the sap and revives the flower.

The first dozen copies of "MacArthur, Man of Action" (by Frank Kelly and Cornelius Ryan), due on the 26th, were flown to Pres. Truman so he can get to know Mac on the flight there . . . Rudolf Bing of the Met firing the tall ballet dancers . . . Judy Sinclair of "Gents Prefer Blondes" is Thoo With Men. "You get nothing but a broken heart sticking to one guy," she told me in an excloosive innaview. The Guy in this case probably is a South American mint, who suddenly flew back to Brazil . . . Newest craze among The Copycat Set is bent-wire ciggie holders a la Gloria Swanson in "Sunset Blvd" . . . Yonkers Raceway stock which was $1 on May 2nd is now $20 a share. Now they tell me!

Remember that T. Sullivan, 3rd, who got on the front pages via a brawl at the Mrs. Woolley-Hart charity-gamblers party? On Oct. 5th he was given 1½ years at hard labor (in Oregon) for beating up a 72-year-old man (brave guy), passing checks that bounced and trying to steal a woman's purse in a dept. store . . . Western Union people are quaking. An amazing machine called Desk-Fax will throw thousands out of work and close up many regional offices, according to telegraph people . . . Manfred Bockenheimer of the Stuttgarten Zeitung is one of 125 Germans brought here to study our way of life. Do him a big favor. Tell him not to visit or study in the home towns of vets from the 88th Division. Because Manfred's company machine-gunned 14 GI POWs in Salzburg the day before it fell.

Wall Street is buzzing about the return of Chas. C. Wright. He was the central figure in the aircraft and motor stock probe of the 30s. He moved to Canada when the SEC breathed down his neck, but now he is back all set up in business again . . . I'm told that this is Big News. The Minister of Religion in Israel will call a Sanhedrin next year in Jerusalem. This'll be the first meeting of the Rabbis in 2000 years. Big talk around Harvard is that one of H. Luce's top brass is trying like anything to become Pres. of Harvard, with Conant upping to Chancellor.

Gov. Dewey may be invited before the Grand Jury probing the cops and bookies . . . Marguerite Higgins, the lovely Leading Lady of the Korean War, returns for the H.-Trib. forum . . . The specs who got their paws on tickets for "Call Me Madam" got as high as $200 the pair last night . . . Jane Frohman's ex-groom, Don Ross, and Esta Silsbee on the Hotel Plaza's publicity staff are romantic. The reason it's an item is that his ex-wife, Jane Frohman, is the star at the Plaza's Persian Room . . . There are 11 college graduates in the chorus of Olsen & Johnson's "Pardon Our French."

Frank Gannett denies that he "has anything to do" with Joseph Kamp (who gets out of Federal clink on the 15th) or Merwin K. Hart. Said it was a Straight Face, too. Gwan! . . . If someone decided to sponsor the Stork Club tv show, it would cost $2,700,000 . . . That word Edith Evans shocks you with in "Daphne Laureola" has never been dared on a stage before . . . In his "Season in the Sun" summary critic J. Chapman explained that Fire Island vacationers "are familiar with the celebrities and androgynes." He means swishes.

TV Dealers Talking of Suit Against FCC's Color Decision

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP).—A drive against the Federal Communications Commission's color television decision gained momentum today as a meeting of New York dealers was called to discuss legal action.

Gerard I. Nierenberg, attorney, said the meeting was set for next Wednesday by the Retail Television and Appliance Dealers Association. Wholesalers and manufacturers will be invited.

For the association Nierenberg said the commission's adoption of Columbia Broadcasting System's color method would subject the present eight million set owners to unnecessary and unreasonable costs." He said the association represented 90 percent of television set dealers in Greater New York.

Isidor Goldberg, president of Pilot Radio Corp., said he would seek an injunction against the commission's decision.

Manufacturers have been almost solid in their opposition to CBS color because it is incompatible—on different standards from those used for present black-and-white television—and could not be received in any form on present sets unless they had been altered.

Louis I. Pokrass, board chairman of Tele King Corp., called the color ruling "premature" and predicted "it will be years before color will be ready for general use."

In Chicago, John S. Meck, president of John Meck Industries, wrote his dealers that "no manufacturer is going to do an all-out job on (CBS) color receiving equipment. The CBS system is not now and never will be practical for anything more than a 10-inch or 12-inch picture tube."

"The FCC," said Meck, "has left the way open for a sound electronic system of color television, but we are still several years away from color television. This arbitrary decision has no practical effect on the situation, but only adds to the confusion."

He added his company would continue to make present-type sets indefinitely.

John Craig, vice president of Avco Manufacturing Co., and general manager of its Crosley division, said in Cincinnati that color television in the home still is three to five years away. He told Crosley dealers: "The CBS system of color television is impractical on any television set having more than a 12-inch tube."

Andrea Radio Corp. also opposed the commission's decision.

Several smaller manufacturers reported plans to make equipment for converting present-type sets to receive CBS color.

The Celomat Corp. expects to have converters on the market in three weeks—one for $14.95 giving a picture 7 to 8 inches across and one for $60 to $75 giving a 12½-inch picture. It would be up to the set owner to pay the installation cost, estimated at an additional $35 to $40.

Tele-Tone Radio Corp. announced it would begin full-scale production January 1 on converter units "that will work with any Tele-Tone set made in the past or to be designed in the future," and the price will be "surprisingly low."

Tele-Tone participated in development and production of experimental CBS conversion units nearly a year ago and at that time said it could mass-produce them for less than $100.

The Webster-Chicago Corp. previously had announced it planned to have color converts in production by January 1 at $50 to $75.

Egg production per layer on Pennsylvania farms has increased more than 50 percent in the past 25 years. The state ranks 3rd in number and 2nd in the value of its eggs.

Pulitzer, That Is

The Prize That Made St. Louis Famous

By John Crosby

Crosby

THE ONLY THING the matter with "Pulitzer Prize Playhouse," a new hour-long dramatic production (ABC-TV, WMAL, 9 p. m. Fridays), is that it can't very well come up with such nourishing fare as its opening production, "You Can't Take It With You" every week. There are very few plays as rich in comic invention as "You Can't Take It With You," which means that not all of the Pulitzer Prize Playhouse productions are going to maintain that high level.

Still, I imagine they'll try awfully hard. The Schlitz Brewing Company, which happens to be paying the bills for this program, has shot the works, moneywise, as the saying goes. There were no evidences of economy anywhere around "You Can't Take It With You," which was as stylish and lavish a production as I've ever seen on television. Charles Coburn and Ella Raines were shipped in from Hollywood to add tone to the proceedings. Coburn proved again that he is a very polished and adroit actor, Miss Raines that she is a very pretty and handsomely constructed girl.

While those two have perhaps the greatest value on a marquee, the rest of the by no means unknown cast were pretty wonderful too. I should like especially to plant a little kiss on the cheek of Nydia Westman who played Penny Sycamore with wild abandon. There were also some fine performances by Joseph Buloff and Joan McCracken. As I remarked earlier, no expense was spared.

"YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU"—you must have heard some rumors about this—is a tale about a man who won't pay his taxes, which he considers foolish, and advises everyone to take it easy. The critics, in 1936, while recognizing the superb craftsmanship and inspiration of the play, complained that it didn't have much of a message.

Today, that malarkey has sensibly been modified. A play has other things on its mind. Still—for reasons I'm still working on—the play has a message today where it didn't in 1936. Relax and enjoy yourself, kid. In 1936, that philosophy was treasonable; today, it's just subversive.

BUT LET'S get back to the show. "Pulitzer Prize Playhouse" was opened with more hoopla and elbow-bending than any television program to date. Editors and publishers and radio and television columnists were disgorged on the city from places as far away as California and you know how far away that is. Speeches emitted by all sorts of prominent people, including Joseph Pulitzer, editor of The St. Louis Post Dispatch—where this column occasionally appears—and Erwin Uihlein, president of Schlitz, "The Beer That Made Milwaukee Famous." (I was born in Milwaukee and along with Alfred Lunt, Jack Carson, Edna Ferber and some other former Milwaukeeans, I have been trying to outdistance the fame of Schlitz for years. All of us, in leaving our homes, kiss our mothers on the cheek and say: "Mother, when I return, Milwaukee will be famous for having produced me rather than Schlitz." None of us has ever succeeded in living up to this boast.)

"Pulitzer Prize Playhouse" will run out of Pulitzer Prize plays very rapidly and is not, fortunately, limited to them. You'll also see dramatizations of Pulitzer Prize novels and Pulitzer Prize news stories (one this week).

The Federal Diary

Leave Rider Applies Only to Annual Leave For Calendar Year

Questions continue to pour in from Federal workers on the annual leave and Whitten riders. Some of general news interest and their answers follow:

Q. In his decision on the leave rider, the Comptroller General said it was "permanent law." Does this mean we'll have to take annual leave as we earn it each year or else lose it?

A. No; not unless the rider is made permanent law by Congress. As it now stands, the rider applies only to annual leave earned during this calendar year of 1950.

The "permanent" features of the rider referred to by the comptroller are:

(1) to allow any employe called into the armed services through next June 30 to be paid in cash for his accumulated annual leave, or to have it credited to him on his return to his job, and (2) that funds carried in this year's budget or in future appropriation bills can't be used to pay for leave earned this calendar year but not taken before next July 1.

Q. The leave rider is on the 1951 appropriation act which expires next June 30. Won't we have to take annual leave earned during the first six months of 1951 or else lose it?

A. No. The rider affects leave earned only during this calendar.

Q. I carried over 40 days of annual leave to this year. During January and February I took 32 days of leave and I haven't taken any nor do I plan to take any more this year. The rider says I must take leave earned this year by next July 1 or else forfeit it. I took my leave before I had a chance to earn it this year. How much leave can I carry over to 1951?

A. You can carry over the 26 days you will earn this year, plus the 8 days remaining from the 40 you carried over from 1949. It oesn't matter that you took annual leave this year before you technically earned it. You have already more than complied with the congressional rider.

Q. I'm on a vital defense job and I haven't been able to get more than three days off and I don't see any prospect of a vacation before the year ends. If I'm forced to forfeit my leave under such circumstances won't I be paid for it.

A. You should be as a matter of justice, but you can't be under the law.

Q. I carried over the maximum of 90 days of leave to this year. I've taken 10 days this year. What effect will the new leave rider have on me?

A. You'll have to take the remaning 16 days you will earn this year by December 31, or else lose it.

Q. Do the Whitten and leave riders cover all Federal workers?

A. Yes; classified, postal, and per diem employes are all covered by the riders. The Whitten rider, in fact, makes it plain that such non-Civil Service agencies as the FBI and TVA are covered by it.

Q. I'm a Commerce employe and I have an opportunity to transfer to a job of a higher grade in the National Production Administration. If I take it, will I be given a temporary transfer?

A. That will be up to Commerce. The Whitten rider doesn't require your proposed transfer to be made on a temporary basis. Only interagency transfers are temporary under the rider. NPA is in Commerce and yours would be an intra-agency transfer.

Q. What is meant by a temporary promotion to a permanent job? It doesn't make sense to me.

A. The Whitten rider requires grade promotions to be made on a temporary basis at least through next June 30. Unless the rider is extended, after that date the Civil Service Commission will review grade promotions made since September 1. Promotions that are justified will be approved as permanent. Those the commission believes are over-graded will be knocked down a grade or two.

It's my opinion that temporary grade promotions are largely a psychological problem with employes and agencies alike for this reason: the agencies will be very careful to promote employes to grades they can qualify for because Congress will be watching them through the rider.

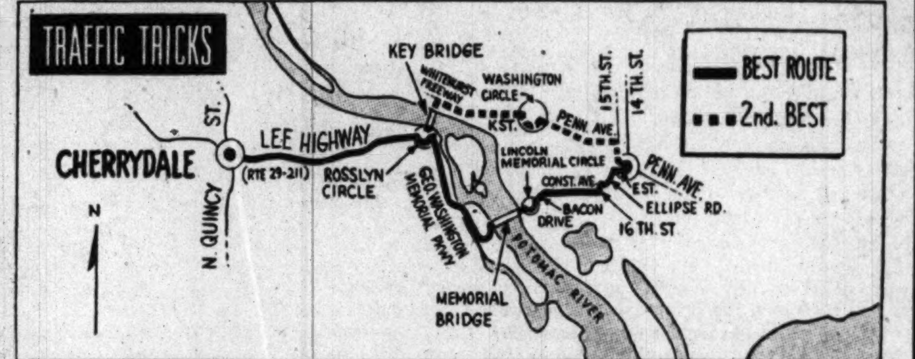
G. Washington Parkway Offers Fastest Route From Cherrydale to Downtown



Have you wondered whether you are taking the quickest route to work? TRAFFIC TRICKS, recommended routes developed from the Regional Highway Planning Survey of Metropolitan Washington, has the answer on the fast way to get to 14th and Pennsylvania ave. or the Capitol.

RESIDENTS of Cherrydale, Lee Heights, Garden City, Cottage Park, Lorcum Grove and Maywood sections of Arlington County, Va., should take this route:

From the intersection of Lee hwy. and North Quincy st., Cherrydale, take Lee hwy. (29-211), proceed two thirds of the way around Rosslyn cir. and take a right to the George Washington Memorial parkway, continue on this to Memorial bridge, cross, proceed around the Lincoln Memorial cle., right to Bacon dr., right on Constitution ave., left on 16th, right on Ellipse rd., right on E to 14th st.

The average peak traffic time is 71.25 minutes for the 5.2 mile distance. From the starting intersection, it should take 11 minutes to the bridge.

OTHER route: Take Lee hwy. (29-211), around Rosslyn cir., cross Key Bridge, right on Whitehurst freeway through K st. nw., right on Pennsylvania ave. off Washington cir., right on 15th st., left on Pennsylvania to 14th. Time 20.5 minutes for the 4.7 mile distance; 85 minutes to the bridge.

The recommended route to the Capitol is via the first route, except that instead of turning on 16th, continue on Constitution to the Capitol. Constitution is considered faster moving than Independence ave. The time is 22 minutes for the 6.3 mile distance; 11 minutes to the bridge.

Water Main Geyser Plays For 2 Hours

3 A. M. Pipe Break Repaired at 2 P. M.; Few Homes Affected

Several million gallons of water erupted to treetop level and flooded the area at George ave. and Rittenhouse st. nw. early yesterday when a 20-inch main broke.

The break occurred at 3 a. m. and Water Department repairmen worked more than two hours before they could get the geyser under control. The water was from the Reno Reservoir.

Thanks to its "grid system," the Water Department was able to direct the flow of water so that only a small section (about 20 homes) was left without water. By 2 p. m. repairs had been completed and water service restored.

A Water Department spokesman explained that several days ago there had been a small break in the main and a new nipple was installed. This piece apparently was faulty and gave way.

Some householders complained during the day they were drawing "rusty" water. The Water Department explained that this was because water was backed up in some seldom used pipes after the main broke and picked up rust. The water should be clear again by today, the depatment promised.

The accident blocked traffic and resulted in the arrest of one driver and the injury of a policeman.

Police Pvt. Richard F. Wynne, 23, of 1931 Jackson st. ne., assigned to the Sixth Precinct, was helping direct traffic at the scene and was hurt when an automobile backed into him. He was treated and X-rayed at Emergency Hospital.

The driver of the car, identified by police as Donald T. Fitzgerald, 27, of 4515 Bennion rd., Viers Mill Village, Silver Spring, Md., was charged with drunken driving, and backing without caution.

Potomac Search For Girl Still On

Police from three sectors of Greater Washington yesterday spent another fruitless day in their search for the body of Roberta Gilbert, 13-year-old daughter of Metropolitan Police Pvt. W. K. Gilbert.

The child is believed to have drowned at Great Falls last Saturday. Yesterday, Montgomery County, Washington and Fairfax County, Va., police cooperated in the search. At one point, a boat from the Glen Echo Volunteer Fire Department was dispatched into the river about 4 miles below Great Falls. Watchers thought they had seen red and green clothing in a clump of bushes near the river's middle. But searchers were unable to locate any trace of the girl's body.

Alexandria Teacher Pay Raise Sought

Alexandria's City Council will be asked to approve pay increases ranging from $50 to $150 annually for school teachers when it begins its 1950 budget deliberations next month.

Although the proposed pay increase would not become effective until next fall, it already has been approved by the city school board so that it can be incorporated in next year's budget, if adopted.

Under the proposed new scale, minimum salaries would be boosted from $2400 to $2450 for beginning teachers. The maximum pay, based on 15 years of service, would be increased from $3800 to $3950.

According to J. S. Everly, school board chairman, the board also proposes to start next year a program of equalizing salaries of men and women teachers. Men now draw $200 a year above the scheduled minimum.

Under the equalization process, Everly said, the board hopes to give each woman teacher an additional annual boost of $50 for the next four years.

At its meeting Wednesday night, the board also agreed to discontinue its practice of requiring teachers to take annual chest X-ray examinations. The action was taken, school officials said, because Alexandria Health Department authorities, who have been conducting the chest tests, also insisted on subjecting teachers to other tests as prerequisites to the chest X-rays.

Work Made Secretary Of Catholic Men's Unit

Martin H. Work has been named executive secretary of the National Council of Catholic Men, it was announced here yesterday by Stewart Lynch of Wilmington, Del., council president.

Work, who lives at 106 Varnum st. ne., was one of the founders of the 600-station Armed Forces Radio Service network during World War II and later its commanding officer.

He succeeds James S. Mitchell, who has resigned to become associate executive director of Associated Services for the Armed Forces, the organization that succeeded USO.

Capital Transit Extends Ridge Rd. S.E. Bus Line

The Capital Transit Co. has announced that its Ridge rd. se. branch of the Sousa Bridge bus line will be extended, beginning Sunday, to serve the newly developed area east of Ridge rd.

The extension will run along Ridge rd. to G st., east on G st., north on Adrian st., and west on Texas ave. back to Ridge rd.

Green Again Tangles With School Board

Arlington Official Asks Court to Halt Check Signing

Arlington Treasurer John Locke Green yesterday rang the bell for another legal round with the County School Board by filing an injunction suit against the board's chairman and its clerk.

Green asked Arlington Circuit Court to restrain the clerk, E. J. Braun, from signing school checks with the signature plate of Chairman Mrs. Edmund Campbell in her absence.

It was the second time within two weeks that Green and the school board have been at legal loggerheads.

Late last month, Green was brought into Circuit Court by the school board on his refusal to release funds for purchase of a $299,750 warehouse the board wanted.

After a two-day hearing, Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy ordered Green to release the school funds.

In yesterday's suit the treasurer charged there were "innumerable times" when Braun "not only signs his name to said (money) warrants, but also affixes the signature of the chairman . . . in her absence by means of a single signature plate."

Green complained in the suit that "during the course of the year many millions of dollars" could be spent by the school board in such a way.

He said that both he "and the public may be damaged by the continued illegal acts" of Braun and Mrs. Campbell, and asked that the court enjoin Braun from using the signature plate in the chairman's absence.

Friday 13th Holds No Fears For Scotts, They've Had It

Today—Friday the 13th—finds Frederick Scott and his wife, Thelma, both 22, residing in District Jail and probably wondering if there isn't something to the "unlucky 13" superstition.

Scott is charged with committing a housebreaking on August 13. His wife is charged with aiding and abetting him.

One of the watches stolen in the housebreaking was recovered at 313 H st. nw.

When Scott was arrested, he was placed in cell No. 13.

When he and his wife were arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence, their case was continued for 13 days—until October 25.

The housebreaking charged to him involved the theft of two wrist watches valued at $150 from the apartment of William A. Stewart of 1009 Rhode Island ave. nw. Last week, detectives found one of the watches at Weinstein's pawnbroker's exchange, 313 H st. nw.

It had been pawned, police said, by James Werts, 37, of 312 E st. nw. Police said Werts told them he had taken the watch there for a friend, Mrs. Pearl Smith of 203 G st. nw. Mrs. Smith said she was selling the watch for a friend, Mrs. Thelma Scott of 1534 Columbia st. nw.

Detectives then visited Mrs. Scott. They quoted her as saying she had found the watch on a kitchen shelf and had been told by her husband that it belonged to him. Scott explained, police said, that he found the watch in a tree box on 10th st. nw., just below Rhode Island ave. nw.

That sounded reasonable enough, but police went to the scene where Scott claimed he found the watch in a tree box. No trees in the block.

Worth-While Women Authors Are All Dead, Maugham Says

Somerset Maugham, the 76-year-old British author, talked about his favorite novels and writers yesterday at the meeting of the Women's National Press Club at the Washington Hotel.

But he didn't have much to say about the contemporary ones.

"Authors are extremely unscrupulous, especially about money," he went on. "Enjoy their company, but don't marry them," he advised the women.

Any living woman authors worth mentioning? asked a club member. "No," he replied, stammering chracteristically. "Woman authors worth mentioning are mostly dead."

Questions and Answers

The audience, many of them women authors, loved it. The program then took the form of a lively question-answer session.

Another club member wanted to know which of his heroines Maugham liked best.

Maugham, after a pause: "I'm getting amnesia in my old age . . . She was in "Cakes and Ale" . . . Does anyone happen to remember her name?"

One of the guests supplied it: Rosie.

"Ah, yes, Rosie," the author said fondly. "I was so afraid I was going to say her real name."

The writer refused to answer one question from a club member. She asked Maugham to name qualified woman candidates for President and Vice President of the United States.

"We British are instructed not to make any political observations in this country," he said. The crowd tittered.

Another question: What does Maugham think of Ernest Hemingway's latest book?

Answer: "I haven't read it. But I'm sure the press has been extremely hard on him."

Question: "Which of the two versions of "Of Human Bondage" did the author like better?

Answer: "I didn't see them."

Maugham explained that he has spent most of his time recently rereading the world's best novels and making plans for his forthcoming television show Teller of Tales.

Lists 5 Favorite Novels

His five favorite novels? They are "War and Peace" by Tolstoy, "Pere Goriot" by Balzac, "The Red and the Black" by Stendhal, "David Copperfield" by Dickens and "Huckleberry Finn" by Mark Twain.

The eminent writer didn't seem concerned about what TV might do to his immortal Millie of "Of Human Bondage," Sadie Thompson of "Rain" or Rosie of "Cakes and Ale."

"I've never seen a television show," he said frankly. The important thing, he continued, is that on television his works may have an audience of twenty million.

"Every writer wants a wide recognition and all books are far too expensive," he reasoned.

A television show of Maugham's best works, including personal introductions by the author, begins Wednesday, October 18, 9 p. m. on WTOP-TV.

Hazel Markel, director of program service of radio station WTOP, and first vice president of the Women's National Press Club, introduced Maugham as a man who "loves to swim in the winter, walk in the summer and play bridge all the time."

Mrs. Dean Acheson, wife of the Secretary of State, and Lady Franks, wife of the British Ambassador, were among the honor guests at the head table.

Florida Youth Surrenders

A 23-year-old youth, wanted in Florida for failure to report for draft induction, yesterday was arrested here and held by Federal authorities on $1000 bail.

Eddie Lee Simmons of DeLand, Fla., turned himself in to District police at a bus station here after arriving from Pine Island, N. Y.

Tydings Sees U. S. Safety Main Object

Drop 'Petty Things', Senator Advises; Lane Also Speaks In Montgomery

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Senator Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.) last night advised Montgomery County Democrats to focus attention on the number one problem of America's survival.

"Forget petty things," Senator Tydings told a rally of some 500 persons in the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School.

Tydings said the main problem is to "keep these rattlesnakes in the Kremlin from starting a third world war.

"We are not going to sit by and let a spark touch off another powder keg without having a fire department to put it out," Tydings said.

Tydings said that his own efforts in the Senate have been devoted to keeping America strong and to checking Russian Communist imperialism.

Senator Tydings said that the Democratic Party had been "the party of vision" in international affairs since President Wilson proposed the League of Nations."

McKeldin Policies Attacked

Maryland Gov. William Preston Lane, jr., sharply rapped the financial policies of his Republican opponent, Theodore Roosevelt McKeldin, as represented in McKeldin's term as mayor of Baltimore. Lane charged that McKeldin's record showed that he favored the diversion of motor vehicle revenues from road building to other purposes. Lane said he opposes such a policy.

Lane praised his Montgomery County audience for the progress they have made in cooperation with the State school construction program. He said that the county school program included 180 new classrooms. Four years ago, he said, Montgomery County got $1,257,000 and this year it is getting $2,300,000 in State funds.

In addition, Lane said, the State has allocated $1,250,000 to match local Montgomery County funds and is lending the county $3,500,000 to help in the school program.

Hartle Also Heard

The rally also heard talks by Maj. Gen. Russell P. Hartle, USA, retired, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Sixth Maryland District and other county candidates. Hartle is seeking the congressional seat now held by Representative J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.).

Earlier, a key Baltimore city political leader, James H. Pollack, dismissed as "hot air" a repoted rumor that he might bolt Lane and support McKeldin in the governorship race.

Pollack told The Washington Post by phone, "sure, I'm with Governor Lane and I'm supporting the Democratic ticket."

He added that "actions speak louder than words" and said this referred to the fact that the fourth Baltimore city legislative district went for Lane in the Democratic primary. This district, the Pollack political stronghold, was the only one of the six city districts that went to Lane in the primary; the others went to Lane's chief opponent, George P. Mahoney, Baltimore contractor.

Ober Loyalty Oath Given Partial Setback by Court

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 12 (AP). The Court of Appeals ruled today a candidate for governor has to sign a special State loyalty oath, but a candidate for Congress does not.

The decision upheld one arm of a Progressive Party attack on Maryland's razor-edged law against subversives.

Filed without comment, it disclosed a split among the five appellate judges who made the first distinct ruling on the so-called Ober law.

Two Disagree

Judges William L. Henderson and Charles Markell disagreed with the majority which ordered a Progressive Party nominee for govenor to sign the loyalty affidavit or be kept off general election ballots.

The five were unanimous in declaring Maryland cannot require the pledge from a Congressional candidate.

The court promised to set forth its reasons in an opinion to be filed later, probably next month.

The decision itself means:

1. Louis Shub, who wants to run for governor, must sign a pledge that he is not a subversive. Otherwise his name will not appear on the ballots, November 7.

2. Thelma Grandee's will be on the ballots as a candidate for Congress in the Second district, although she refused on contitutional grounds to sign the oath.

Appeal Promised Earlier

Both had been nominated at the Progressive Party convention. Party lawyers said earlier today that they would appeal an adverse decision to the Supreme Court.

They first went to court after the Secretary of State rejected certificates of canddiacy without the oaths. Circuit Judge James Clark upheld the Secretary. The Progressives appealed.

Clark had excluded two other Progressive nominees—Sam Fox for United States Senator and Marshall Jones for Congress in the Fourth District — both changed their minds last month and signed oaths.

Party attorneys insisted Fox and Jones were still "aggrieved," but the court today dismissed their part of the appeal.

Distinction Made

Deputy Attorney General J. Edgar Harvey speculated the distinction between Shub and Miss Grandee was one between a State and Federal office. Presumably, the appeals court declined to enforce a State requirement for election to Congrss.

This was the high court's first outright verdict on a section of the law framed by a special commission and passed wth only one dissenting vote in the 1949 General Assembly. Other suits appeared sure to follow.

More Marriages, Divorces Expected Here From War

That is what Ray H. Everett, executive secretary of the D. C. Social Hygiene Society, told board members last night in his annual report.

Everett noted an increase in marriages here as soon as United States forces intervened in Korea. Many of these marriages he characterized as "the hasty type that sent divorce rates sky-high in the mid-1940s."

Everett also predicted Washington would see higher rates of venereal disease with more visiting servicemen and more girls looking for romance and adventure.

Kass Replaces Baltz On Parking Agency

District Commissioners yesterday named Garfield I. Kass, Washington builder, to replace Edward C. Baltz on the Motor Vehicle Parking Agency.

Baltz was appointed to a four-year term last May 2, but the Commissioners had to cancel his appointment when it was found someone slipped up in checking his qualifications. The law creating the agency says its members must live in the District. Baltz resides in nearby Maryland. Kass lives at 2850 Woodland dr. nw.

'Snakebit' Siegel Rides Again: Or, 13 Skidoo in Papa's Sedan

Today's hard-luck story comes from a guy who is celebrating—by staying in bed, safe from black cats—his second Friday the 13th birthday in 33 years.

It was back in 1933 that "Snakebit" Siegel—the nickname is symonymous with "jinxed" in his native Crackerland—was greeting his 16th birthday with all the enthusiasm of a 16-year-old.

Siegel, who goes by the first name of Morris and lives at 3100 Connecticut ave. nw., is now a Washington newspaperman. But that's another hard-luck story.

Back in 1933, to get on with the first tale, he had squirmed his way through an interminable day of classes at Atlanta's Boys' High School on October 13.

When the bell rang, he dashed home with the speed of Mercury—sparks at his heels and fire in his eyes. It was the day!

Crashing open the front door of the family home on Washington st., he called to Father Max Siegel. No answer. Mother? No answer. There on the hall table lay the key to happiness—the key to the family car.

It was the first day of his life he was qualified by law (if not by experience) to take the wheel—there was a minimum age limit of 16, but no road test. In fact, Siegel recalls, there were very few roads.

"Snakebit" clasped the key in his sweaty palm. A quick glance at the garage, the shiny car, the road to town—and he was off.

The story ends about two blocks toward town, when "Snakebit" and the family car met a high-balling truck crossing an intersection. The family car brought $10.50 from the junk man.

To all others who have a birthday today Siegel sends from his bed of safety a thought for today: "Bourbon and gasoline don't mix. Try Scotch and water."

Nearby Va. Areas Agree On Plan for Civil Defense

Mutual Aid Pact Is Visualized With Facilities of Each Available to All

A mutual aid program for use in event of emergency was agreed upon tentatively by civilian defense authorities of three nearby Virginia communities last night.

The program was outlined at a meeting of civilian defense directors from Alexandria, Arlington and Fairfax Counties which together with the city of Falls Church, will constitute a separate regional council under Virginia's newly-announced defense plan.

According to William M. Barbour, defense coordinator for Alexandria, each community would make its facilities available to the other in event of disaster.

Other Agreement Sought

Barbour also proposed that the regional council attempt to work out a similar agreement with other defense units in the Washington metropolitan area. The group delayed formal action on the proposal until next Tuesday when defense officials from the entire Washington metropolitan area will meet in the District.

Barbour pointed out that it may be possible to obtain further information on the defense program at the October 17 meeting.

The Virginia group agreed informally on a defense setup which would provide for four deputy coordinators in each community. They would head the fire department, police department, public works and health.

Leaders Listed

Present at last night's meeting besides Barbour were Col. Guy N. Church, director of defense for Fairfax County; Arlington County Manager A. T. Lundberg, who heads the defense unit in Arlington, and Alfred Frisbie, an Arlington County board member who represents the Northern Virginia Planning Commission on the defense council.

Colonel Church also attended the meeting as spokesman for Falls Church Mayor Albert M. Orme.

The directors agreed to meet again October 26 at Fairfax at which time the full defense program will be submitted to a formal vote.

Vandals Raid Home of Aged Sculptress

For the second time in six months, the boarded-up studio of Mrs. Adelaide Johnson, centenarian sculptress most famous for her characterization of the suffragettes, has been ransacked.

Police said the studio, at 240 Maryland ave. ne., was broken into, apparently by vandals, who opened trunks, desks and record books and spread their contents over the second floor of the house.

According to Mrs. Meta Keebler, with whom Mrs. Johnson lives at 126 C st. ne., the house was entered some time between October 5, when it was last cleaned, and last Wednesday.

Thieves dug under the hasp which secured the front door bolt to effect entrance, police said.

Mrs. Keebler said no inventory has yet been made to determine what was taken from the studio. She said one piece of statuary, "The Sleeping Cupid," definitely was missing.

Mrs. Johnson celebrated her 104th birthday last month, and at that time the studio was opened to admit friends of the internationally known sculptress.

Mrs. Johnson has been waging a determined fight for nearly a decade to make the studio into a museum to depict the equalization of womankind in America.

Citizen Group Asks Child Safety Help

The Randle Highlands Citizens Association last night made a three-way attack on traffic problems related to public and parochia school children in the area.

They asked the District to prohibit parking west of L'Enfant Square on Pennsylvania ave. se. at 3 p. m. instead of 4 p. m., as at present, to facilitate loading of children on buses.

They also requested a traffic light at 28th and Pennsylvania ave. se. to handle heavy pedestrian traffic of public and parochial school children.

A third appeal sent with the others to Maj. Robert J. Barrett, superintendent of Metropolitan Police, asked that the police give first priority to protection of school children.

The association also asked the newly organized Juvenile Squad of the Police Department to watch out for illegal baseball and football games in the streets, because of property damage likely to be caused by participants.

Congress Heights

The Congress Heights Citizens Association last night decided by a voice vote to oppose a suggestion to merge the District's two teachers colleges.

Dr. Walter E. Hager, president of Wilson Teachers College, advanced the proposal last summer in his annual report to the D. C. Board of Education. He suggested that a merger of Wilson and Miner Teachers Colleges might help to end racial segregation.

Montgomery Reports 69th Polio Case

One new case of infantile paralysis was reported yesterday in Montgomery County, Md., the sole polio case recorded in the Greater Washington area.

The patient was identified as a 20-year-old man, living on Houston dr. in Silver Spring. He was admitted to Gallinger Hospital on Wednesday, and his case diagnosed as polio yesterday.

He marked the county's sixty-ninth infantile paralysis case so far this year. By the same date last year, the Montgomery County health department had recorded 26 cases.

Krum Promises Poll Tax Repeal Bill, If Elected

Tyrrell Krum of Vienna, Va., Republican candidate for the Eighth District seat in Congress, last night said he would "fight to the finish to end the injustices and inequalities" of the Virginia poll tax.

Krum spoke at a meeting of the Bucknell Civic Association at the Penn Daw firehouse on Route 1, Fairfax County. He said hundreds of citizens in Northern Virginia who want to vote in November have been denied the right to register because they overlooked the payment of their poll tax two or three years back.

He charged his opponent, Howard W. Smith, has consistently and bitterly fought repeal of the poll tax. Kaum promised to introduce a repealer as his first act if he is elected to Congress.

Funeral Directors Elect W. W. Chambers

William W. Chambers, sr., funeral director here, has been named to the board of directors of the Advertising Funeral Directors of America. The election took place at the group's sixteenth annual convention in East Orange, N. J.

His son, William W. Chambers, jr., was presented the association's award for the best idea of rendering service to the public.

Harris G. Epstein, Engineer, Awarded Posthumous Prize

Harris G. Epstein, who died February 20, was awarded a top prize posthumously Wednesday by the American Society of Civil Engineers at its annual convention in Chicago.

The award, received by Mrs. Epstein on behalf of her late husband, was the Joseph Laurie prize for the best paper describing an accomplished work of construction. Mr. Epstein's paper, on soil research, was called "Application of Test Results to Quay Wall Design."

The 65-year-old engineer, whose wife lives at 1362 Tewkesbury pl. nw., was former chief of waterfront structures with the Navy bureau of yards and docks. He designed the foundations for 1450-ton overhead crane at Hunter's Point, Calif., largest in the world.

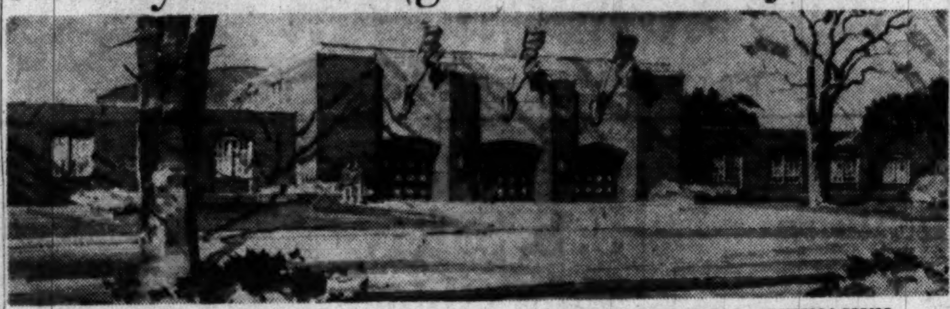
New Gym for Georgetown University



ARCHITECT'S DRAWING OF THE NEW McDONOUGH MEMORIAL GYMNASIUM

The cornerstone laying of the new $860,000 McDonough Gymnasium and the Georgetown-Maryland football game will highlight Georgetown University's annual "Homecoming Weekend," starting tonight.

The cornerstore will be laid at 10:30 a. m. Saturday.

Contained in the stone will be copies of the alumni magazine reviewing the progress of the gymnasium fund-raising campaign, a photograph of the present Ryan Gym, a list of McDonough Gymnasium Committee members throughout the country and copies of the local daily papers for October 13 and 14, 1950.

The new memorial gymnasium will be a two-story building, with the main floor in collegiate Gothic and an exterior of red brick trimmed with limestone. It will have an audience capacity of 6200 for general assemblies, plays, concerts and the like, and a 5600 capacity for basketball games.

The campaign fund is still short of its goal by $260,000.

The big Hilltop weekend will open with a student rally at 7 p. m. tonight. An hour later Georgetown's athletic stars of the past and present will gather for an alumni smoker in the Ryan Gym.

The weekend will conclude Sunday with 11:30 a. m. mass in Dahlgren Chapel.

Crowd Tails Coon, Noose Is His Undoing

But for about half of the half-hour pursuit, it was the coon which was doing the chasing. He lost in the end.

How he got there in the first place, no one could say, but it was a hectic morning for the policemen, guards and passersby who joined in the hunt.

At one time, Attorney James M. Parsons caught the ring-tailed beastie by the tail and it was placed in a gunny sack. But it clawed its way out.

Finally the amateurs called a pro—Bill Pullin of the Animal Rescue League. He caught the coon with a noose.

The raccoon was trucked to a far reach of Rock Creek Park and there given back his freedom.

Apostolides, A Man and a Cop, to Retire

One of Washington's most erudite (and brawniest) cops, Detective Sergt. John Apostolides, probably will be retired at the end of this month because of a physical disability.

Sgt. Apostolides

Apostolides, who appeared before the Police Retiring Board yesterday, suffered a stroke August 23 which left him with a blood clot behind his right eye. He has since lost complete sight in the eye.

Big (he is 6 feet 5 and weighs 225) and educated (he speaks four languages and holds degrees from Zograpaion University, Constantinople, and Southeastern University Law School), Apostolides gained fame as a member of the police subversive squad formed in 1932.

When the so-called hunger marchers converged on Washington in the early 30s, Big John was among them and his undercover work was greatly appreciated by police officials.

Other police undercover men tried to infiltrate the ranks but most of them were soon found out. But the Communist-inspired marchers accepted Big John, who still speaks with a Greek accent, as one of them.

Of Greek descent, Apostolides was born on the Island of Cyprus. He came to America in 1921, took out his first citizenship papers and promptly enlisted in the Marine Corps. He was discharged from the Marine Corps in 1926 and in July, 1927, was appointed to the police force.

His early years were spent pounding a beat in the Second Precinct. Then, in 1932, he went into plainclothes as an original member of the subversive squad under the late Lieut. Horace Lineburg.

His ability to speak English, Greek, French and Italian aided him greatly in his work.

In 1944, he was promoted to detective sergeant and assigned to the check and fraud squad where he has remained until now.

Apostolides, his wife, Lula Mae, and their son, John, jr., 5, live at 217 Kentucky ave., Alexandria.

D. C. Seeks More Use Of Farmers' Market

The District Commissioners yesterday ordered drafting of legislation that would permit more profitable use of the farmers' poultry market in the 1000 block of G st. sw.

Farmers' market rights are protected by joint resolution of Congress adopted in 1939.

The Commissioners acted on a recommendation of the District Real Estate Committee and J. Thomas Kennedy, District Director of Weights, Measures and Markets. The committee and Kennedy pointed out that income from the $125,000 property could be increased many times over the $61.50 a month now paid by the farmers.

Officials in the weights and measures office said businessmen had asked about renting the property. The farmers probably could be relocated either at the Eastern or Western Markets, they explained.

Property the Commissioners seek to have unfrozen, according to Charles Stofberg, special assistant to Commissioner John Russell Young, is 21,000 square feet of land and a one-story brick building just south of the motor vehicle inspection station. The farm produce market a block north would not be affected.

The market was established on the two blocks years ago when the farmers were induced to give up market space on Louisiana ave. nw. between 9th and 12th sts. After the District took part of one block for the inspection station, Congress stepped in to prevent "confiscation" of the rest of the market.

Sr. Mary Agnes

Rites Held For Sister of Fr. O'Leary

Funeral services were held yesterday for Sister Mary Agnes O'Leary of the Sisters of Notre Dame, who died Monday at the Bon Secours Hospital, Baltimore, after a brief illness. She was about 50.

Sister Mary Agnes was a sister of the Rev. Arthur A. O'Leary, pastor of the Holy Trinity Church, 36th and O sts. nw., and former president of Georgetown University.

The services were held at the Trinity Preparatory School chapel, Ilchester, Md. Burial was in the school cemetery.

Sister Mary Agnes had taught at the Trinity School for the past several years.

Besides her brother, Fr. O'Leary, she is survived by two other brothers, Bernard C. O'Leary, 325 Franklin st. ne. and James A. O'Leary, 5508 40th ave., Hyattsville, and two sisters, Sister Mary Frances of Cincinnati and Miss Cecelia O'Leary of 3000 Tilden st. nw.

Mrs. Katharine L. Ross, Wife of Colonel, Dies

Mrs. Katharine Lamborn Ross, wife of Col. Tenney Ross, U. S. A. (retired), died yesterday after a long illness.

She was a native of Washington, and was a graduate of the old Central High School in 1892. Well known in local musical circles, Mrs. Ross studied music under the late Professor Bischoff, conductor of the First Congregational Church choir.

After Colonel Roos' retirement in 1935, the couple moved to Kenwood, where they lived until 1942. They then moved to St. Petersburg., returning to Washington, where they made their home at 2915 Connecticut ave. nw.

Mrs. Ross is survived by her husband, a son, Brig. Gen. Lewis Tenney Ross, U. S. A. (retired) of St. Louis Mo., and a daughter, Miss Betsy Ross of Washington; three sisters, Miss Anne Lamborn and Mrs. Emory Wilson of Washington and Mrs. Arthur C. Willard of Urbana, Illinois, three grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Monday in the Fort Myer Chapel with burial in Arlington Cemetery.

Final Rites Today For Mrs. R. W. Callahan

Funeral services for Mrs. Robert W. Callahan, 71, who died Tuesday after a long illness at her Ridgeville, Md., home, will be held at 11 a. m. today in the Lee funeral home, 4th st. and Massachusetts ave. ne. Buriel will be in Glenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Callahan, the former Pearl Schoonhoven, lived in the Brookland area with her husband from 1910 to 1936 when they moved to Ridgeville. She was born in Allegany, N. Y., and came here in 1909. Mr. Callahan is a retired United States Coast Guard chief clerk.

Mrs. Callahan was an active member of the Brookland Baptist Church and sang in the choir.

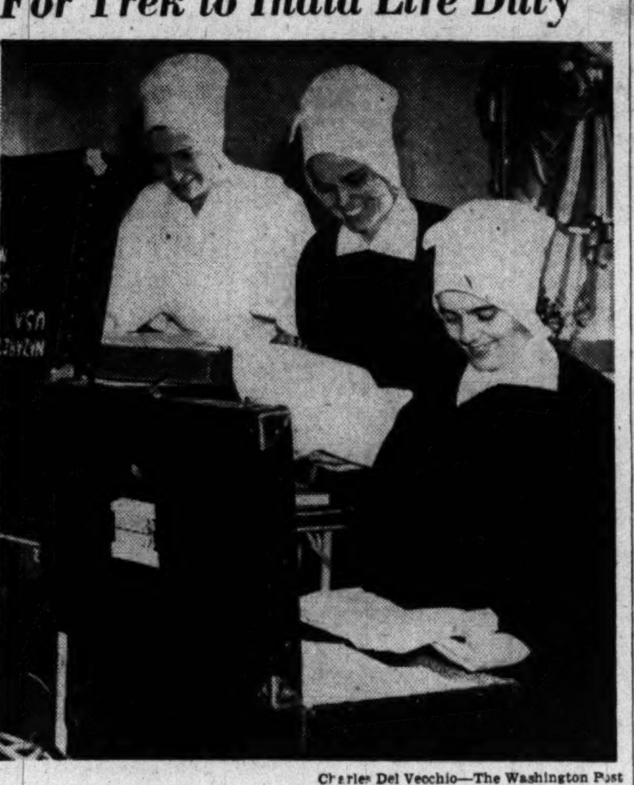
3 G. U. Hospital Sisters Pack For Trek to India Life Duty



Charles Del Vecchio—The Washington Post

INDIA BOUND—Sisters Mary Jude, Ellen Maria, and Ann Bernadette pack their trunks and prepare for their trip to Makamek Junction, Patna District, India, where they will be assigned to a new hospital to teach and nurse

"They're jolly," noted the sister, hearing the chimes of laughter from the three nuns. "They're the type ought to go. Missionaries must always smile, you know."

Sister Mary Antonella had quite a smile herself, a happy wreath spangled against the bonnet-like headdress of her order, while she watched the nuns do a "one more" for the photographer as they packed their trunks for India.

The sister, administrator of Georgetown University Hospital, said. "They're very, very happy. They wish they were already there. You see they're going to help the people out there, help their bodies—help their souls."

For Life's Work

Departing for their life's work would be Sister Mary Judge, pioneer member of the sister staff at the hospital, who is leaving the post of supervisor of the pediatrics department; Sister Ellen Maria, who has been at St. Mary's School, Martin's Ferry, Ohio, and Sister Ann Bernadette, of Holy Name School, Louisville, Ky. Sister Mary Judge is a nurse, the others teachers.

Following a departure ceremony at 8 a. m. Tuesday in the hospital chapel, the sisters will entrain for New York, go by boat from there across the Atlantic, through the Mediterranean, and the Suez Canal to India.

There they will ride three days and two nights on a train until they reach Nazareth Hospital, Mokameh Junction, Patna, on the Ganges, in the province of Bihar.

And there, unless something such as sickness happens to bring them back, they probably will remain for the rest of their lives.

The three sisters beamed at the happy prospect. Delightedly they told a reporter how they had been studying Hindustani, were taking ecords along to study it further, to know better the people in a land far removed from their home and families in Boston and Fitchburg, Mass., and Owensboro, Ky.

Sisters of Charity

The hospital at Mokameh Junction is operated by the Sisters of Charity of Nazareth, which is the Sister staff of Georgetown Hospital. The order was founded in 1812 near its present center of Nazareth, Ky.

The sisters said they believed the white headdress was inspired by sunbonnets worn in early days by the women of Kentucky.

From Nazareth in Kentucky will come Mother General Bertrand of the order and Mother Ann Sebastian, formerly Mother General, to see the three sisters off on the long road to Mokameh Junction.

Final Rites Saturday For Mrs. Paul Apple

A high requiem mass will be sung Saturday at 10 a. m. at Our Lady of Lourdes Church in Bethesda for Mrs. Paul C. Apple, 54, of 4400 Montgomery ave., Bethesda, who died Wednesday at Suburban Hospital, Bethesda, after a stroke.

Burial will be in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

Mrs. Apple was a native of Saginaw, Mich., and had lived in the Washington area for the past eleven years. She was active in local art circles. She was the wife of a Navy Bureau of Ships engineer.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Apple is survived by two children, John N. and Ruth Louise; and two brothers, Robert Law Metcalf of Saginaw, Mich., and George Francis Metcalf, of Midland, Mich.

W. J. Farrell, Rail Official, Dies at 61

William J. Farrell, 61, an official of the Association of American Railroads, died unexpectedly yesterday at his home, 2300 Connecticut ave. nw.

Mr. Farrell was surveying steel requirements for the Nation's railroads for 1951 at the time of his death. The material was to be presented to the National Production Authority, the Defense Transport Administration and other Government agencies dealing with steel allocations.

Mr. Farrell was executive vice chairman of the Purchase and Stores Division of AAR. A native of Wellesville, Ohio, he became associated with New York Central Railroad in 1907 as an asisstant to the system's general storekeeper.

He left the road in 1919 to become secretary of the Purchases and Stores Division of the American Railway Association. He was appointed to his present post in 1941.

Mr. Farrell is survived by a sister, Miss Bessie V. Farrell, of the Connecticut ave. address. ducted at the Church of St.

Metallurgist C.E. Margerum Dies at 69

Funeral services for Charles E. Margerum, 69, a well known metallurgist, who died Tuesday night at Garfield Hospital after a heart attack, will be held at 11 a. m. Saturday at the Sanctuary in Cedar Hill Cemetery with burial there.

Mr. Margerum, who lived at 437 Emerson st. nw., retired as head engineer for materials in the Navy Bureau of Ordnance in January, 1949, as a result of a heart condition.

He began his Government service at the Naval Gun Factory in 1917, and subsequently was made metallurgist-in-charge at the Naval Ordnance plant in South Charleston, W. Va. Leaving Government service, he worked for several years for General Electric, Westinghouse and Bethlehem Steel before returning to the Government as leading material engineer at the Bureau of Ordnance here.

For his work as consulting metallurgist during World War II he received the Navy's Meritorious Civilian Service Award.

Mr. Margerum was a native of Middletown, Ohio, and a descendant of an old Ohio family. His mother, the late Mrs. Julia Worthington Woodrow Margerum, was a first cousin of President Wilson.

Mr. Margerum, whose wife, the former Eleanor Lee Levick, died in 1948, is survived by a daughter, Mrs. G. A. Chadwick, jr., two grandsons and three sisters.

Mrs. Hetty Bourne Deason, 44, former teacher and Government employe, of 4526 Brandywine st. nw., died early yesterday at Georgetown Hospital. She had been ill for more than a year.

She was the wife or Dr. Hilary J. Deason, chief of the office of foreign activities in the Fish and Wildlife Service.

Born in Parksville, Ky., Mrs. Deason came to Washington about eight years ago. She worked in the FBI and later in the Geological Survey.

Mrs. Deason was a member of the Twentieth Century Club, the American Association of University Women and the Berea Club of Washington.

Michael Williams, 73, Catholic Editor, Dies

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 12 (U.P.). C. Michael Williams, 72, prominent Catholic layman, former newspaperman and one-time editor of the Commonweal, died of heart ailment today.

Williams was city editor of the San Francisco Examiner in 1906 at the time of the great earthquake.

He reported special events for various newspapers, including an investigation of religious persecution in Germany for the New York Herald Tribune in 1933 and the election of Pope Pius XII at Vatican City for the New York Times.

Williams entered religious journalism in 1919 as editor of the National Catholic War Council Bulletin. In 1924 he became editor of the Commonweal, the national Catholic weekly.

ADVERTISING OPPORTUNITY

Here's a chance for a college graduate to get a toehold on the advertising ladder. To start, it's only a messenger's job at $30 a week. Within a few months, the next step will be calling on the retail trade, doing merchandising. After that—probably advertising salesman, but maybe research or production or copy, depending on the man. This is really a good opportunity and we want to give it to the right man. Since it's primarily a stepping stone to selling advertising, don't apply unless you have a sales personality. If in doubt, you haven't.

THE MOST beautiful setting for a home in the United States is fronting River rd., opposite the Congressional Country Club. This beautiful hill was advertised and nobody bought it, although this hill was made by God Almighty and is the most beautiful setting for a home in the world. I advertised it and nobody bought it, so I concluded to build my own home on this hill. 60 years ago when I was a White House milkman I used to drive in the White House every morning at 5 a. m., and never thought that I would have a more beautiful setting for a home than where the President is. If you'll ride out on River rd. and stop your car opposite the entrance to the Congressional Club and study this beautiful setting of this home and then drive by the White House and looking at that setting you'll reserve that the White House lawn is level, it's impossible to make a beautiful setting for a home on a level lot. This home is not for sale, but I have about a mile and a half of beautiful hills adjoining it. These hills front on River and Bradley rds. Drive out there and pick out a setting for your own home and we'll be neighbors there together. You can reach me at my home. Fulton R. Gordon, WO. 0933. Brokers attention.

SHOO-FLY PIE A LA WALDORF
Heres' a picture of the famous Pennsylvania Dutch dessert, as served at the Waldorf-Astoria at the National Food Editors' Conference

APPLE TOPPING—Topping on this apple brown betty is the new dessert mix made with margarine. It was demonstrated at the National Food Editors' Conference in New York this week and the recipe appears on page 8-C

A Great Food Legacy Gets Streamlined

Grandmother Would Be Surprised

By Lucia Brown

WHEN THE TOP FOOD manufacturers in the United States invite the Nation's food editors to dinner, some fabulously good eating is bound to be the result. And that's just what happened this week in New York, where the annual National Food Editors Conference was in session.

From the traditional soup to the traditional nuts, these dinner parties ran the gamut of eating experience. Sturdy dishes from Pennsylvania's famous Dutch kitchens tempted appetites at one meal, while subtle fare like Lobster Newburg bid for attention at the next. Purpose of the de luxe eating marathon, of course, was to provide the food editors, and through them, United States housewives, with the finest recipes perfected in some of America's famous test kitchens.

Our great-grandmothers, who first created some of the wonderful dishes served up during this week-long eating binge, would certainly be surprised to learn what modern food-packing methods have done to ease the housewife's job. Dinners which took all day to prepare a half-century ago can be turned out by the present generation of cooks in a few hours. Even the celebrated complexities of the Pennsylvania Dutch kitchen have been streamlined for today's tables.

APPROPRIATELY ENOUGH, the host at the Pennsylvania Dutch dinner was H. J. Heinz, the pickle man. Remember the "seven sweets and seven sours" of the old-time Pennsylvania dinner table? They were all there on a Lazy Susan, including chow-chow, cucumber pickles, pepper cabbage, schmier kase, cherry jelly, apple sauce et al.

For the main dinner — Served at the Waldorf-Astoria — Mr. Heinz gave us sauerbraten in rich brown gravy, gschmeltz nudle, oven-baked beans, tomatoes, fried eggplant, shoo-fly pie, cheese cake, cider and coffee.

Since begging recipes for Post readers is one of the main pleasures (outside of eating) at these annual epicurean roundups, I got the one for shoo-fly pie. Here's how they make it—"wonderful good," as the Dutch would say:

SHOO-FLY PIE

¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ cup light brown sugar
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon ginger ⅛ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons shortening
1 egg yolk, well beaten
1/3 cup light molasses
1½ teaspoon baking soda, dissolved in 2/3 cup boiling water
1 8-inch unbaked pie shell

Sift together first seven ingredients. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles cornmeal. Combine egg yolk, molasses, and soda dissolved in water.

In pie shell, alternate layers of flour mixture and liquid, having flour mixture as base and topping. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees Fahrenheit) for 10 minutes. Reduce temperature to 350 degrees Fahrenheit and bake 15 minutes or until pie is set.

Turning toward the coast and more high-flown dishes, I'd like to tell you about the lobster featured at the National Fisheries Institute meeting. This was a giant demonstration of seafood cookery in the Flamingo Room of the Waldorf. Skilled chefs from New York's big hotels and restaurants presided at a series of tables, each preparing different types of fish—crabs, clams, scallops, frozen fish, fillets and steaks, anchovies, salmon roe, whole fish, shrimps, and many others.

At the lobster table was Etienne Greaux of the Ritz-Carlton, who gave high points in preparing New England's favorite seafood. Here's the suggested way of boiling lobster, followed by the recipe for Lobster Newburg.

HOW TO BOIL A LOBSTER

Plunge live lobsters into boiling salted water. Let boil 20 to 25 minutes if to be served immediately. For serving cold, cook 15 minutes and leave in water to cool.

Before serving, split lobster, remove sac behind head and the dark vein along back, and crack claws.

To remove claw meat in one piece from the boiled lobster, cut off claw at first joint and break off with small pincer. Lay the big part down on a board and hit it with the cutting side of a large knife about 1 inch from joint. Turn it over and do the same on the other side. Pick up the claw in your left hand and pull off the end with your right. It will separate, and the claw meat will come out in one piece. The re-

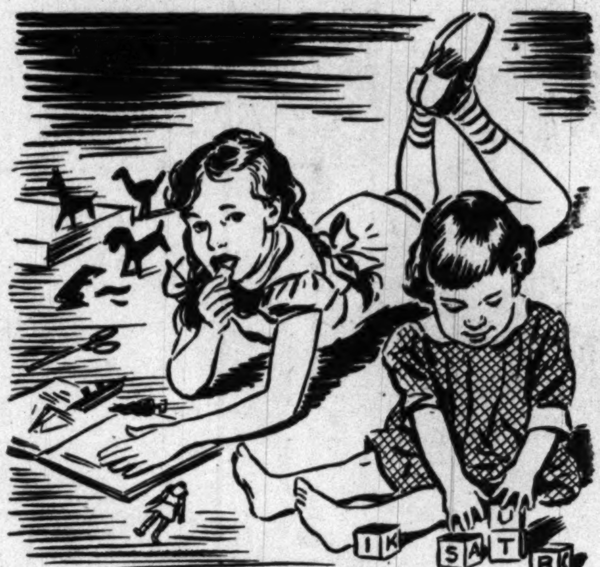
The Toy Box

Tots Need Play Gear Indoors

By Alleis C. Wilson



WITH FROSTY WEATHER near, the indoor play season has begun. This means modified bedlam will be confined within the walls of your home instead of being scattered throughout the neighborhood. It can lead to an assortment of shouts, yells and songs enough to unnerve the most patient mother, or it can result in mischief-breeding boredom for children.

One of the best ways to combat this problem is to keep the minds and fingers of the younger set busy. It requires some ingenuity, plus some toys and games chosen from the pre-Christmas stocks in children's shops and toy areas in the Washington area.

A very small "small fry" can be entertained for hours by a musical animal. These are available in everything from cuddly kittens and sleepy dogs to engaging bears and perky squirrels. One pink and white bunny offers a tinkly rendition of "Come Away With Me, Lucille" (Woodward & Lothrop—$3.95). A roly-poly teddy bear plays "Rockabye Baby" to soothe a tiny child to sleep (Lansburgh's—$5.95).

THE PRICES RANGE upward to suit the buyer's fancy and purse. These toys will probably require some supervision although they are fairly indestructible. They also need at least the part-time services of an adult for winding.

If your toddler prefers independent play, he may want a few of the many educational toys that are now available. The stocks of these seem to be ever-changing and inexhaustible. A current favorite among 2-year-olds is a bright orange wooden carrier with a half-dozen wooden milk bottles.

Your tiny milkman can make endless deliveries to the stairs, the refrigerator, the big chair or the desk. Used as an outside toy, it is inevitable that some of the bottles will find their way into a neighbor's milk box. (Play Center, Inc.—$2).

THE KINDERGARTEN crowd still loves blocks and more blocks. The age for building castles may be a little dated but modern children can erect skyscrapers, apartment houses, subways and even trains. With a medium-sized set a pre-school child can build a world in which to play and imagine.

Here again the price you wish to pay will guide the purchase. One set, designed for use in organized kindergartens, is priced at $25 (F. A. O. Schwarz). At the other end of the price scale, a 4-year-old can build a city of structures with several sets of dominoes priced at 29 cents each.

As the child becomes aware of numbers, he will enjoy playing with large numerals. House numbers (5 cents each at any ten-cent store) are ideal and inexpensive. They will teach an interested child to recognize numbers but it would be well to leave the mysteries of mathematics to the first-grade teacher.

ONE MANUFACTURER offers a "Numeral Puzzle" made of durable three-eighths-inch plywood. The frame is yellow with eyecatching red and blue numerals which lift out individually and then fit back into their proper places. (F. A. O. Schwarz—$3).

Bright sewing cards will solve an afternoon entertainment problem for the youngster who wants to "sew like Mother does." A box of four simple cards and yarn strings for "sewing" costs 25 cents at G. C. Murphy's. The threads can be strung and unstrung endlessly.

Schools and kindergartens have aptly called handwork with construction paper, crayons and scissors "busy work." And the stationery and dime stores hold a multitude of helpful materials for the mother who is doubling as kindergarten teacher for her own offspring.

A LARGE PACKAGE of construction paper (25c or 50c) will entertain children for a good part of a rainy day. Most little folks can be kept busy making paper loop chains as long as the paper holds out. Little girls will enjoy making paper boxes and baskets and little boys will go for folded paper "planes" that can be airplanes, jets or rockets.

Another favorite type of "busy work" is the sticker book or sticker poster. A box of the posters includes outline pictures with strips of colored objects—boats, flowers, children, trees, etc.—printed on gummed paper. The child only has to cut them out, lick them like a postage stamp, and place them over the corresponding outline on the poster (Wm. Ballantyne & Sons Book Store—$1).

A less expensive version is the book available at F. W. Woolworths for 15c. The results are very satisfying to the youngster who has mastered the use of small scissors. And mother can relax because the child will have the fun of pasting without getting paste on the living room rug.

THE PUBLISHERS of the Little Golden Books (25c) have added a new attraction to some of their children's books. Inside the back cover, in jigsaw puzzle form, is one of the pictures from the story. This will please young jigsaw fans.

Books in this same price group also make attractive decoration for a child's room. Pages from the books can be slipped into small frames and placed around the room low enough for the little people to examine them. If the reading material is included, the bedtime story can be read right off the wall.

AN ATOMIC REPEATING pistol seems destined to become a favorite among gun-toting boys. These are loaded with a half-dozen ping pong balls which, according to the manufacturer, are "harmless to light bulbs and bric-a-brac." (The Hecht Co.—pistols, $1.50; rifles, $4.98).

Had you thought home movies were immune to popcorn vendors? If so, you are mistaken. A popcorn popper, shapped like the glass-topped vending machines in theater lobbies, is now available locally. If you have a young businessman in the house, the price ($10.95) may be only the beginning. You may have to buy hot buttered popcorn from Junior every evening while televiewing (The Hecht Co.).

Joseph C. Grew To Speak At Holton-Arms Dinner

PRINCIPAL SPEAKER at the fiftieth anniversary dinner of Holton-Arms School and Junior College to be held October 18 at the Chevy Chase Club will be Joseph C. Grew, former Ambassador to Japan and former Acting Secretary of State, who is one of the sponsors of the school's anniversary observance.

Master of ceremonies will be Mr. William P. MacCracken, jr., chairman of the anniversary committee which is directing plans for a fund-raising campaign coupled with the opening of the school's new recreation center to be known as the Jessie Moon Holton Building.

Judge Brice Clagett, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the school, will also address campaign workers at the dinner bent on raising sufficient funds to liquidate a loan which made immediate construction of the gymnasium and recreation center possible. In addition to features by students of the school, there will be a musical program under direction of Jack Morton and his trio.

Sponsors include, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Grew: Mrs. Alben W. Barkley, Mrs. Omar Bradley, Gen. and Mrs. Clifton B. Cates, Associate Justice and Mrs. Thomas C. Clark, Ambassador of Pakistan and Mme. Ispahani, Sen. and Mrs. Burnet Maybank, Sen. and Mrs. Brien McMahon, Mrs. Arthur MacArthur, His Royal Highness the Prince Wan Waithayakon and Princess Wan.

Chairman of the committee on dinner arrangements is Mrs. Atherton Macondray.

St. Luke's Guild Plans Historic Virginia Tour

A 25-MILE TOUR of the less known historic landmarks of George Washington Country, has been planned for Saturday by the Ladies Guild of St. Luke's Protestant Episcopal Church at Wellington, Va. Transportation will be provided without extra cost, if desired, and "caravans" will start from the George Mason Hotel, in Alexandria and also from the church, at 1 and 2 p. m

Featured will be the original Spinning House of Old Hollin Hall, now the attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. John E. McPherson. It was built by Thomas Mason, son of George Mason of Gunston Hall, and author of the Virginia Bill of Rights.

Another early landmark to be visited is the Quaker House, below Mount Vernon, which is the home of Brig Gen. and Mrs. J. F. Phillips. A stop will be made at Washington's Old Grist Mill, restored in 1930 by the State of Virginia, and now under the supervision of the Future Farmers of America. Tower House, headquarters of the Baraca-Philathea Societies, overlooks the Potomac River from the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway. way.

OF PARTICULAR INTEREST are the ruins of Belvoir, home of William Fairfax and his son, George William Fairfax, associate of George Washington. The Fairfaxes were the ruling family of that time, and Belvoir estate was the social center of the northern area of Virginia. The ruins of the mansion were uncovered when Fort Belvoir post was established during World War I

Beautiful Pohick Church, built through the generous support of both George Washington and George Mason, will be visited. Washington's old slave quarters will be seen.

AS A CLIMAX tea will be served to the members of the tour at Woodlawn Mansion.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Divorcee Is Sometimes Afraid She'll Never Find Love Again; But If She Does She Would Probably Run From the Man; She Wants to Understand Self

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a divorcee, 30, and have a 5-year-old son who lives with me in my parents' home and goes to kindergarten. His father is happily remarried and I have a good job. I never loved my husband, we were extremely incompatible and the marriage was unhappy.

Before marriage I was madly in love with a man who didn't care sufficiently for me to cinch the situation with marriage. Also I was terrified before our every meeting, really frantic, and never could relax and let him see how much I cared for him. After my divorce there was another man I liked but did not love, and I often dreaded to face him, too. He attracted me physically and entertained me and seemed fond of me, but never said so. We broke up and, although I miss him, I hope we never meet again.

I have undergone psychiatric therapy and the doctor feels I am well adjusted, but I know no more now than before I started. I didn't tell the psychiatrist about either of these two men, as my problem was one of maladjustment, and the subject of sex is rather provocative. Besides, even a psychiatrist isn't pleased to hear about the effects of another man on a woman.

At the time of my divorce I hoped eventually to remarry and fulfill my nature, but I am still waiting. I've had a few dates and one rather serious man friend whom I didn't like at all. Nightclubs aren't interesting when you've seen as many as I have, nor is another loveless marriage, for security, appealing. What I want, naturally, is emotional release and peace of mind which I cannot obtain except through love and companionship, no matter how hard I try to sublimate.

I've related myself to various activities and persons, and assume virtue, enthusiasm and happiness, when I don't feel it. I never seem able to rise above inner dissatisfaction and restlessness. At times I am afraid I'll never meet anyone else to love; yet if I do, I'm afraid I'd lack the confidence to interest him and attain his love. I might just run from him. I feel apathetic, irritable and useless. Can you explain me to myself, so I will understand and know what to do? C. S.

DEAR C. S.: Your references to your bout with psychiatric therapy are illuminating. You say you know no more now than you did before. But also you admit you didn't discuss your love affairs with the doctor—because "even a psychiatrist isn't pleased to hear about the effects of another man on a woman."

It well may be that a psychiatrist is just as male as any other man; but even so it's part of his professional work to keep his emotions in scientific alignment in treating a patient, and all competent psychiatrists know and do that. A patient is cheating himself and blocking the doctor, making progress impossible, when he deliberately fails to put cards on the table for clinical inspection. That's what you were doing in this situation.

In being as tactful with the doctor as if he were "just any man," you were fishing for romantic allegiance, unconsciously at least, instead of cooperating in a frank diagnostic assessment of factors and symptoms involved in your longstanding precarious maladjustment to the male sex. And possibly the doctor let the case slide, with a pat on the back, in recognition of your rigid unreadiness to work for insight.

It is a very large order to try to explain you to yourself, but as I get the drift, you have a terribly damaged estimate of your worth. Unconsciously you feel abandoned, threatened, frightened, despicable. You lack the healthy sense of being "as good as the next person." You are a self-rejecting soul. Thus the magic possibility of romantic love appeals as your only hope of being vested with virtue and dignity and brought inside the circle of human devotion.

Men, therefore, seem too mightily important when you deal with them, especially men you could care for; and in relation to these you make every mistake in the book, so that they think you completely unstable and don't dare get close to you psychologically.

What to do about this? The natural remedy is mate love and companionship, which affords opportunity for emotional release and personal fulfillment, as you say. But before you can attract and participate in a good married relationship, you've got to get your house in order, emotionally. This will require highly intelligent, patiently persevering work with a good psychoanalyst, to evaporate your fears and give you the pitch of honest self respecting human interchange. There is no "escapist" route to peace of mind for you. M. H.

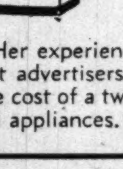
Post Ad Sells Gas Range and Refrigerator Before 9:45 A. M.



Mrs. J. R. of 35th Street N.W. sold a refrigerator and a gas range before 9:45 A. M. on Thursday as a result of her four-line Post ad.
Mrs. R. reported that she sold both items to the first person who called. Her investment of $1.32 paid off handsomely and immediately.
Her experience is being duplicated every day by Post advertisers who are spending as little as 66c (the cost of a two-line ad) to sell unneeded furniture and appliances.

LOBSTER NEWBURG

2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon flour
2 cups cream
2 cups lobster meat, cooked and cubed
3 egg yolks, well beaten
¼ cup sherry
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon salt

Melt butter in saucepan, add flour and stir until smooth. Gradually add cream and stir until blended. Bring mixture slowly to boiling point. Let simmer gently, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens (about 1 minute). Add lobster meat. Bring to boiling point again. Beat egg yolks and sherry together. Add a little of the hot mixture to egg, then stir egg mixture into lobster sauce. Add pepper and salt. Pour into scallop shells or ramekins and brown under broiler. Serves 6.

A NEW HOMEMADE dessert mix was introduced by Best Foods, Inc., makers of Nucoa margarine. You can keep it in a jar in your refrigerator, ready for instant use in making a variety of sauces, icings and toppings. What it does is to get the first step in making desserts done all at one time, so that you needn't repeat it everytime you serve a dessert.

BASIC DESSERT MIX: Let 1 cup margarine stand in a bowl until soft, then cream thoroughly. Add 3 cups confectioners' sugar, beating smooth after each addition. Add 2 unbeaten eggs and beat well. Add 3 more cups confectioners' sugar gradually and continue beating until mixture is light and fluffy. Makes 1 quart mix.

SAUCES: For mocha sauce, add 3 tablespoons cocoa and 2 tablespoons strong coffee to 1 cup mix. For lemon sauce, add 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind to 1 cup mix. For brandy sauce, add 2 to 3 tablespoons brandy to 1 cup mix. For chocolate sauce, add 2 squares melted chocolate to 1 cup mix.

CREAMY BANANA TOPPING: 1 cup dessert mix, 2 to 4 tablespoons milk, ½ teaspoon lemon juice, 2 medium bananas, sliced. Add milk to mix, beat until fluffy. Add lemon juice. Spread between layers of gingerbread, top with sliced bananas. Cover top of gingerbread with frosting and more sliced bananas. Enough for filling and frosting for 8-inch cake.

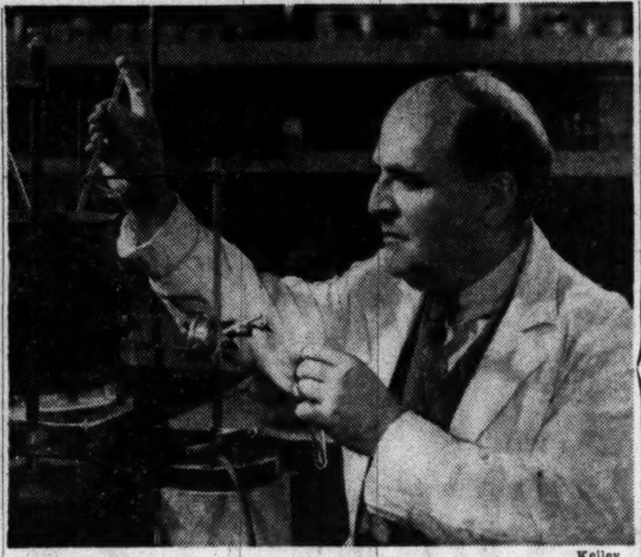
Here's a Fish Story Loaded With Nutrition

This is the eighth in a series of Friday features written by research experts in the American food industry.

By Dr. Ernst Geiger

Head, Van Camp Research Laboratories Division of the Van Camp Sea Foods Co., Inc.



Kelley

DR. ERNST GEIGER, at work in his nutrition research laboratory

PEOPLE HAVE EATEN fish since ancient times, either as a substitute for meat, or as a food required by religious traditions, or sometimes as a delicacy for gourmets. But nutritionally, fish was regarded as just no equivalent to butchers' meat.

The attention of nutritionists was first attracted to fish in the early part of this century when it was recognized as a valuable source of Vitamins A and D, and, during the first World War, due to the critical meat shortage, fish had to be considered as an important source of protein.

Stimulated by these early investigations, in the last few years several laboratories all over the world investigated the food value of fish and today it is pretty well established that fish is a source of an excellent protein which is as good, or—according to some investigators—even better than the protein in beef. Our laboratory participated actively in this type of research.

RECOGNITION OF THIS value in fish coincided with recent recognition in medical research that not only under normal conditions but especially in diseases our diet has to contain satisfactory amounts of first-class protein such as meat, milk or egg.

In many diseases, however, certain substances present in these foods must be avoided. For instance, in diabetes or in reducing diets, fat and oil should be avoided, and in certain diseases of the heart and blood vessels, the diet should be free of salt and cholesterol.

People who have been put on special diets because of such diseases naturally have a very restricted choice of foods. Some have to get their protein in the form of well-boiled meat and cottage cheese or some tasteless protein concentrates.

WELL AWARE OF THESE conditions, we wondered whether the excellent protein found in tuna couldn't somehow be utilized for such special diets.

After a careful investigation of the different tuna varieties and examination of the canning methods, a new "special purpose" food has been developed which is packed without the addition of fat or salt, has a very low cholesterol content but which contains all the excellent protein and preserves the pleasant flavor of tuna.

This "dietetic tuna" was put on the market several months ago and it has been a real satisfaction for us in the laboratory to see its enthusiastic reception by the public and the medical profession.

Another product which was also developed by nutritional research in our laboratory has been recently introduced as the first baby food made from fish. This product also illustrates how nutritional research leads to the development of new food products, and its story should, therefore, be told very briefly.

IN THE COURSE OF experiments on the evaluation of tuna protein we found that young weaning animals grew particularly well when fed tuna meat. This suggested the possibility of developing from tuna a strained food especially suited for the feeding of babies. Further incentive for this project was that tuna contains several substances which are not present at all, or only in much lower quantities, in other strained meats. Such substances are fluorine which, consumed in early life, helps to prevent dental decay later on; iodine, which prevents the development of goiter; and other growth factors.

At the start of these experiments some physicians tried to discourage us because they thought it would be difficult to feed fishy material to babies. We proceeded, however, and these doctors and many mothers were delighted to learn what so many others knew already—that tuna doesn't taste like fish. It just tastes like tuna—it has a pleasant and incomparable flavor.

So—the babies like it and we in the research department are gratified to know that we contributed another important food for the feeding of infants and of people who have to live on soft diets.

Sisters Will Be Honored

Two Washingtonians will be special guests of Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa., when it celebrates its eightieth aniversary this weekend. They are the Misses Mary and Elizabeth Wightman, daughters of the late Dr. James W. Wightman, who helped found the college and became its first president when it opened on October 12, 1870.

Another sister, Mrs. Thomas A. Mellon of Pittsburgh, Pa., will also be present. One of the features of the celebration will be an address by Senator H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey, who will speak on "Wilson College and the World Today."

The Washington Alumni Club of Wilson College will be represented by Mrs. John H. Wanner of Alexandria, its president, and Mrs. Margaret W. Moore of Arlington. Over 100 Wilson alumni reside in the Washington area.

NEW QUICK-MIX RECIPE
MOLASSES ALL-BRAN MUFFINS
No creaming, no egg-beating — one easy mixing this Kellogg-quick way!

1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran	½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk	½ cup New Orleans Molasses
1 cup sifted flour	1 egg
1 teaspoon baking powder	2 tablespoons soft shortening
½ teaspoon baking soda	½ cup seedless raisins

1. Combine All-Bran and milk in mixing bowl.
2. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda and salt into same bowl. Add molasses, egg, shortening, raisins. Stir only until combined.
3. Fill greased muffin pans ⅔ full, or for pan bread spread in greased 8" x 8" pan. Bake in preheated moderately hot oven (400°F.) 20 to 25 minutes. (Slightly longer for pan bread.) Makes 12 medium muffins, or 9 squares of bread.

Experiment Edna

Hair Magic Can Change The Shape of the Face

By Ann Lawrence

Sixth day of Edna's 14-day beauty program

RE-SHAPING EDNA'S HAIR was a question . . . as it is for so many women who are dissatisfied with their present hair-cut and style . . . of camouflaging mistakes and making-do with the hair as it is.

(Do remember that it is next to impossible for a hair-dresser to correct mistakes—a bad cut, unhealthy hair, etc.—in one visit. It takes time for your hair to grow, time for you to recondition it.)

Actually, Edna's hair is too short for her long face. Longer hair would soften her features. Because her hair is very thick and coarse, it should never be close-cropped, since short hair always has more width and tends to stand out from the head in a bulky mass.

But we wanted to prove to her that, even so, a becoming hair-do was possible.

THE FIRST STEP which Hair Stylist Victor Vito undertook was to lengthen the looks of her hair with a slightly-slanted side part. By this part, he distributed the longest strands more evenly over her head.

Then he thinned the hair through the crown of the head, lifting one strand, full length, and thinning from the top of the head almost to the ends. Thus there was no wispy stubble to crop up through the smooth-crowned effect we were trying to achieve.

Even though it meant sacrificing precious length, he did shorten the ends of Edna's hair, with blunt strokes . . . so that there would be bulky ends to spring away from the head into curls.

BECAUSE HER FOREHEAD is narrow and low, more height and width were needed to bring her face into better balance. And so, hair at her temples was cut away to widen her forehead. (This same effect might be achieved by electrolysis or actually plucking the offending hairs with tweezers.)

As the space was increased between her eyes and her hairline, her nose was fore-shortened. Another trick to diminish her rather long nose: A soft bang on the forehead which acts as an eye-stopper and does not permit the beholder's eye to travel in long, unbroken lines.

Pushing the hair straight back from her forehead would only serve to lengthen her nose, although it would heighten her forehead. This was a compromise attempt to raise the forehead line and at the same time, decrease the length of the nose.

The DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Some Friendly Lines To a Pair of Guys

The occasional squabbles between the Treasury Department and the Federal Reserve Board have kept Washington reporters busy for some time. Our own Alfred Friendly, who is sometimes called upon to cover such stories, composed these lines while waiting for a recent press conference:

There once was a fellow named
Snyder
Who spun out his web like a spider.
In spite of the heckles
Of Marriner Eccles
His power grew wider and wider.

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

I have been going to George Washington University Hospital quite frequently of late, to visit a friend, and usually take a cab from downtown.

Most of the time I'm charged 30 cents (one zone). But sometimes I'm delivered to the entrance on the far side and charged 50 cents (two zones).

I suppose this is because the hospital is just at the dividing line between the first and second zones. But I think it's a shoddy practice, and possibly contrary to regulations. Is it?

Name Withheld

Dear Sir:

Pvt. George Clarke in the Hack Inspector's office cited the rule for me, like this:

You must be taken beyond the building line on the far side of 22d st. (or any street which serves to divide one zone from another) before the driver may charge you for an extra zone.

If you merely pull up to the curb on the far side of the boundary street, you're still in the same zone.

What's more, Hack Inspector Thomas T. Heffernan takes a dim view of drivers who employ petty technicalities to charge extra fare. He once told me:

"Even if the cab deposits its passenger a few feet beyond the legal line—for example, one or two doors beyond the corner—I don't think it's right to jump the fare, and very few of our hackers do it."

Some do, of course—probably because they've had no fare increase in many years and they're hard pressed to rake in every penny they can, to meet increased costs.

However, I've found that most hackers have given me the benefit of the doubt on close calls. So I've tipped them the 20 cents they could have gotten by being technical, and that left both of us happy. Bill.

WE'RE A NATION OF BUILDERS

If I ran a supermarket, I think I would be sorely tempted to ban all children under 6.

Inasmuch as most mothers have no place to park their kids when they go marketing, my store would probably go bankrupt in a hurry.

Then I could start looking for some other kind of work—and that's undoubtedly what many a grocer has contemplated as he's watched the kids make a mess of his stock.

A modern supermarket is a veritable fairyland for young children. The thousands of brightly colored cans and boxes of various sizes and shapes are irresistible to those age groups which have been taught to play with blocks. And while mama is busy filling her cart, you can see youngsters building not only houses but giant apartment projects with these ready-made ingredients.

Of course this results in a certain rearrangement of the stock, with the cream of mushroom soup sometimes winding up atop the soap chips, and the breakfast foods serving as a solid base under a tower of extra fancy peas.

Personally, I don't mind such mild disorder. It helps make a game of shopping which might otherwise tend to be a bore. But store managers are fussy about their displays, and they'd probably appreciate it if we'd keep a more watchful eye on our kids while marketing.

One good reason for cooperating with them is that it might save us money. I've often seen children add articles to the grocery cart while mama's back was turned—and who among us is alert enough to catch such things at the check-out stand while the cash register is ringing out the sad news that another paycheck has been mortally wounded?

Crime Probe Reaches Into Mafia Lists

By Drew Pearson

Senator Kefauver's determination to investigate the Mafia requires a lot more courage than appears on the surface. Not only is it dangerous from the point of view of personal safety, but it is dangerous politically. For the Mafia has friends and protectors in very high places.

Pearson

President Truman had no idea what was happening, and probably his naive military aide, Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, did not suspect it, but the Mafia was making a play for White House pull through the late William Helis, close friend and partner of Frankie Costello. The Senate Expenditures Committee was in the throes of unearthing real dynamite in regard to this during the Maragon-Vaughan investigation, when the hearings ended.

How the Mafia pulls wires in high places is illustrated by Sylvestro Carolla, New Orleans hatchet man for Louisiana's Mafia chief, Marcello, who helps operate Costello's gambling joints in and around New Orleans. Carolla's son, Anthony, is married to Marcello's niece, Maria Zaniatta, who came to the United States from Italy on a visitor's permit in 1947, but strangely has been allowed to remain here ever since. Obviously she could not have done so without political pull.

Carolla was convicted in 1921 for bootlegging, and spent a year and a day in Atlanta; was sentenced again in 1931 to 24 months for violating the narcotics law; and in 1933 was sentenced to 8 to 15 years at hard labor for attempted murder. However, the Mafia has pull. And, 1 year after the attempted murder, Carolla was given a full parden by the Governor of Louisiana.

Two years later, in January, 1936, Carolla was slapped into Atlanta on a 5-year sentence for a narcotics violation, and this time the Federal Government finally decided he was not a useful citizen and ordered him deported. Whereupon Congressman James Morrison of Louisiana came to his rescue, introducing a series of private bills to keep him in this country. However, Carolla's record was too black even for political pull, and on April 30, 1947, he was deported from Boston by plane.

Two years later, he turned up in Mexico, operating out of Acapulco, having been ordered there by Lucky Luciano personally. And on July 4, 1950, Carolla was picked up in New Orleans, right back in his old stamping ground.

Here is the hitherto unpublished roll call on more of the Mafia leaders, the most powerful rulers of crime in the United States:

Frank Cappola, alias "Three-Fingered Frank"—Cappola was prominent in the New Orleans Mafia, then showed up in Kansas City, where he was linked with the late Charley Binaggio. In fact, Binaggio aided Cappola to resist deportation in 1930 but failed. Cappola was deported but came back again, in May, 1949, with Binaggio on his $2000 deportation bond.

Cappola set up headquarters in Tijuana, Mexico, and in 1949 Binaggio made an interesting trip to Mexico, stopping off to visit Cappola in Tijuana and Carolla in Acapulco. Once the Tijuana chief of police, Francisco Kraus, raided Cappola's headquarters in a Tijuana motel, and found with him Frank Bompenserio, a San Diego tavern owner and business associate of Jack Dragna, boss of the California Mafia.

Sam Maceo of Galveston—Before 1920, Maceo was a humble Galveston barber. But he broke into the bootlegging racket, graduated to dope smuggling, then muscled into the gambling rackets, and now owns Galveston night clubs, bars and two hotels. Maceo is also a power in Texas politics. Born in Italy in 1894, his criminal record shows no convictions, only an acquittal on a New York narcotics rap October 24, 1942.

Biaggio Angelica of Houston—Is Maceo's subordinate in the Mafia, has been linked with Maceo in narcotics smuggling, was sentenced to 10 years and fined $2000 on a narcotics rap at Houston, October 20, 1938; was sentenced to another 8 years' imprisonment at Galveston January 10, 1940, and still another 2 years at New York City October 10, 1942, both on narcotics violations Incidentally, the New York narcotics case was the same one in which Maceo was mixed up

Joe Di Giovanni, alias Joe Church, Kansas City—Is Mafia chief in the Kansas City area, coming there from Brooklyn. Di Giovanni has been the big boss over such better-known bosses as Joe de Luca and the late Charles Binaggio. Di Giovanni's front is the Di Giovanni Wholesale Liquor Company. Di Giovanni's criminal history goes back to 1915 and includes arrests for everything from murder to rape, but he has never been convicted.

Joe De Luca, Kansas City—Is in charge of the narcotics branch of the Kansas City Mafia. He was arrested for bootlegging in Kansas City December 17, 1930; sentenced to 3 years for dope smuggling, Kansas City, March 27, 1943; got out on parole after serving only 1 year, violated the parole by selling whisky across the Missouri State line, then got out on parole again after another month. Both paroles were arranged by former Congressman Tuck Milligan.
